BRITON PLEADS GUILTY AS SPY IN SOVIET TRIAL

Names Countrymen as Accomplices.

[Copyright, 1933, By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, April 12.—The trial of six Britons, employés of the British Metropolitan Vickers Electrical company, began with a sensation today. William MacDonald, one of the accused Britons, pleaded guilty to charges of espionage, sabotage, bribery, and conspiracy.

His "yes" to a query by the presiding judge, V. Ulrich, brought a gasp of astonishment from the audience. "To all charges:" the judge asked, and again came a muttered "Yes."

The other Englishmen on trial pleaded not guilty. They are Allan Monkhouse, director of the company's business in Russia; Charles Nordwell, L. C. Thornton, A. W. Gregory, and John Cushny. They face death if found guilty.

Eleven Russians Plead Guilty.

Eleven Russian employés of the company, who also went on trial, pleaded guilty. One accused Russian, M. Vitvitski, was absent owing to illness.

During the interval that followed the pleas of the accused there was excited discussion among foreign diplomats. Their general impression seemed to be that Sir Esmond Ovey, the British ambassador, and his government had been placed in an awkward position by MacDonald.

The British government recently made public official reports from Sir Esmond in which the ambassador charged that the G. P. U. [soviet secret police] had used "third degree" methods on the prisoners. The ambassador said he was confident the six Britons were not guilty of the charges made against them. The British government also has announced that if the accused men are not given what it considers a fair trial an embargo will be declared against soviet goods. A bill giving the government power to do this has been passed by the British parliament.

Witness Says He Got Bribe.

The prosecution's first witness today, V. A. Gusev, director of the Zlatoust electrical station in the Urals, testified that MacDonald had given him 3,000 rubles [nominally about $1,500] to obtain for him data on military and economic aspects of the Zlatoust plant. Later MacDonald admitted that "I paid him money and I got that money from Thornton."

Thornton, while admitting that he gave MacDonald 1,500 rubles, said he did not know what MacDonald was going to do with the money nor that Gusev was supplying MacDonald with secret information.

Gusev was the prosecution's only witness today. He is a 35 year old man, slightly stooped. He said he had long harbored anti-soviet ideas, but that now he saw the error of his ways and would like to repent and be forgiven.

Bayonets Guard Court.

What a contrast to American procedure is ithis soviet Supreme court! A long, low room, the former dining room of the Nobles' club, with blue walls, ornate Ionic columns and a white frieze of dancing figures, giving an effect like Wedgwood china.

At the end of the hall there is a low dais with red draped tables for the judges in the middle. On the judges' right there is a small red table for the prosecutor, and on their left a square wooden box with chairs for the prisoners, before whom sit the eight defense lawyers crowded at two small tables.

Two guards with fixed bayonets and a number of uniformed G. P. U. officers stand between the entrance door at the rear and the prisoners' box.

Diplomats Watch Trial.

Exactly at noon the five Englishmen out on bail entered the box, followed six minutes later by the rest of the prisoners, including MacDonald. Meanwhile, Prosecutor Audrey Vishinsky, a thick set man with pincenez glasses, blond hair, and a mustache, and dressed in a blue business suit with a white collar and blue tie, came in and shook hands with the defense counsel.

At 12:07 the court entered, led by the presiding judge, dressed in a blue civilian suit and a brown collar and tie. The spectators, about 600 persons, including representatives of the diplomatic corps and the press, rose to their feet as Judge Ulrich declared the court open.

Unlike previous big trials, there were no loud speakers for broadcast nor batteries of lamps for photographers.

WEALTH FACES CONFISCATION IN MINNESOTA

Gov. Olson Demands Tax for Relief.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—[Special.]—Governor Floyd B. Olson, speaking to a group of several hundred persons on the steps of the state capitol, today threatened to declare martial law and confiscate wealth unless the legislature takes steps to pass relief legislation. Gov. Olson was elected on the Farmer-Labor ticket.

The chief executive loosened an attack against the "conservative" state senate and also included many other legislators, contending "proper" legislation to provide immediate relief as well as future relief was being held up.

Stating he was "making a last appeal," Governor Olson said that unless such legislation is passed he would declare martial law and bring in by provost guard "people now fighting the legislation because they happen to possess considerable wealth."

Present Demands to Legislature.

These persons, he said, would be "obliged to give up more" than they would now if martial law were declared. The group to which he spoke had come to the capitol to submit relief demands to the legislature which included:

Unemployment insurance at the expense of the state and employer and "adequate" cash relief for the idle.

Moratorium of foreclosures of farmers and smaller home owners.

Stopping of evictions of idle.

Free seed and feed for the live stock of farmers.

Protest against forced labor and wage cutting and against sales taxes.

Exemption of taxation for the idle and for farmers and a graduated income tax on employers, bankers, and public utility corporations.

Says Relief Is Held Up.

The threat of a possible martial law was made by the governor after he had stated there is an immediate need for funds to provide food, clothing, and shelter for the unfortunates.

He stated that a bill which would permit local communities to take care of their own situation by lifting the tax restrictions and permitting them to issue bonds for relief work is "being held up so far as I know" in the senate.

"I am making a last appeal to the legislature," Gov. Olson said. "If the legislature, and the senate in particular, does not make ample provision for the sufferers in the state, who through no fault of their own are in that condition, and the federal government refuses to aid, as it properly may because of the refusal of the state legislature to handle the situation, and the communities become unable to take care of the people, I shall invoke the powers I hold and I shall declare martial law."

Talks of Provost Guard.

"A lot of people who are now fighting the measures because they happen to possess considerable wealth will be brought in by provost guard and be obliged to give up more than they would now.

"As long as I sit in the governor's chair there is not going to be misery in the state if I can humanly prevent it."

In speaking of the proposed unemployment insurance bill, which has now been passed by the house and is before the senate, Gov. Olson said it was a challenge to the backers of the present form of "capitalistic government" to decide whether they will do something for the future, "although they refuse to do anything for the present."

Tax Stand Assailed.

The governor also assailed the senate for its attitude on the statutory income tax and employment insurance bills.

"I have almost convinced myself," he asserted, "that it is impossible to remodel the present capitalistic system into anything that will afford common happiness. I never said the insurance bill would help the present situation; I merely asked those who support the capitalistic system what they would concede for the future. They have steadfastly refused to promise anything for the future. If it is impossible to change this system so it will provide any measure of common happiness I shall be the first to hope this system will go down into hell."

The governor admonished the crowd to be orderly and logical in presenting demands for legislation, reminding members of his audience they had full right under the constitution to petition any branch of government for redress. However, he said, if order were not maintained, "the constitutional lawyers in the state senate will

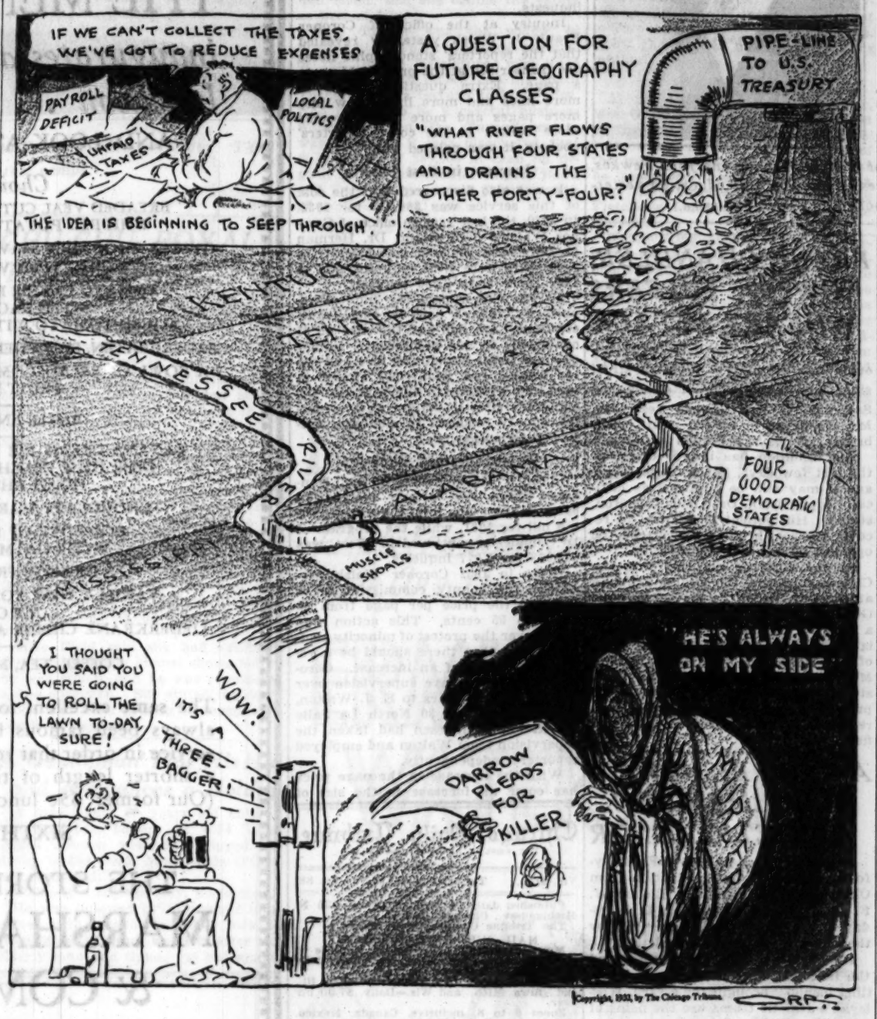
SKETCHES OF THE NEWS



President Asks States to Vote Fair Pay Laws

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Hitting at both ends of the wage problem, President Roosevelt today first voiced an opinion that the employment situation demands the institution of shorter work days, and then went out in strong advocacy of a minimum wage law.

The latter move was taken by the President in a telegram he sent to the governors of thirteen industrial states urging them to take steps toward the adoption of legislation similar to the minimum wage law just passed by the New York legislature.

Text of His Message.

The telegram, sent to the governors of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Maryland, Delaware, North Carolina, Alabama, and New Hampshire, read as follows:

"May I call your attention to minimum wage law just passed by legislature of New York and approved by Gov. Lehman, which declares it against public policy for any employer to pay women or minors a wage which is 'both less than the fair and reasonable value of services rendered and less than sufficient to meet the ultimate cost of living necessary for health.' This represents a great forward step against lowering of wages which constitutes a serious form of unfair competition against other employés, reduces the purchasing power of the workers, and threatens the stability of industry. I hope that similar action can be taken by the other states for protection of the public interests."

Not for Fixed Limit.

President Roosevelt's position on a shorter work week is not in direct support of the 30 hour Black bill passed by the senate and now before the house, in that he does not favor a fixed limit of 30 hours' work per week. The bill would have articles manufactured in plants where workers toil more than 30 hours barred from interstate commerce.

The President believes the bill should be amended so as to provide an elasticity under which varying limits may be applied to different industries. His whole purpose, it is said, is to spread employment over as large a number of persons as is possible in certain factories and certain industries.

The administration attitude is stated to be "exploratory" and it aims at a permanent system under which the evils of overproduction may be prevented.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association today presented to Secretaries Perkins and Roper a strong plea that the Black bill be defeated, on the ground that instead of reducing unemployment it would increase it by "further dislocating and disrupting industry."

ROOSEVELT ACTS SAVING BILLION ON 1934 BUDGET

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—After less than six weeks in office, the Roosevelt administration apparently is attaining its economy goal.

Figures obtained here today indicate that a total of $1,020,000,000 of the 1934 appropriations voted at the last session of congress will not be spent because of the sweeping economic measures effected or projected by President Roosevelt and his aids.

President Roosevelt's campaign speeches promised a reduction of 25 per cent, which was asserted by critics to be impossible of fulfillment. If the economies in sight now are actually carried out the President will have lowered the $4,000,000,000 running expenses of the government by 31 per cent.

The approximate figures of the savings already effected and those definitely decided on can be tabulated as follows:

Veterans' benefits	$ 400,000,000
Adjust service certificates reserve omitted this year	50,000,000
Veterans' administration	20,000,000
Army	80,000,000
Navy	45,000,000
Postoffice	75,000,000
Federal salary cuts	100,000,000
Departmental reorganization	250,000,000
Total	$1,020,000,000

Court to Rule on Removal of Baby's Eye

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Whether the state shall compel a mother to subject her 2 year old baby to an operation which physicians admit may be fatal will be decided soon by the Appellate division in Brooklyn. This was revealed today. Physicians say the child surely will die if not operated on.

The court has been asked to review an appeal from an order signed by Judge George W. Smyth of the Westchester Children's court permitting physicians to remove an eye and part of the optic nerve of Helen Vasko, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vasko of Hastings-on-Hudson.

Will Set Precedent.

Judge Smyth himself ordered the appeal to test the validity of his own order. No similar case ever has been decided by the courts.

"Judge Smyth was informed by Dr. Angelo J. Smith, a Yonkers eye specialist, that the child would have about an even chance to survive the operation, but that she certainly would die unless the eye was removed. He said a malignant growth eventually would affect the child's brain and cause a "disagreeable death."

Mother Won't Consent.

The child's mother has refused the pleadings of physicians, courts and Catholic priests to permit the operation. In a hearing before Judge Smyth last month, it was disclosed, she was asked if she would rather have her child die than undergo the operation. She replied:

"No one knows whether my child is diseased. If she is going to die naturally, probably she would be better off than she is now."

The baby's condition was discovered accidentally. The mother took the child to the Grasslands hospital to visit her father, who was a patient there.

Discover Eye Infection.

Physicians noticed the infected eye and urged the mother to permit them to remove it. When she refused, the Westchester Children's association became interested in the case and, after all other attempts failed, took the matter to court.

Here's Something New: A Kentucky Admiral

A. H. Derbyshire, 1027 East 46th street, it was announced yesterday, has been appointed an aide-de-camp on the staff of Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky. His title is: "Admiral of the Fleet of the Department of Inland Marine." Admiral Derbyshire is already manager of the inland marine department of the America Fore Insurance companies.

Council Ready to Name Nash Mayor Today

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The city council was ready last night to elect Patrick A. Nash, Democratic party leader, as new mayor of Chicago at a special council meeting at 2 o'clock today, but had received from Mr. Nash no word whether he would accept.

The aldermanic steering committee returned from Hot Springs, Ark., late in the afternoon and hastened to Morrison hotel headquarters, but were unable to reach Mr. Nash, who was engaged on the question of judicial coalition. After cooling their heels for a time the aldermen departed somewhat at sea. The expectation of the party chieftains was that Mr. Nash would make an announcement before the aldermen assemble today, and that it would be an acceptance. But there was no certainty.

Term Runs Two Years.

Mr. Nash during the day declined to state definitely whether he would accept or reject the offered position of Century of Progress mayor of Chicago. The new mayor will succeed Acting Mayor Frank J. Corr for the unexpired term of the late Mayor A. J. Cermak, which runs two years, to April, 1935.

"I am not anxious to be mayor," said Mr. Nash, "and I feel that two or three others would make a better mayor. But I am anxious to do what is best for the city, and these men seem unanimous in the opinion I ought to accept. I am hopeful that a man can be found who will be acceptable to all concerned and who can perform the duties of the office."

An unusual air of secrecy pervaded headquarters. Conferences were held behind the closed doors of the "hideouts" on the upper floors. After hours of discussion, word was sent down that no decision had been reached.

Warrants First Big Task.

Among the first business confronting the next mayor will be the signing of $1,700,000 of school warrants for overdue pay rolls. The physical task of affixing the signatures can be delegated to a proxy.

Gossip in the front office was that the big patronage office holders had renewed pressure on Mr. Nash to accept the mayoralty. The great argument was that he knows the Cermak policies, that he was close to Mayor Cermak during the conferences over federal patronage, and that he is the man best fitted to serve as party harmonizer. Ever since the death of Mayor Cermak fear has been expressed by the Democrats that factional jealousies might rend the organization. The minor chieftains are afraid of each other, and Chairman Nash they account as the one whom all can trust.

Hold Choice Today Essential.

Mr. Nash was reported to be reiterating his objections that he did not desire the post, that it meant hoisting upon his 70 year shoulders a load of worries and work, that if elected he would insist upon an assistant mayor to perform the heavy routine grind. The gossip was that his family was urging him not to accept.

Out of these doubts the organization leaders emerged declaring their belief that Mr. Nash would be the next mayor.

They guessed that he would allow his name to be presented, or if not that he might present the name of some one else as his choice for the succession. As second choice possibilities the names of Robert M. Sweitzer, county clerk, and William H. Sexton, corporation counsel, led in the headquarters last night.

Acting Mayor Corr, who has announced that he has no desire to continue in the office, said: "I believe the council will be unanimous for Mr. Nash."

HUEY IS PEEVED; BARS LOUISIANA EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana, enraged because the late Mayor Cermak voted against the seating of his delegation at the Democratic national convention, has forbidden Louisiana to send its exhibit to the World's Fair in Chicago. This fact was made public yesterday by exposition officials.

Arch C. Johnson, of the department of exhibits of the fair, made the charge in a speech in Alexandria, La. He said that it had been announced that Herbert B. Bayliss, manager of the Alexandria chamber of commerce, was trying to get permission from Gov. O. K. Allen to finance the sending of the state exhibit to the fair through donations of interested citizens. Johnson said that Gov. Allen, acting under directions of Long, had forbidden the sending of the exhibit.

In Chicago Chris Van Deventer, chief of the division of federal and state exhibits of the fair, said: "Arch C. Johnson is an accredited representative of the exposition and his information is correct as stated."

TEACHERS JEER AS BOARD VOTES TO DELAY ACTION

At a meeting made stormy by almost continuous boos and jeering from some 500 teachers, the board of education yesterday deferred action on a resolution of Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell to close the schools immediately.

An alternative plan suggested, which appeared more likely of success than the Caldwell resolution, was that before the schools close April 21 for the annual spring vacation the board will pass a resolution stating that they are not to reopen until a plan has been formulated and approved by school employés for paying up their salary arrears. These arrears totaled $29,524,076 as of March 31.

The board will consider the closing resolutions at a special meeting tomorrow.

Would Save $7,000,000.

It was pointed out that closing the schools for the rest of the educational year would save perhaps $7,000,000. The monthly pay roll is in excess of $4,100,000 and it has been figured that a skeletonized force of maintenance men could care for the buildings at a cost of a few hundred thousand dollars a month.

Closing, however, would throw nearly 14,000 teachers out of employment and would deprive barely less than 500,000 pupils of instruction. It would probably result in a large proportion of the 4,000 school board employés other than teachers being out of their jobs also.

Two Reasons for Delay.

The board had two reasons for deferring action yesterday on the plan to close the schools. One was that the city council is expected to elect a mayor today who will have legal power to sign tax warrants. This is expected to make possible purchase by banks of $1,700,000 worth of tax warrants for school pay roll purposes. The second was the call by Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the committee on public expenditures, for a "town meeting" of heads of various civic organizations and business clubs tomorrow afternoon at the Union League club to consider the school pay problem.

"It is the duty of the citizens of Chicago," stated Mr. Sargent, "to come forward to the utmost of their ability just as they would in the midst of a foreign war and subscribe for tax warrants in an effort to pay our school teachers, police, and firemen.

"The purpose of the meeting Friday afternoon is to enlarge and intensify the drive for the sale of these warrants."

No Cash in Sight.

"We must recognize that no large sum of cash can be obtained immediately for pay rolls and that the only thing to do is to close the schools until we can get back on a cash basis," said Trustee Caldwell in presenting his resolution.

"There are three major reasons for closing. First, the board has given serious consideration in every way to demands of the citizens' committee to reduce expenditures. It has reduced its appropriations and expenditures 28 per cent, while those of the city have been cut only 14 per cent. We have lived on hope for three years. The banks have fed us crumbs in the hope that we would be lulled into quietude. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has turned us down in a quiet, dignified political manner.

Discrimination Is Charged.

"A second reason: There has been rank discrimination against teachers and board employés in favor of city employés. I fail to see any justification for the argument that board employés are not employés of the city. The city employés have been paid up to Nov. 1. Teachers have had one month's pay in cash for the entire term which is now drawing to a close.

"A third reason: It has been necessary to take care of the unemployed through emergency relief. We were told it was dangerous not to do so. This was the proper thing to do. I do not criticize relief workers, but many are now getting relief who do not deserve it. This matter is being considered now by the state's attorney.

"Caring for the unemployed is fine, but we have an obligation to the teachers which has been an obligation ever since the city existed. It is now time to say to the public, 'If you have not the money to care for your teachers and your schools it is time to take from you the benefit of the schools.'"

Trustees Helen Hefferan and James Hemingway were interrupted by boos as they said they were opposed to closing now, but might favor the vacation closing plan. President Orville J. Taylor threatened to have the dozen policemen who were present clear the room if disturbances did not stop.

"By closing the schools," said Trustee Lewis E. Myers, "the teachers will be hurting the people who have helped them most—the small property owners, a vast majority of whom have paid their taxes. So long as the teachers are employed at all they are building up a reserve and their credit is better than if they had no work."

"It's a wonder to me," said Trustee John English, "that we haven't had strikes long ago. If teachers are going to take on and parade every day as they have been they will be so distraught that they will be better off if they don't have to teach and maintain discipline in classrooms."

"Serves Notice on Whom?"

"They claim that closing the schools will serve notice," declared Trustee Joseph P. Savage. "On whom? That it will produce money. From where? There's a limit to the load a taxpayer can bear. What are you going to do, take it out of his hide? The only solution is to force the taxpayers who are holding out cash to pay their bills. Teachers will not get any sympathy by closing the schools. Thousands of men and women are tramping the streets looking for work. It won't improve their tempers if they have the children sent home for them to care for."

"The attitude of the teachers is not loyal," said Trustee Ernst Buehler, amid boos and jeers. "If we have to close because the teachers aren't loyal, all right, but I won't vote for it."

"If we don't close the schools today, we won't have to soon," declared Trustee Caldwell. "They'll close themselves. We have to either fish or cut bait."

President Taylor then stated that he had been asked by Acting Mayor Corr and "the gentleman who will probably be mayor" to defer action until the council meets today. Action was deferred after two teacher representatives had spoken.

"Duty to Close Schools."

"Schools are a civic duty," said one of them, Harry L. Tate. "If you close them the public will get the money. Three million people can force officials to do their duty. There is $3,000,000 held in escrow for tax payments by the Chicago Title and Trust company alone. Mr. Sargent told me yesterday that his committee knows of $35,000,000 more held in other places. The public can force Joe McDonough [county treasurer] to collect that. You can get money from the government. The R. F. C. put $90,000,000 into one bank, and money into every railroad. It's your duty to close the schools. Then maybe we'll get some of that money."

CANADIANS DEFY 'NUISANCE TAX' ON 50 CENT MEALS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 12. — Commercial travellers are refusing to pay the five cent tax on meals over 50 cents, recently imposed by Provincial Finance Minister Jones. The tax, which applies to hotels, restaurants, trains, and boats, was intended to find revenue for the hospitals to replace cuts made in hospital grants to cities by the budget. Travellers say their association backs their defiance of this "nuisance tax." Restaurants in Vancouver are advertising "49-cent meals and bring your own sugar" as a double slam at the meal tax and the recent two cents a pound sugar tax imposed by the federal government.

COUNTY TO PAY $425,000 SALARIES AND PENSIONS

County employés today will receive pay checks totaling $375,000 for the first two weeks of last September. At the same time 1,500 mothers will receive $50,000 in pensions for the same period. County Treasurer McDonough, who announced the pay day, said the funds were made available through the commissions received from payments of 1931 taxes.

PAYING OF $10,000 REWARD DODGED BY LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—[Special.]—Six years ago, when Marion Parker, 11 years old, was found murdered and her body dismembered, the city of Los Angeles officially offered $10,000 reward for the capture of her murderer, dead or alive.

Shortly afterward two Oregon officers, C. L. Lieuallan and Tom Gurdane, seized Edward Hickman, brought him to California and he was convicted and executed.

The Oregon officers put in a claim for the reward, but the city attorney countered with the claim that the city's charter made it illegal to pay out funds for rewards. He was sustained in court and the Oregon men not only failed of the reward but failed to be refunded cost of transportation in bringing Hickman back.

Today the present city attorney declared the fund out of litigation and the city council ordered it returned to the city treasurer's coffers.

Thus Los Angeles is relieved of the need to borrow $10,000 more from the federal treasury.

POLICE REPULSE MARCHING MOB AT PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 12.—(AP)—Led by shouting women, a mob which attempted to storm the high school in suburban Rankin tonight was repulsed by forty officers who arrested three persons and injured three others in hand to hand fighting.

Police, who estimated the gathering at 300 persons, said the Tri-Borough "Unemployed Council" was responsible for the disorders. Chief of Police M. J. Jordan explained that the leaders, having been refused a permit for a meeting in the building, announced they would get in if they had to "take the hinges off the doors."

Jordan secreted officers in and around the schoolhouse. With a group of young women leading, the crowd marched on the school. As they started hammering on the doors police leaped out and ordered them to disperse. The marchers surged forward ,and the officers swung their night sticks. The crowd then dispersed.

FRANK CHANDLER, NOW 92, SUFFERS A HEART ATTACK

Frank R. Chandler has been seriously ill in his home at 744 Rush street since he suffered a heart attack last Saturday, it was learned yesterday. Mr. Chandler, a retired real estate broker, will be 93 years old in October.

His condition has improved during the last few days, but because of his age it may still be regarded as critical, his physician, Dr. Anson Cameron, stated. His patient is anxious to recover his health in time to attend the opening of the World's Fair.

At the close of the 1893 fair Mr. Chandler bought the Ceylon building at the fair, which he moved to Lake Geneva and rebuilt as Ceylon court, a country residence. The estate was later the country home for many years of the late John J. Mitchell, banker. Mr. Chandler has lived at the Rush street address since 1868 and built his present home after his first frame residence was destroyed in the great fire.

AWARD BISHOP, OLD TIME GRAD, ATHLETIC HONOR

Delaware, O., April 12.—(AP)—Fifty-four years after his graduation from Ohio Wesleyan university, Bishop W. F. McDowell of Washington, D. C., today was awarded the letter "W" by the university's board of athletics.

His loyalty to his alma mater and the fact that he is known as a "battling bishop" brought the award. Wesleyan's athletic teams use the name of "Battling Bishops."

The letter came as a surprise to the 75 year old cleric, who until his recent retirement was a senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Former Bricklayer Becomes New Mayor of Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 12.—(AP)—Demanding coöperation of all city employés and pledging reforms in the police department, John S. Herron, one time bricklayer, today became mayor of Pittsburgh. He was sworn in immediately after his election by the city council to fill the unexpired term of former Mayor Charles H. Kline, who resigned to escape a jail sentence for malfeasance in office.

ASK IT AGAIN! INQUESTS ARE FULL OF PROFIT

Golden Days Return for Court Reporters.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

Spectators at recent inquests have noted the verbosity and circumlocution of deputy coroners in performing their statutory duty of inquiring into the cause and manner of unnatural deaths. It has also been noted that during the prolonged questioning of witnesses there was no letup in the racing pencils of court reporters on duty at the inquests.

Inquiry at the office of Coroner Frank J. Walsh yesterday revealed that the reporters' stenographic notes are transcribed at the price of 55 cents a page. Extra questions result in more lines and more lines grow into more pages and more pages become more dollars in the court reporters' pockets, it was pointed out.

Increase in Cost Shown.

It was also discovered that the cost of this service was $64,515 for 1932. In 1930, the last year in office of Coroner Walsh's predecessor, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, the cost was $54,731. In 1930 there were 4,098 inquests, and in 1932 there were 3,980 inquests.

Dr. Bundesen paid the inquest reporters 45 cents a page for their transcriptions. He had cut the rate of 65 cents paid by his predecessor, former Coroner Oscar Wolff, and also had cut the annual cost [$107,000] almost in half. In addition to the rate cut Dr. Bundesen effected his saving by ordering deputy coroners to eliminate useless questioning.

Walsh Succeeds Bundesen.

Coroner Walsh succeeded Dr. Bundesen upon the latter's resignation early in 1931. The total inquest reporting bill for 1931, while the program of Dr. Bundesen continued in effect, was $56,938 for 3,977 inquests.

Early in 1932 Coroner Walsh persuaded the county commissioners to increase the price per page from 45 cents to 55 cents. This action was taken over the protest of minority commissioners that there should be a reduction instead of an increase. Coroner Walsh also gave supervision over the inquest reporters to E. J. Walton, court reporter, at 30 North La Salle street. Dr. Bundesen had taken the supervision from Walton and employed reporters independently.

With the increase in the page price has come an increase in the size of transcripts, it was reported in the county controller's office.

Following is an excerpt from the record of the inquest into the death of one Anthony Krupa, with Deputy Coroner John Horne presiding:

DEPUTY—Is the name of the deceased Tony Krupa?
WITNESS—Anthony.
DEPUTY—Is it Anthony?
WITNESS—Yes sir, K-r-u-p-a.
DEPUTY—What is it?
WITNESS—K-r-u-p-a.
DEPUTY—Where did the deceased reside? Where did he live?
WITNESS—3642 South Wood street.
DEPUTY—3642 South Wood street?
WITNESS—Yes, sir.

Another excerpt from the same case:

DEPUTY—Is she the dead man's wife?
WITNESS—Yes sir.
DEPUTY—She is the dead man's wife?
WITNESS—Yes, sir.

At the inquest into the death of Ethel Ellis the record shows that Deputy Coroner J. A. Schewel questioned the father of the woman as follows:

WITNESS—I was advised by the doctor.
DEPUTY—What doctor?
WITNESS—Dr. Full.
DEPUTY—Doctor who?
WITNESS—Dr. Full.
DEPUTY—Dr. Full. Is that right?
WITNESS—That is right.

One of the inquest reporters estimated that the elimination of needless questions might save 20 per cent of the cost of the service to the county.

"But why should I kick?" he said.

CHICAGO'S FIRST FORESTRY ARMY MOVES TO CAMP

Recruits Sleep in Tents; Eager for New Life.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Meadow larks and frog chorus! What are those noises?
Blue sky, blue water, the clean wild winds of spring!
What smells so good out here?

From the slack back streets of Chicago, where they had wandered for months looking for work, 72 fortunate young men, first of the government draft of foresters in the Roosevelt war against depression, jumped off a train at Fort Sheridan yesterday into the arms of the United States army.

All Eager for New Life.

"Line up in twos," was their first order. The motley crew shuffled into line, hugging old suit cases and paper bags, some coatless and shivering, all eager to get into this new life, working in the forests at one dollar a day. They were the advance guard of Chicago's first quota of 4,000. The army, moving with speed and attention to details, was all ready for the job of "processing" and conditioning these raw recruits.

They marched over the tracks and were directed into the reservation by friendly corporals and sergeants of the regular army. Maj. Paul C. McDonnell stood ready to check them in. Many of them were thin and pale.

"In two weeks," said the major, "they will be looking so much better you will hardly know them." He expects them to be brown and husky and fat by that time. Many of them had not been out of the city and had never seen the north shore. They were led to a row of circular tents, a tent city thrown up by the army in a few days. It is close to the lake, with trees and new grass and buds bursting into life after a white winter.

Call for Fried Chicken and Beans.

"They told us we'd get fried chicken out here," called out one youth.

"We want beans, we want beans," chorused a group.

They did not get beans or chicken, but in a few minutes were handling army mess kits with various degrees of skill, were seated in the plain board mess hall eating roast beef, peas, potatoes, peaches and coffee. It was a bountiful lunch and erased many a frown and strengthened many stomachs unaccustomed to good food.

In the middle of the first meal Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, commanding officer of the fort, came into the dining hall, smiling and slapping a riding crop against his leather clad legs.

"Give me your attention, please," he called. "I am Gen. Bolles, so there won't be any misunderstanding about it. The government is trying conscientiously to help you help yourselves. We anticipate that you will enter here in that spirit. There are certain regulations which we expect you will comply with. Your units will improve your camp gradually and get into shape for your future work. The first thing will be to haul wood so you can have a fire tonight. You will get good food and good care.

"There will be eight of you in each tent squad. You will select your own group leader. Now comply with our instructions and work up gradually."

Then he turned to individuals.

"How old are you, my boy?" he asked several in line, and found out a few details about their lives. He found graduates of high schools who had been unable to find work in two years.

"Can we go home for Easter and get some good ravioli?" asked an Italian boy.

"You haven't got set yet. Don't think about going somewhere else," was the reply.

"Do we have any soldier training here?" asked another.

"No military training, but you will work hard," was the answer.

After the first meal came the processing, which consisted of registering, a visit to the doctor, a shower, and an issue of army clothes. The warm brown linens and the woolen blankets felt good to the boys. They hugged them close and started for the tents, where they were instructed in making up their beds. Then they started in to get wood for a big bonfire in the evening. Lights go out at 9 p. m.

Nine Hours for Sleeping.

"Let them sleep in the morning," said the general. "We won't wake them until 6 o'clock."

After two weeks here the boys will be sent out to the forest work selected for each lot. They will be governed here in semi-military fashion, with overseer and section and squad foremen.

Today will be organization day and tomorrow the regular routine will begin. On company street, drill ground and field they will turn out all day for various types of physical training and conditioning. On the fourth day they will be instructed in personal hygiene. There will be mass athletics and organized play. Here is the bulletin of army orders posted for the boys:

Reveille—first call	6:00 a. m.
March	6:10 a. m.
Assembly	6:15 a. m.
Mess call	6:30 to 7:00 a. m.
Sick call	7:30 a. m.
Conditioning call	8:00 a. m.
Recall from conditioning	11:30 a. m.
Mess call	11:45 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.
Conditioning call	1:30 p. m.
Recall from conditioning	4:30 p. m.
Mess call	5:00 to 5:45 p. m.
Tattoo	9:00 p. m.
Call to quarters	10:45 p. m.
Taps	11:00 p. m.

On Sundays they sleep until 7 a. m. and have church call at 8:50 and 10:15 a. m.

Other contingents are to arrive at the fort daily at the rate of 400 from now on until the quotas are filled. The site selected for the camp is that usually occupied by the citizens military training camps. Two more groups arrived later in the day, bringing the number above two hundred for the first day.

Capt. Edmond C. Fleming Resigns Army Commission

Capt. Edmond C. Fleming, attached to the field artillery of the United States army and for the last eight months professor of military science and tactics in the Chicago high schools, yesterday resigned his commission to enter civil life. Capt. Fleming said his resignation was prompted solely by the press of private business.

CHU-CHU, ROYAL PEKINGESE, TO HAVE COURT DAY

Chu-Chu, a Pekingese whose lineage is traceable back to royal Manchu pets, is going to have his day—in court. Yesterady his mistress, Miss Marie Field, 2421 Arthington street, filed a $1,000 suit for damages in his behalf against Hyman Cohen, 3955 Elston avenue, in the Municipal court.

The bill says Cohen was a "friend of the family" and as such had access to Miss Field's home. It charges that a year ago Cohen took the dog from the Field home and sent him to St. Louis as a present to a daughter-in-law. Recently Miss Field recovered the dog. He has been poorly cared for, according to the bill, and was found to be "poor in flesh, its sight impaired and its hair unkempt and matted."

Miss Field said she had exhibited Chu-Chu in many kennel shows before he was stolen, and he was considered a fine specimen. She stated the dog's value had been greatly lessened as a result of neglect.

A 'Gentleman' Tips His Hat and Announces a Holdup

A man about 60 years old entered the Cushman bakery at 4054 West North avenue yesterday, tipped his derby to the clerk, Miss Linda O'Connor, and said:

"This is a holdup, lady, no fooling."

He was followed by a younger man armed with a revolver. They took $5 from Miss O'Connor and left after the elderly man had tipped his hat again.

A WHITE WOMAN CLAIMS NEGRESS' $100,000 ESTATE

Offers Evidence That They Were Half Sisters.

Probate Judge Harold J. Taylor yesterday heard evidence presented by attorneys for Mrs. Flora Grow of Charleston, W. Va., who seeks the $100,000 estate left by Mrs. Maria Turner, colored. Mrs. Grow, daughter of Lucien Fletcher and member of a family which settled in the colony of Virginia before the revolutionary war, asserts that Mrs. Turner, who died in Chicago in February, 1932, was her half sister, and she claims the estate as heir at law.

Mrs. Turner was the widow of Shadrach B. Turner, colored member of the Illinois legislature, who lived at 21 East 28th street. At his death Turner left his fortune to his widow, who proved to be a careful business woman. When Mrs. Turner's estate was probated it was discovered that it consisted of $80,000 in cash on deposit at the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and $20,000 worth of south side real estate.

Produces Genealogical Table.

According to the evidence presented to Judge Taylor, Mrs. Turner was the daughter of a colored woman and Lucien Fletcher, who were married in Toronto, Canada, in 1859. In support of this contention Mrs. Grow has produced a genealogical table of her family, and introduced into evidence a family Bible and prayer book in which all births and deaths had been recorded since 1835.

Through her attorneys Mrs. Grow stated that her father was the son of a wealthy planter. After receiving an education in the south he went to Toronto while a youth. There, Mrs. Grow charges, he met Mrs. Turner's mother.

Fights in Civil War.

At the outbreak of the civil war, Mrs. Grow asserted, Fletcher returned to the south and joined the confederate army, serving until the end of the war. Immediately after the war he remarried, his first wife having died. Mrs. Grow asserts that she was Fletcher's daughter by his second marriage.

Handwriting experts have been ordered by the court to examine documents signed by Fletcher in Toronto and later in the south to determine whether they were written by the same person. The Bible and prayer book also are to be examined. Pending the next hearing of the case on April 24, Judge Taylor has impounded all the documentary evidence.

LAUNCH NEW ORLEANS, FIRST OF THE NEW 10,000 TON CRUISERS

New York, April 14.—[Special.]—The navy added a warship to its ranks today when the U. S. S. New Orleans, first of the new 10,000 ton treaty cruisers, slid down the ways at the New York navy yard in Brooklyn. It was christened by Miss Cora Jahncke, with a bottle of Mississippi river water. Miss Jahncke is the daughter of Ernest Lee Jahncke, former assistant secretary of the navy.

The guests of honor were Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy; Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of President Roosevelt; Mayor and Mrs. T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans, and several army and navy officials.

CONGRESS FINDS ROOSEVELT AIDS BEYOND ITS KEN

Theories of Professors Stump Lawmakers.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—The professors of the Roosevelt administration already have the statesmen hanging on the ropes gasping for breath.

What with bewilderment by the brain power of some of the professors and with alarm at the radical notions of most of them, senators and representatives are beginning to put on that worried look whenever the new deal is mentioned.

Explore Intellectual Stratosphere.

In efforts to understand the farm relief bill senators endeavored to explore the rarefied intellectual stratosphere in which one of its authors, Prof. Mordecai Ezekiel, economic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace, has his being.

They took on his 68 page department of agriculture bulletin in which Prof. Ezekiel by logarithms and equations of higher mathematics forecast the prices of hogs for years to come.

But none of the daring explorers got very far off the ground. They came down with a thud, confessing complete inability to follow the professor.

Stumped, Vandenberg Confesses.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] led in public confession on the floor of the senate, reading the following excerpt from Prof. Ezekiel's opus:

"The price for each month may be conceived as represented by a small black ball, suspended above the line for its own date, at the height of the average price for that month, and as far over from right to left as indicated by the supply for that month.

"There would necessarily be only one ball for each month. These balls, however, would all be very close to the demand surface, a little above it, for those months when the actual price was higher than the price shown by the correlation formula and a little lower for the months when the actual price was a little below the estimated price.

"In general, however, it would be seen that the demand surface approximated the position that these prices occupy, as they were thus suspended through space and time."

Explains His Explanation.

Senator Vandenberg wanted to know if this quotation from Ezekiel would not serve to elucidate some of the more esoteric provisions of the farm bill. Senator Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.] suggested that Mr. Vandenberg "explain that explanation." Being informed that the author of the work on hog prices is Mordecai Ezekiel, Senator M. M. Logan [Dem., Ky.] queried:

"He would not be supposed to know anything about hogs, would he, with that name?"

Senators also undertook to plumb the ideology of Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture, who collaborated with Prof. Ezekiel in production of the farm relief bill. It appeared, according to the results of this exploration, that Dr. Tugwell is an exponent of the redistribution of wealth.

In a published interview he said:

"In such a situation there is just one thing to do: Take incomes from where they are and place them where we need them. Practically this means extreme income taxation and distribution by government to consumers who will spend for goods, start the productive processes again, and gradually restore their own earning power."

Dr. Tugwell is a member of the Council of the Socialistic People's lobby, headed by John Dewey, which maintains propaganda headquarters across the street from the capitol. This institution publishes a monthly bulletin of a radical character. The redistribution of wealth is one of its tenets. In the last number Dr. Dewey ascribes the depression in part to the "government's failure to effect a redistribution of the national income through taxation, for that sin of omission is chiefly responsible for unemployment and human suffering."

Other Proposals of Council.

Other causes, he says, are the failure to arrange in an orderly but positive way for writing down debts, government and nongovernment, and interest rates thereon, and failure to arrange for wiping out the fictitious capitalization amounting to many billions of dollars of commercial, transportation, and financial institutions."

Further light on the views of Dr. Tugwell was shed by this editorial pronouncement in the bulletin he sponsors:

"America can redistribute national income to insure security and a fair standard of living for all by general public ownership, or by taxation, social insurance from pre-natal existence to post-mortem interment, at public expense, maintenance allowances, and a vast program of public service, of which well supported education is only one—confining public ownership and operation to those undertakings which, in order to be efficiently and economically conducted must be monopolies.

Public Ownership Proposals.

"These include all means of transportation and communication by wire, air, or mail; banking, with the issuance of credit, and natural resources These are basic agencies of production, distribution, and exchange, and should be publicly owned nonprofit undertakings.

"Public acquisition of these enterprises at prices which would now pass court muster would load consumers with a devastating debt and duplicate the present inequitable distribution of the national income. Before they can be advantageously acquired they must be rigorously controlled and regulated by public authority and the principle established that private ownership of values which the owners have not created is a fiction of outworn legalism.

"Even in 1932 our national income was about 50 billion dollars and amply adequate to provide a good standard of living for all—if income and taxes were fairly distributed.

"Minimum real wages and maximum hours of work per week for such real wages will have to be rigorously enforced by government.

"It is probable that America will try out this system of attaining social justice before espousing either socialism or technocracy."

A. A. Berle, one of the administration professors, is co-author of a recent book on corporations from which the People's lobby quotes the following passage:

"The rise of the modern corporation has brought a concentration of economic power which can compete on equal terms with the modern state—economic power versus political power, each strong in its own field.

"The state seeks in some aspects to regulate the corporation, while the corporation, steadily becoming more powerful, makes every effort to avoid such legislation. Where its own interests are concerned it even attempts to dominate the state.

"The future may see the economic organism, now typified by the corporation, not only on an equal plane with the state, but possibly even superseding it as the dominant form of social organization.

"The law of corporations, accordingly, might well be considered as a potential constitutional law for the new economic state, while business practice is increasingly assuming the aspect of economic statesmanship."

For More Direct Plan.

Senator Vandenberg advised, if price fixing was to be done, do it openly, and to his colleagues he recommended as a choice between evils the adoption of the so-called Simpson scheme which is now before the senate as an amendment suggested by the agricultural committee.

The Simpson plan, proposed by the head of a group of farmers, occupying only two pages of the farm bill as against 24 devoted to the allotment plan, leasing plan and other provisions, would give the secretary of agriculture power to ascertain and fix the cost of production for all basic farm products; to ascertain percentage of the total production of any commodity required for domestic consumption; and to require all persons purchasing from producers to pay not less than cost of production for domestic consumption percentage of the commodity purchased.

The surplus above this percentage would be segregated for export. The secretary would have power to license processors and to impose on competitive products a processing tax sufficient to bring their prices in line with prices of the fixed commodities.

DR. NICHOLAS BUTLER SUES HARRIMAN BANK TO RECOVER $200,000

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, is bringing suit against the closed Harriman Bank and Trust company to recover some $200,000 in securities, it was revealed today. Supreme Court Justice Lockwood in Brooklyn signed an order making Henry E. Cooper, conservator of the bank, a defendant in the action.

Neither Dr. Butler nor counsel for the bank would discuss the action.

The suit, it was explained, is purely a civil action based on a difference of opinion as to the rights of the bank in transactions involving Dr. Butler's securities. George H. Hamlin of counsel for the bank said the legal action is in no way connected with the criminal charges which resulted in the indictment of Joseph V. Harriman, former president and chairman of the board of directors of the bank.

WIFE OF PASTOR LOSES TO RIVAL LIVING IN HOME

Gives Him Up to Blonde Without Bitterness.

Springfield, Mo., April 12.—(AP)—The slight, blue eyed wife of the Rev. Sharon Inman faced life without bitterness today after losing a desperate gamble for her husband's affections.

Her experiment of inviting into her home her rival, Ezia Holdridge, 20 year old blonde, in the hope of winning back her husband's love, ended yesterday when she saw Inman and the girl trudge away down the highway toward Joplin, Mo. She bade them good-by after taking them to the highway in her car.

The 35-year-old minister, pastor of the Cave Springs Presbyterian church near here, was suspended by church officials who reported he appeared before them and admitted his love for Miss Holdridge, reputed to be from Oklahoma. The presbytery has cited him for trial April 25 and pending that he is forbidden to occupy a pulpit of his denomination.

Goes Back to Classes.

Trim and smiling, Mrs. Inman went to classes as usual today at the Springfield State Teachers' college, where she will qualify in May for a teacher's certificate that may enable her to support her two small children. The seat next to her where Miss Holdridge had studied in recent weeks was vacant.

"It was a good deal my fault," Mrs. Inman told interviewers. "I was responsible for bringing her into our home more than he was. I thought—I hoped—that she would see me, and the children, and our home, and give him up. But nothing did any good."

Miss Holdridge spent the last month at the Cave Springs parsonage. Mrs. Inman said she believed her husband met the girl while he was attending Missouri Valley college at Marshall, Mo., last fall to finish work for his degree.

Says They Joked.

"She and I never quarreled, "said Mrs. Inman. "We joked rather grimly sometimes about the possibility of finding poison in the biscuits. But there was never any real danger, of course.

"I told her when she came that I would not try to win him behind her back, that I would play fair, and I kept my promise.

"It was the only thing I could think of to do, and I tried it. You will do most anything, you know, when you love a man and his children."

She said she had no bitterness toward her husband or the girl, and expressed the hope that Inman would "straighten up, be happy and do a lot of good in the world."

"Perhaps," she added, "it would be easier if I could hate both of them."

DAY IN WASHINGTON

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

President Roosevelt in Pan-American day address asked reduction of world trade barriers and decried undeclared wars in South America.

Senate agriculture committee approved Norris bill embodying administration plan for Tennessee valley development.

Senate confirmed Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida as minister to Denmark; Mayor James M. Curley of Boston nominated as ambassador to Poland.

President Roosevelt in telegrams to governors of 13 industrial states recommended New York state's pending minimum wage law.

Bishop Reported Named New Primate of Spain

MADRID, April 12.—(AP)—The appointment by Pope Pius XI. of Bishop Tarazona Isidoro Goma of Tarragua to be primate of Spain was reliably reported tonight. Bishop Goma, who is 66 years old and a native of Tarragona, will fill a vacancy created by the expulsion of Cardinal Segura from Spain nearly two years ago.

GIRL WHO SHOT EX-SUITOR WINS PLEA SHE IS SANE

When Miss Genevieve Gudna, 24 years old, 4138 Archer avenue, was arraigned yesterday in the Criminal court on a charge of shooting and wounding her ex-suitor, Sigmund Kately, a peculiar situation confronted Chief Justice John Prystalski.

Alienists appeared and declared Miss Gudna was at the time of the shooting, and still is, insane. Both the defendant and her attorney, Thaddeus C. Toudor, insisted that she was sane, and desired to prove she was justified in shooting Kately. Judge Prystalski then ordered the public defender, Benjamin Bachrach, to file an insanity petition and a hearing was started before a jury.

Miss Gudna took the stand and convinced the jurors she was of sound mind, despite the alienists' findings. They returned a verdict she was sane. Judge Prystalski then set the trial for the shooting on April 24.

The shooting of Kately took place in front of a picture theater on April 7, 1932. He was struck in the abdomen, but has since recovered. A young woman who succeeded Miss Gudna in his affections witnessed the shooting.

COURTNEY ASSIGNS AID TO INVESTIGATE IDLE RELIEF FRAUDS

Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley was assigned yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney to investigate the charges of dishonesty in the distribution of idle relief in Wheeling township, which were made Tuesday by President Emmett Whealan of the county board.

President Whelan declared that an investigation had disclosed that many families were receiving relief who were not entitled to it and that much money was being wasted in supplying coal, groceries, and cash to persons who had independent incomes and could support themselves. Moreover, the relief commission was being charged for milk which was never delivered to families, he declared.

Prosecutor Crowley said he would investigate these charges which the county board president had asserted called for the prosecution of those responsible. The township supervisor in charge of relief distribution until March 22 was Charles F. Grandt. He was relieved at that time and the emergency relief commission took over the work directly.

LELAND CALLS 15 PER CENT TAX SLASH ILLEGAL

His Suppressed Report Is Made Public.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

The dissenting opinion of Dr. Simeon Leland, suppressed on Tuesday by his two colleagues on the state tax commission when they approved the order of the board of tax appeals to cut 1931 assessments on homes and small flat buildings 15 per cent, became available yesterday.

Inspection of the opinion showed that Commissioner Barnet Hodes and Chairman Scott W. Lucas, the downstate member of the tax commission, who approved the appeals board order after a series of star chamber sessions, had ample reason to keep Dr. Leland's logic from the eyes of the public.

Summary of His Opinion.

He condemns the appeal board's action from start to finish as illegal and unauthorized, finishing 39 closely typed pages with the following summary:

"The conclusion is inescapable that the board of appeals was without scientific foundation for its order. The petition on which it was based was defective. The powers upon which it was based are not possessed by that body. The formalities of notice and hearing were not strictly observed nor was a reasonable effort made to comply with them.

"The power to order horizontal changes in assessments is not only not possessed by the board of appeals, but the possession of such power would tend to destroy responsible assessment administration in Cook county. It is my opinion that the order of March 22, 1933, issued by the board of appeals in re the Harvatt petition is null and void. The county assessor should be instructed to ignore it."

Specialist in Tax Problems.

Unless the experience of Commissioner Hodes as one of the organizers of the tax strike, and his close association with the law firm which took a leading part in the unsuccessful litigation to invalidate Cook county tax levies may be regarded as such, Dr. Leland is the only member of the commission with any wide experience in matters of taxation. He is a professor of economics at the University of Chicago, specializing in tax problems and tax administration.

In his opinion, he opened with a statement of the facts in the case, all drawn from the records of the secret hearings before the tax commission. George F. Nixon and Fred W. Brummel, members of the board of tax appeals, issued the order for the blanket assessment cut upon a complaint filed by Thomas Harvatt, owner of a brick bungalow at 6149 Berenice avenue.

"No Notice to Assessor."

Dr. Leland may not have been aware of it when he wrote his opinion, but the appeals board members were unable to produce the complaint on which the tax cut was ordered until several hours after they issued the order, supposedly based upon it, on March 22. He did comment, however, that the record "does not show the time of the filing of the taxpayer's petition, nor the character or length of the hearing thereon," and that the board issued its order on the same day, without giving Assessor J. L. Jacobs any notice of its hearing on the complaint, as it is required to do by law.

The only point on which Dr. Leland agreed with his fellow commissioners was in holding that the tax commission had jurisdiction to arbitrate the controversy between the appeals board and Assessor Jacobs over the latter's refusal to carry out the board's order. The statutes, he holds, give the commission this power when they state that it shall "direct and supervise" assessments, that it shall "confer with, advise and assist local assessment officers" and that it shall "prescribe general rule and regulations" for such officers.

Calls Petition Illegal.

While he holds that the tax commission had jurisdiction to hear the controversy over the assessment cut, Dr. Leland then goes on to charge that the procedure of the appeals board, from the time of filing the petition, was illegal.

The petition itself was illegal, he finds. The petition, seeking a blanket assessment cut, must be regarded as a plea for a reassessment. The board of appeals, he points out, has no power to order a reassessment. The legislature intended, he holds, specifically to deny the appeals board the power, possessed by its predecessor, the board of review, to make blanket changes in assessments. As to public policy, he says:

"The primary reason for changing the assessment setup in Cook county in 1932 was to avoid the waste, irresponsibility and corruption which were made possible and abetted by the former law giving unrestricted powers to the board of review. If Cook county and the state have not yet learned the consequences arising from irresponsible assessment administration, their capacity for self government may be doubted.

"From the standpoint of public policy there is only one answer to the question in issue: the board of appeals should not have power to increase or decrease the entire assessment or any class of property thereof."

As a clincher to his argument, Dr. Leland states that even if the petition had been legal, which he holds it was not, and even if the appeals board had power to act upon it, which he says the board did not, the procedure of the board in acting, particularly its failure to notify the assessor and give him the opportunity provided by law to defend his assessment, would have been sufficient to invalidate the assessment cut order.

Agree on One Point.

Assessor Jacobs and Mr. Nixon finally reached one point of agreement yesterday in regard to the assessment cut. That is that owners of small homes and flat buildings need file no complaints and employ no attorneys to receive the benefit of the order. It is a blanket order, and if sustained will apply to every property in these classifications.

There is one important exception to this, however. This is in connection with the 72,000 properties on which taxes have already been paid in full. Nearly every one of these properties is in the classes affected by the reduction order, but to date no legal method has been devised for giving these taxpayers, more than a sixth of all those affected by the cut, their reduction.

Mr. Jacobs yesterday pointed out that if the appeals board order should be sustained legally, and he is forced to comply with it, it will require a very large appropriation from the county board for the work, and take at least three months to make the changes. There would be no further collection of current real estate taxes, of course, until the work was finished.

Retribution

Roy Blackmer, 33 years old, and John D. Moore, 35 years old, were sentenced to terms of one year to life in prison yesterday by Judge Philip L. Sullivan for the robbery on Feb. 15 of the Shop and Save grocery, 521 Diversey parkway. Lincoln Park Policeman Edward Johnson was shot and wounded by the bandits, who escaped and were captured several days later at 83 Lakeside place.

Both Blackmer and Moore pleaded guilty. The trial of Moore's brother, Carmen, was set for April 25 after he pleaded not guilty. A charge of robbery against Miss Angelina Caputa, 20 years old, 118 North Monticello avenue, who was alleged to have accompanied the men on several robberies, was nol prossed. Blackmer, a war veteran and father of one child, cited his war record in a plea for leniency.

"I acknowledge your past good record," Judge Sullivan told him, "but it is my duty to the people to impose sentence as a deterrent to others as well as to punish you."

ILLINOIS SENATE ADOPTS CHANGES IN DIVORCE LAWS

Would Make Alimony Aid Men, Too.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—Almost without opposition, the Graham bills to modernize Illinois' antiquidated divorce laws were passed by the senate today. Their passage drew no debate, save for the explanations of President Pro Tem R. V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], and only one member cast a negative vote.

These efforts to liberalize the 60 year old laws were sponsored by nationally known divorce court judges and attorneys. The bills now face the house of representatives. There they probably will receive consideration in the judiciary committee next week.

Three Principal Changes.

Three material changes in the statutes covering divorce, alimony payments, and separate maintenance would be made by enactment of the Graham bills. They follow:

1. An alimony plan based on reciprocity. Thus, ablebodied wives who are employed could be ordered to pay alimony to their husbands, provided the husbands were jobless and incapacitated.

2. Abolition of evils in the separate maintenance or temporary alimony system, so unscrupulous wives could not receive their husband's support longer than two years following separation. At the expiration of that time, the husband could secure a divorce on a showing that he had lived apart from his wife for that length of time.

3. Removing of injustices in alimony payments which have now resulted in populous "alimony clubs" in jails throughout the state, particularly in Cook county. The Graham bills provide that a jobless husband cannot be sent to jail for arrears in his alimony, provided that he cannot obtain work.

Alimony Clubs Prolonged.

Under present laws, husbands unable to keep up their payments are kept in jail while their obligations mount and have no chance to secure work.

Another provision says the courts may award the custody of children either to husband or wife, as the interests of the children may require, and make provisions for the education of the children out of the property of either of the parents.

The bill carrying that clause was passed 35 to 0, not one member present opposing it. On the second measure, which covers the other legal changes, only one negative vote was tallied—that cast by H. T. Burgess [Dem., Fairfield].

BARS ARE DOWN ON BEER SALE IN EVANSTON SHOPS

Lawyer Seeks Injunction to Curb Police.

All bars were down on the sale of beer in Evanston yesterday, notwithstanding a provision in the charter of Northwestern university which had prevented the open sale of spirituous, vinous and fermented beverages for the last 78 years.

Following the example of Mealard's sandwich shop just around the corner from Evanston's city hall, where beer was sold on Tuesday night in defiance of police, most of Evanston's restaurants and groceries started sale. Police made purchases in half a dozen places, but decided to withhold arrests at least until after a city council meeting next Monday night when the question of repealing the ordinance against beer sales will be considered.

Suit Aims to Block Police.

Attorney Donald R. Murray stepped out as legal champion of Evanston beer sellers yesterday by filing suit in Superior court for an injunction to restrain the police from arresting or police magistrates from fining him for selling beer in a grocery he recently opened at 1636 Maple avenue in the suburb.

Murray contends that the Evanston ordinance prohibiting sale of the beverage was drawn under the state search and seizure act and became invalid when the state act was repealed. His bill comes up for a hearing before Judge William J. Lindsay today.

Arrested in Oak Park.

Oak Park authorities clamped that village's beer ban down tight yesterday by arresting Harry Wilsdon, 2429 North California avenue, Chicago, as he delivered five cases of beer at the Lorken grocery, 208 South Marion street, Oak Park. Wilsdon was held in $25 bail.

His employer, Thomas McLean Jr., proprietor of a distributing company at 4616 Race avenue, posted bond and announced that he would fight Wilsdon's case when it comes to trial before Police Magistrate Frank Aring on April 18.

"What is this, the Sahara of the United States?" McLean inquired when police informed him they had impounded his truck and its cargo of fifty-three cases of beer. "You ought to throw a fence around the village and put up a toll gate and charge us toll if you're going to levy on dealers distributing a product which congress has declared legal."

Union Official Questioned.

Chicago police, investigating the bombing of the Prima brewery of early last Saturday, took into custody Jerry Donovan, 2010 Hopkins place, secretary of the joint council of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers and of the newly organized beer and soda drivers' union. Hilmar Ernst, official of the Prima company, had told State's Attorney Courtney that Donovan's organization had instructed Chicago brewers to quit the union they had dealt with since before prohibition and assume relations with the international. Donovan, while admitting he had asked Ernst's "coöperation," denied any knowledge of the bombing and was released after the questioning.

FALLS UNDER TRAIN; DIES.

Fred Sievert, 42 years old, 30 South Whipple street, died in St. Luke's hospital yesterday of injuries suffered last Thursday when he fell under an Illinois Central train at 19th street and Stewart avenue.

Local Option Meets Defeat, 96 to 39 in Illinois House

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—Local option as a "defense" against 3.2 beer was voted down decisively tonight by the Illinois house of representatives while considering the beer control bill. A roll call showed only 39 in favor of a return to the old dry district system, with 96 opposed to it.

Other proposed amendments, including the one to leave the entire matter of retail licensing to local governments, a home rule move, and another intended to kill the bill, also were voted down by large majorities. But surprise among observers centered around the big vote against local option.

Fees Reduced $100.

Only one change was made. That was to lower from $300 to $200 the license fees that may be charged by cities except Chicago, which is given a free hand in this matter. With only this slight alteration the bill was set for final action by the house next Wednesday.

The big majorities against proposed amendments, such as that for local option, however, are not construed as spelling success for the bill. To make it effective before the regular day of July 1 it must receive 102 votes in the house, and to date there has been no indication that there are that many in sight for it.

Members Shift Stand.

The various roll calls and rising votes showed members shifting from one side to another on the various questions. Most of the Democrats, however, recovering from their confusion of yesterday, fell back into line on all votes, but there were some exceptions even there. For example, Miss Mary Davidson of Carthage and W. O. Edwards of Danville voted with the local optionists.

On the Republican side the party division of yesterday caused by heated disputes was forgotten. For example, 24 of them voted against local option, joining with 72 Democrats to make up the total of 96. This vote came on a motion by Roland V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago] to table what was called the Schnackenberg-O'Neill amendment.

START SESSIONS OF WOMEN DRYS AT WASHINGTON

Mrs. Peabody Changes Residence Again.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, the determined dry who deserted her native Massachusetts in the hope that Florida would be less liquor loving, has fled Florida and come to Washington to keep up her fight for prohibition.

Today, as she stood in her hotel room and looked out at the Lincoln memorial which, she says, gives her inspiration for her fight, she declared that it was a good thing that she has a sense of humor for so many people are kidding [the word is not hers] her about her constant change of address.

"When you reporters ask me where I'm going to live, now that the beer bill has been passed," she explained, "I have my little joke. And I say, 'Well, what's the good of living anywhere if they're going to be selling beer on every corner?' Perhaps heaven is the only place where I can be really happy."

Presides at Convention.

But there are a lot of things Mrs. Peabody wants to do before she sees the pearly gates, even if they are prohibition gates.

For one thing, she now has to preside at the tenth annual convention of the woman's national committee for law enforcement, of which she is president, which held its opening session tonight. And during the course of that three day convention she will present to President Roosevelt a petition assailing the legality of beer.

Turning away from the Lincoln memorial Mrs. Peabody looked toward the dome of the capitol. She said:

"Women are rising. They will drive the money changers and brewers out of our national temple. We thought we had sent men to represent us, but they have betrayed the constitution for revenue."

She repeated this tonight in her keynote address and added that "prohibition has not failed. Prohibition has succeeded. That is why the opponents have fought it with every power of evil."

Capper Assails Beer.

Senator Arthur Capper, a Republican from dry Kansas, told the convention that 3.2 beer was intoxicating and its sale a violation of our constitution. As for the increased revenue which, it is argued, will flow into the United States treasury, he thinks that is poppycock.

"Beer," he believes, "may yield some revenue to the federal treasury by taking it from the wives and children of American workingmen, but this great government cannot afford to take that kind of money."

He also made a plea for congressional representation to be based on the number of American citizens in each state and not, as now, on the total number, including unnaturalized aliens.

MICHIGAN BEER AND STATE REPEAL BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

Lansing, Mich., April 12.—(AP)—The senate tonight combined repeal of state prohibition with legalization of beer, passed both and sent the measure to the house where the leaders promised prompt action. The measure, which has prohibition repeal as an amendment, provides for the appointment of a commission of 17 members, one from each congressional district to regulate the sale of beer.

DRY 24 YEARS, TENNESSEE TO GET BEER MAY 1

Nashville, Tenn., April 12.—(AP)—Outlawed from Tennessee for 24 years, beer broke through the state's "bone dry" restrictions today when the senate's 22 to 11 followed action of the house in legalizing beverages of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content, effective May 1. Governor Hill McAlister's approval is assured.

As passed by the house last Friday, the bill fixed June 1 as the date for legalization, but the upper branch moved it up a month after Senator David Rhea of Giles had told of a "continued flow of money from Tennessee into Kentucky. This amendment will give us an additional month of revenue. Certainly the state needs it."

The crowded galleries broke into such a roar that the clerk's formal announcement of the vote was lost. The house concurred in all senate amendments.

Efforts of a Republican senator, Walter Franklin [Bradley], to ban "free lunches" failed. All four Republican senators voted against the bill. Licenses are to be issued by local governing authorities in each community.

Beer in West Virginia.

Charleston, W. Va., April 12.—[Special.]—West Virginia will join the list of beer states tomorrow. By a vote of 20 to 5 the state senate late today passed the house of delegates beer bill and dispatched it to Gov. H. G. Kump. The bill repeals another beer law, enacted two months ago, which legalized beer as of June 9, and makes the sale legal immediately.

HELD ON FIVE ROBBERY CHARGES.

Valentine Roth, 21 years old, 5328 Justine street, was held to the grand jury by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan yesterday on five charges of robbery. Bonds were fixed at $25,000.

ACTION ON BEER BILL IN NEBRASKA IS DUE SHORTLY

Lincoln, Neb., April 12.—(AP)—Bone dry Nebraska tonight faced prospects of prompt action on bills to legalize 3.2 per cent beer and to let the state vote on repeal of the 18th amendment.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan submitted a bill for a convention in December, 1931, to vote on prohibition repeal. The house of representatives suspended its rules and immediately put the bill on general file for consideration at any time.

Anti-prohibition and administration leaders apparently agreed on a schedule which would permit the house to take up the repeal bill tomorrow and follow with consideration of the 3.2 per cent beer bill previously made a special order of business for 10 a. m. It would permit the house to vote tomorrow on the repeal bill.

The governor's bill called for election of 100 delegates at the November, 1934, election to vote in accordance with popular will in each of the 100 state legislative districts at a convention the first Tuesday in December, 1934.

IOWA SENATE TO ACT TODAY ON BEER SALE BILL

Des Moines, Ia., April 12.—[Special.]—The senate today made the Iowa beer bill a special order of business tomorrow.

Republicans and tax revision Democrats constituted a threat of death to both the Brookings institution reorganization bills and the beer bill.

Citing an alleged agreement of various senators with Gov. Clyde L. Herring that the reorganization bills would be deferred until the special session, Republican speakers served notice on the senate Democrats that they would give the beer bill rough going if the agreement were not honored.

TITLE-TRUST CO. HEADS CALLED IN MORTGAGE QUIZ

All Records and Those of Bank Subpœnaed.

Subpoenas duces tecum were issued yesterday for all mortgage bond records of the Chicago Title and Trust company and the American National Bank and Trust company, formerly the Straus National Bank and Trust company, by Arthur G. Roe, speaker of the state house of representatives. The records are ordered produced tomorrow morning in the county building at the opening session of the legislative committee of inquiry into all phases of foreclosures and receiverships.

Subpoenas were also issued for officials of the companies, who will be called upon to testify before the committee. Those for whom subpoenas have been issued are Abel Davis, chairman of the board; Holman D. Pettibone, president, and Chester R. Davis, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company; and Morris E. Felwell, vice president and trust officer; S. J. K. Straus, president, and Melvin L. Straus, vice president of the bank.

Begin Serving Subpoenas.

The subpoena duces tecum for records of the title and trust company was served on Mr. Pettibone late yesterday by William Orthman, sergeant at arms of the state house. At the same time Mr. Pettibone was subpoenaed as a witness. The other subpoenas will be served today.

The subpoenas were issued by Speaker Roe at the request of the foreclosure staff of Attorney General Otto Kerner. George S. Lavin, John W. Brabner-Smith, and James G. Skinner comprise the staff. They are also counsel for the investigating committee.

Five specific classes of records are sought by the committee. These are information receiverships, trusteeships, depositaries, secretarial service to bondholders' committees, and loans made to bondholders' committees. The companies are also commanded to produce any other records which may pertain to the subject matter of the investigation. All receivership records since Jan. 1, 1929, and all trusteeship records since Jan. 1, 1928, are requested. No date is set on other records.

Seek Information on Fees.

Subpoenas for individuals declare that the person summoned is called to "give evidence of the whole mortgage bond situation, the expenses incident to foreclosure, receivers' activities and fees, attorneys' fees and other fees, method of selling foreclosed real estate, and activities of bondholders' committees."

The officials will be called upon to testify under oath. The subpœnas bear the warning that any omission in testimony is punishable by contempt proceedings.

More subpœnas are to be issued from time to time. Assistant Attorney General Lavin declared. Requests of the legal staff are now in the hands of Speaker Roe and will be served after he has signed them. Those issued yesterday were signed in Springfield Tuesday and arrived here yesterday.

Meets at 10 A. M.

The committee will meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in room 1121 of the county building. Members appointed in Springfield by Speaker Roe are Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, chairman; Laurence F. Arnold of Newton, Ole E. Benson of Ottawa, Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville, and O. W. Edwards of Danville.

Another hearing will be held Saturday. Future hearings are to be held each week-end until the investigation is completed. The committee is expected to draft a report to curb excessive fees and other abuses of foreclosures and receiverships for presentation to the legislature.

CIRCUS TO STAGE LIGHTED PARADE TOMORROW NIGHT

The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus will make its 1933 debut in Chicago tomorrow night when it sends into the loop a night of elephants, camels, zebras, horses, clowns, bands and caged wild animals. It will be the first time since 1899 that an illuminated circus parade has been held in Chicago.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock the procession will leave the Coliseum and is scheduled to arrive in the loop at 8 o'clock. From the Coliseum the parade will move north in Wabash avenue to 9th street, west to State street, north on State to Adams streets, west on Adams to La Salle street, north on La Salle to Wacker drive; east on Wacker drive to State street; south to 9th street, from which point it returns to Wabash avenue and back to the Coliseum.

The circus trains reached Chicago early yesterday. By noon all animals were stabled in the Coliseum, and the performers had started their rehearsals. Among the new performers are Bombayo, who performs triple somersaults from a bounding rope, the Canestrelly family and Sharab's Arabs.

The Chicago engagement opens Saturday afternoon and continues twice daily for sixteen days.

Hold Up Hospital

Three bandits obtained $1,000 in a robbery yesterday of the offices of the Ravenswood hospital, 1917 Wilson avenue, without attracting the attention of a number of men and women sitting in the lobby. Miss Anna Heinrich, the information clerk, was forced to follow the bandits into the office, where Dr. W. K. Yeakel, Dr. Walter C. McKee, and Miss Jane Kay, an employé, were threatened with guns. Miss Kay was forced to open the safe.

EXPLOSION SENDS GAS TANK SAILING INTO RESTAURANT

An explosion sent a 250 pound carbonated gas tank sailing over a Blue Island avenue street car last night, and through the front window of a Greek coffee shop at 723 Blue Island avenue. No one was hurt.

The accident resulted from the curiosity of an unidentified hobo. This man found the tank in an alley across the street from the coffee shop. Witnesses said he began beating on it with a metal instrument.

Suddenly there was a blast and the tank landed in the coffee shop, scattering some fifty patrons.

THREE GUILTY OF RITUAL MURDER; SIX ARE FREED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Inez, Ky., April 12.—[Special.]—Three members of a strange mountain cult, who made a human sacrifice upon an improvised altar in a cabin on Feb. 8, were found guilty of murder today by a jury in the Circuit court.

Those convicted are John H. Mills, 33, a son of the woman whose life was snuffed out in the religious ritual; Ballard Mills, 19 years old, her grandson, and Blaine McGinnis, her son-in-law. The elder Mills was sentenced to life imprisonment and the others to twenty-one years in the state penitentiary.

Six other relatives of Mrs. Lucinda Mills, the 67 year old victim of the cult, were indicted for murder, but all were freed. Mrs. Mollie McGinnis and Mrs. Ora Moore, daughters, were found not guilty at the end of the trial today. By peremptory instructions of Judge J. F. Bailey, two others were dismissed yesterday. They are Fred Mills, a son, and Tom Boyd, son-in-law. Mrs. John H. Mills and Mrs. Fred Mills, daughters-in-law, were dismissed earlier on motion of the commonwealth.

Testimony in the trial had shown that Lucinda Mills, with her family grouped around her, had been choked to death by John Mills, the leader in their religious exercises. During the ceremony the group spoke in "the unknown tongue," unintelligible to outsiders.

Blast in Cleaning Shop Jars Rogers Park District

An explosion caused $800 damage last night to the cleaning and tailoring shop of William Tansmen at 1302 Estes avenue. A large section of the Rogers Park district was jarred by the blast. The police said the explosion probably resulted from the ignition of leaking gas in a clothes press.

ILLINOIS POLICY ON GRAVEL LAND STIRS UP SENATE

Barr Bill Lost, 30 to 13; State Fair Wins.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—A bill to allow the state to turn over part of its gravel lands to a private corporation went down to defeat in the senate today. It was tabled, 30 to 13. Many members had raised their voices against it. Some threatened, for a time, to strike the enacting clause—surest way to send a measure to oblivion.

Sponsored by Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], the bill would have permitted the department of public works, with the consent of the governor, to "contract for the operation of a gravel pit and the removal of gravel from state owned lands near Lockport for a cash consideration or for some other consideration which is deemed advantageous to the state."

Names Chicago Concern.

Behind this language, according to Senator Martin B. Lohmann [Dem., Pekin] lay a plan to exchange an unworked gravel pit close to the Stateville prison for another adjoining, privately owned pit which has been worked down to its limestone bed. Lohmann asserted that the unworked pit was ideal for the purposes of the Material Service corporation, 33 North La Salle street, Chicago, a sand and gravel company which owns the worked out pit.

That concern has a spur track leading to its dock on the Illinois waterway, Lohmann declared, and easily could extend the track so that it would have complete facilities for handling the gravel it worked from the new pit.

"This bill would work to the detriment of every other stone, gravel, and crushed rock company in the state," Lohmann declared. "There would be no competitive bids, because the Material Service corporation has a plant on the site and is in the best position to negotiate for the property."

Senator Barr contended that a pit cleared to bedrock would be advantageous to the state, because it would furnish work for convicts at the prison.

Lohmann, however, moved to strike out the enacting clause. That method, often used in the house, is almost unknown in senate procedure. Rather than establish such a custom in the senate Lohmann withdrew the motion and presented one to table the bill. On that motion the roll was called. The bill was tabled 30 to 13.

The bill can be taken from the table by a majority vote, however, but the temper displayed today by Lohmann, N. M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], and others indicate such action is improbable.

While the senate was occupied with this matter the house administered a drubbing to one of the Burns economy bills, which by its magnitude drew only 9 favorable votes.

Would Abolish State Fair.

First of the abolition bills presented by Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] the measure would have abolished the state fair held in Springfield annually. Its passage, Burns argued, would save the taxpayers more than $650,000.

With the aid of downstate votes that bill was defeated in the committee on efficiency and economy. Burns, as chairman of that group, however, sought to have the house act contrary to that recommendation this morning. He told his colleagues that the fair was only a "ten day carnival for Sangamon and Macoupin counties," that it accomplished nothing of value and was a useless expense to the state.

Downstaters for whom the fair is a special "pet" thought otherwise. Aided by many Chicago votes, they defeated the motion to non-concur by a vote of 111 to 9.

"This vote," Burns declared after the incident, "demonstrated conclusively to me that the members of the house are not in sympathy with a program to genuinely reduce the costs of government."

Yesterday, however, the house passed two bills on the program, reducing the pay of Supreme, Circuit and Superior court judges and also that of state officers.

On one of the roll calls on these bills, published in today's TRIBUNE, the name of Gus J. Johnson [Rep., Paxton] was omitted from the "aye" column. An error in telegraphic transmission or reception was responsible for the omission. Mr. Johnson voted in favor of all reductions yesterday.

call upon me as custodian of this pile of stones to do my duty and maintain order."

Senator Makes Reply.

Commenting on the governor's statements tonight, Senator Charles N. Orr, St. Paul, chairman of the rules committee of the Minnesota senate which has disagreed with the governor on necessary procedure, said:

"Admittedly widespread distress prevails in this state, but undoubtedly to a lesser degree than in many other sections of the country.

"I sympathize with the predicament of the farmer and workman and the many others. But I think the search for a panacea should not be predicated on a panicky feeling with a sudden upsetting of the whole scheme of things.

"I think the senate has been doing what it can and in the closing days of the legislative session it is ready to act on other proposals recommended. The senate simply has not reacted to radical demands or wholesale and damaging charges and that is why this body has been singled out and condemned while it has been coolly and firmly proceeding to protect the rights of its citizens so far as is possible. Refusal to be stampeded into premature and dangerous steps is a right the senate has exercised with the full appreciation of conditions and full intent to do what it can."

Senate Hears Delegation.

The senate recessed to hear two members of the delegation. H. L. Millington of St. Paul, Minn., Bonus Expeditionary force commander, told the lawmakers they "had not kept faith with the people." Mrs. J. D. Maly of St. Paul said, "We are here to protest against the shameful disgrace of the legislature regarding farm and poor relief." Many members of the delegation were members of the bonus army in Washington last summer.

JUDGE TO RULE TODAY ON PLEA TO ACQUIT BANKERS

Judge Francis B. Allegretti will rule today on a motion for a directed verdict of not guilty which is sought by Seymour Stedman and five others formerly associated in the management of the City State bank, who are charged with receiving deposits at the bank while knowing that the institution was insolvent. The motion was made by attorneys for the defendants yesterday and State's Attorney John O'Hora will reply to these arguments this morning. Judge Allegretti's ruling is expected by noon.

During the course of arguments in support of the motion yesterday Attorney A. C. Lewis, counsel for Stedman, asserted that "there was no larceny or embezzlement in the bank, only bad judgment based on predictions of the return of prosperity."

The state closed its case early yesterday morning.

BLAST SHAKES NORTH SIDE AREA IN CLEANING WAR

Violence in the cleaners' war continued this morning when terrorists exploded a bomb at the front entrance of the Checker Cleaners, Inc., shop at 2257 Devon avenue. The feud, apparently over price cutting, was renewed recently after a temporary cessation.

The blast jarred the neighborhood for blocks around and aroused a dozen families occupying apartments in the building where the shop is located. Windows were broken in the building and a block away.

The cleaning shop and Frank Young's Chinese laundry next door at 2255 Devon avenue were shattered. Large windows in the National Tea company store at 2259 Devon avenue and in the Draper & Kramer real estate office at 2254 Devon avenue were also broken.

WISCONSIN MILK POOL DIRECTORS FIX NEW PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Appleton, Wis., April 12.—[Special.]—A minimum price of $1.99 for each hundred pounds of 3.5 butter fat milk and $2.75 for bottled milk today was set by the Wisconsin milk pool directors as the object of the farm holiday which will be called some time before May 13.

Walter M. Singler, president of the pool, declared the prices to be demanded represent the true cost of milk production on Wisconsin farms, plus a reasonable profit to the farmers. He said the same price will be demanded everywhere in the state and that there will be no peace until it is paid everywhere.

He declared there will be no compromising by districts and warned the five members of the strike control committee to entertain no offers that were not based on a complete statewide victory.

Singler said free milk would be provided to city consumers by pool members if they come to the farms for it during the "holiday." Free milk also will be provided on the same basis to city poor departments and to hospitals, he asserted.

A discussion whether idlers from the cities would be permitted to participate in the picketing resulted in the conclusion that they would be welcomed and permitted to share in the fight only if they carried union cards and agreed to submit to the orders of the pool directors.

ILLINOIS EDITOR SLATED FOR U. S. TREASURY POST

Vincent Dallman to Be Appointed Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Vincent Dallman, editor of the Springfield, Ill., State Register, is slated for an appointment as assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of customs, coast guard, industrial alcohol, and narcotics.

Mr. Dallman is expected to succeed Seymour Lowman, who held the post during the Hoover administration. The Illinois publisher has been in Washington several days, but is leaving late tonight for Chicago, where he will address the Chicago Association of Commerce tomorrow noon, on the subject: "The Miracle of Confidence." His text concerns the early successes of the Roosevelt administration.

Rounds Up Delegates.

During the pre-convention foray for Illinois delegates, Mr. Dallman took charge of the Roosevelt activities in southern Illinois, and he is credited with having mustered considerable downstate support for the President.

The appointment has not yet been officially tendered, it is understood, but, from a source next to the President, it was said the nomination would go to the senate in a few days.

Woman Becomes Minister.

President Roosevelt sent three names to the senate today. They were Mayor James M. Curley of Boston for ambassador to Poland; Former Congresswoman Ruth Bryan Owen of Florida, daughter of William Jennings Bryan, for minister to Denmark and Iceland, and Frank T. Bell of Washington for commissioner of fish and fisheries, succeeding Henry O'Malley. The nominations were confirmed.

Mrs. Owen is the first American woman honored with a diplomatic ministership.

Atty. John E. Peddersen to Enter Private Practice

Attorney John E. Peddersen, who for many years has been an assistant in the state's attorney's office under County Tax Attorney Hayden N. Bell, yesterday resigned to resume private practice. He will join Attorney Edgar B. Elder, who also was a member of the civil staff of the state's attorney's office, in forming a law firm.

WARS BREAK UP U. S. DEPARTMENT, GENERAL AVERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—The house military affairs committee today heard an officer of the army high command assert that "not even an archangel out of heaven" could operate a war department as complicated as the one that now stands—that it will collapse at the first shock of war.

Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, commander of the 7th corps area and the fourth army, startled the members of the committee. He said he had his data for the President and was surprised to be called before a congressional committee.

"The war department," he declared, "always has collapsed at the outbreak of every war, and the present organization will collapse at the outbreak of the next war because it is too top-heavy, contains too many conflicting agencies, has too much divided responsibility."

Regarding the army itself, the general proposed a new plan of organization premised on the possession of a navy "equal at least to the best navy in the world," and the restoration of harbor defenses to protect the sea coast.

"The National Guard," he explained, "should be advanced to the first line of the army and the regular army put back in the reserve. In time of peace the regular army should be used to instruct the civilian component. In time of minor emergency the regular army should be used as the main fighting force. In time of major emergency the regular army should be disbanded and a great corps of professional soldiers used to train and lead the emergency army of ten to fifteen million men."

FAIL TO TIGHTEN RULES TO GUIDE U. S. HOUSE ACTS

Liberal Democrats Balk Chiefs' Efforts.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Democratic leaders failed tonight in an effort to tighten up their domination of the house of representatives. The liberal element in their own party proved strong enough to defeat a proposal to abrogate the so-called discharge rule.

Under this rule at present, 145 members of the house can, by petition, force committees to relinquish bills they have pigeonholed, and bring them to the floor for a vote. Democratic leaders, seeking to protect themselves by making a discharge petition more difficult, called a party caucus tonight to bind their house majority behind the old Longworth rule requiring the signature of 218 members, or a majority of the house, to make a discharge petition effective.

Favor Longworth Rule.

Their majority, however, refused to be bound, and in the end the leaders had to be satisfied with the adoption, by a vote of 147 to 86, of a resolution declaring it to be the "sense" of the caucus that the Longworth rule be substituted for the present more liberal one. It had been the purpose of the leaders to bind their majority to vote for the more rigid rule.

As there are 112 Republicans and five Farm-Laborites in the house certain to oppose adoption of the strict Longworth rule, the 86 Democrats who voted against the resolution tonight, are sure to find sufficient allies to defeat the proposal when it is brought up on the floor.

May Not Reach Floor.

Democratic Floor Leader Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], said following the caucus that it was not at all certain that the resolution seeking substitution of the Longworth rule for the present regulation requiring the signatures of only 145 members, will be brought up on the floor. The caucus tonight, he insisted, was merely of an "informative" nature designed to ascertain the attitude of the majority party on the matter.

Not only did the Democrats refuse to accept the plan of their leaders, but they likewise voted down a proposal by Rep. Claude V. Parsons [Dem., Ill.], to set the required number of signatures at 201, and another suggestion, by Representative Tom McKeown [Dem., Okla.], to make it 160.

ARRAIGN FORMER BANK HEAD.

Galena, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—John M. Speer, former president of the Bank of Apple River, appeared in County court here today and waived examination on charges preferred against him by the town board of Apple River that he had misapplied a portion of the road and bridge funds. Speer posted $2,000 bonds.

A PRINCE OF SIAM GETS THE BOUNCE FROM PRINCETON

Princeton, N. J., April 12.—[Special.]—Christian Gauss, dean of Princeton university, has informed the prince of Siam, Prasob Mom Chow Sukhavsti, that the atmosphere of Princeton was not conducive to his royal highness' welfare, and his royal highness has resigned.

"The prince was an oriental," said Dean Gauss. "He did not understand American ways. No disciplinary action was taken. He was told that he was not doing well here, he was not doing himself any good, and he resigned."

Much mystery is made of it all.

H. R. H. is a nephew of Queen Rambaibarni of Siam, who accompanied King Prajadhipok here last year when he had an operation performed upon his eyes. From the beginning he was a source of surprise at the university, which does not have many Siamese princes.

"The prince was very young," said Dean Gauss.

WOMAN DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

Unionist Is Ordered Held to Grand Jury as Slayer

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Charles McKenna, 35 years old, a member of the Tuck Pointers' union, be held to the grand jury for the slaying of Nicholas Razes, 42 years old, 5521 South Racine avenue. Razes was shot to death Tuesday night in his brother's restaurant at 1201 Garfield boulevard by McKenna, who entered the place, apparently intoxicated, and flourished a revolver. Nicholas got a pistol and in the ensuing gun battle Razes was killed and McKenna was shot in the left arm.

—and The Store for Men is the most logical place to select your new Easter wardrobe. While you're in town over the week-end we feel sure that you'll want to stop in and see all the smart, new things that we have designed specifically for young men.

You know our drape clothes—you know, too, that our Deerpath Drapes were the first ready-for-service clothes of their type in the country and that they were first at The Store for Men. Wait till you see what we've done with this style—the fabrics we've used, the colors—the ideas we've put into our clothing—your clothing.

Everything is ready for you. Snap brim Homburgs, check shirts, drape clothes, bow ties, sport handkerchiefs—you'll never be surer that this is the young men's store than when you see this great new collection of Easter apparel we've planned just for you!

PAGES OF NEW SPRING FASHION POINTS

The Snap Brim Homburg

Eastern college men wore this hat home at Christmas and we had it copied immediately for in it we saw a "comer"—and what a style it is! A bound edge Homburg, made so that the front may be snapped smartly without any unevenness or curl. In brown, gray or tan, $7

First Floor

The Campus

The snap brim hat with an almost invisible bound edge that is the accepted style on most campuses today—and here is the new Spring model for Easter. You'll recognize immediately the proportions of brim and crown are absolutely right $5

BORAH DEFENDS SOVIET IN DEBATE ON RECOGNITION

Robinson (Ind.) Says It Means Arming Foes.

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Radical and conservative in the persons of Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho] and Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.] battled in the senate again today, this time over recognition of Russia.

"The entire policy of the present Russian government," said Senator Robinson, "is subversive to the rest of the world. The soviets have no regard for solemn treaties, frankly avowing that they will sign any pact that will further their interests with the unconcealed intention to violate it as soon as self-interest has been served."

The Indiana senator cited the experiences of other countries which had been forced to break off diplomatic relations with Russia because of activities of Russian envoys.

"Arm Them to Shoot at Us."

"Dangerous as their activities are to our welfare under present conditions," he went on, "they would be infinitely worse if conducted under the official cloak of American recognition. We would be simply placing a gun in their hands with which to shoot us."

Nor did the argument concerning commercial advantage hold good, Senator Robinson declared. In normal times, he said, only 7 per cent of American production is sold abroad, only a small portion of it to Russia, and that on credit; Russia, on the other hand, demands cash for her goods sold here.

Senator Borah immediately took up the cudgels in behalf of his favorite policy.

Says U. S. Public Knows.

"The people of the United States," he said, "are perfectly capable of determining for themselves what theories they wish to listen to. If I did not believe in their intelligence and patriotism I should be afraid of the propaganda the senator speaks of. But since I do believe in the intelligence and patriotism of our people I have no fears."

He said any citizen could read all he wished about Russia—that popular magazines were full of articles about it.

"You can learn all you want about Russia for 5 cents," he added.

He recalled that Washington and his cabinet had agreed in an hour's conference upon recognition of France at a time when France was under the revolutionary committee of public safety and "the guillotine was running every morning."

"We are about to engage in a world economic conference, take part in discussions at Geneva on disarmament," Senator Borah concluded. "How do you expect to progress toward peace, disarmament, and economic stability and leave out Russia, covering a sixth of the globe?"

SOVIET TRADING FIRM LOSES $75,000 SUIT TO BRITISH COMPANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—Damages of $75,000 were awarded against Arcos, Ltd., the Russian Trading corporation in Great Britain, today in a suit brought by Jewson & Sons, Ltd., British lumber importing firm, which alleged fraud and breach of contract.

The Jewson firm complained that Arcos sold 10,500 standards of soft wood for the 1930 season. The terms laid down in 42 contracts were on conditions published to the lumber trade by Arcos on May 28 of that year. Afterward Jewsons discovered that Arcos had sold a large consignment of wood to W. N. Hillas & Co. under much more favorable terms.

Arcos' defense was that the Hillas sale was made a week before the trade terms were issued, but Justice Branson held that the soviets "failed to disclose material facts which it was their honest duty to disclose" to Jewsons, "who were therefore placed at a disadvantage in competing with the Hillas company."

Prisoner Saws Police Cell Bars and Escapes

Walter Pernalski, 25 years old, 3001 West 40th street, held as a burglar, sawed the bars of his cell in the Brighton Park police station early yesterday and fled. After completing the sawing, Pernalski replaced the bars. He also arranged his overcoat and shoes on his cot so that they simulated the form of a sleeping man. His flight was not discovered until several hours afterwards. Pernalski was arrested for stealing a pair of shoes. It is believed that friends who visited him Tuesday night gave him a saw.

BRITON ON TRIAL IN RUSSIA PLEADS GUILTY AS SPY

Names Five Countrymen as Accomplices.

prisoners' box was Anna Kutuzova, round faced blond secretary of the company's Moscow office. Two paces to her left was Thornton, whose healthy and imperturable face contrasted with the nervous mien and pallor of MacDonald. The latter sat to the right of the woman. His fingers were twitching.

Military and economic espionage on behalf of the British intelligence service, as personified by C. E. Richards, former captain of intelligence on the Archangel expedition and now director of the export department of the Metropolitan-Vickers company, is the principal charge in the indictment of the British engineers.

MacDonald Gives Information.

In addition there are charges of sabotage activities, concealment of defects in Metropolitan-Vickers machines and bribery of soviet technicians.

Thornton, MacDonald, and Cushny are directly charged with espionage and Monkhouse indirectly. The latter is accused of knowing, permitting, and abetting the activities of the others. Gregory is charged with collecting and transmitting information for Thornton; Nordwell is charged with sabotage, concealment of defects, and bribery.

Throughout the bulky document—upwards of 20,000 words—compiled from data collected in a preliminary inquiry, runs a sinister streak of admissions and accusations by MacDonald, who seems to have weakened under questioning and provided the G. P. U. with rich material.

According to the indictment, MacDonald said on March 12 that "Thornton directed and ramified the activities carried on in Russia under cover of the Metropolitan-Vickers firm. Monkhouse and Cushny also participated in these illegal activities. That is the basic group of the intelligence workers carrying on espionage in Russia."

After MacDonald, the woman secretary, Anna Kutuzova, is the "star witness" of the prosecution. It was she who named Richards. She said he came to Moscow to give Thornton and Monkhouse instructions about the espionage work, and she said she heard his name continually mentioned in "their secret discussions." She said she once openly charged Thornton with carrying on espionage activities and he admitted it.

Deny All Charges.

Thornton and the rest of the Englishmen, except MacDonald, deny all charges, although Monkhouse and Thornton say Richards instructed them to collect certain information of a general character.

But MacDonald's testimony, if genuine, is damning. He admits that he bribed Russians to inform him about the nature and quantity of shells being produced at the war factory at Zlatoust and the quality of steel for airplanes; he admits complicity in wrecking the power plant of the Zlatoust factory; he admits planning to reduce the power by one-half in the event of war; he admits doing this at Thornton's instructions.

Another aid to the prosecution is a Russian employé of Metropolitan-Vickers, named Oleinik, who says he acted as a go-between. The other accused Russians are technicians who say they yielded to the temptation and accepted bribes to give information, conceal defects, and wreck machines or delay or hamper work in power plants.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THESE FIGURES?

Two cheap refrigerators do not equal one good one. You can buy an electric refrigerator for a lower price than that at which Westinghouse quality can be sold. But where is the economy if you must replace it within a few years, while a Westinghouse offers a lifetime of service?

Look at the FACTS: Westinghouse makes only one quality refrigerator . . . the BEST that can be built. You save more with a Westinghouse . . . and it serves longer . . . because it is more efficient and is designed to run for many years without appreciable wear. The mechanism is HERMETICALLY SEALED against rust, dirt and moisture; it is DUAL-AUTOMATIC, with the extra precaution of the Built-in Watchman thermostat.

If you pay more, it's an extravagance . . . for there is no better refrigerator built at any price. If you pay less, you are gambling with the life and soundness of your refrigeration investment. A visit to our showroom will convince you. Come in!

HITLER LAUNCHES INVESTIGATION OF BIG BUSINESS MEN

Criminal Prosecutions to Be Opened.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 12.—The anti-corruption office created by Capt. Hermann Goering, premier of Prussia and minister without portfolio in the Hitler cabinet, announced today that it is investigating 22 cases for evidence of criminal violations.

The main case, it was declared, centers around Thomas Esser, Centrist vice president of the reichstag, who is charged with shady bank transactions. Esser is a director of the Trade bank of Euskirchen.

Another case is that against Paul von Gontard, whose wife is a daughter of Adolphus Busch of St. Louis, who is charged with violation of the currency restriction law and with tax fraud.

Insurance Directors Under Fire.

The directors of the Illness Insurance service will be tried for mismanagement of funds, it was said.

Otto Wolff of Cologne, famous industrialist, also is under investigation.

The case of Alfred Rotter, former Berlin cinema magnate, who was killed by a gang of seven men last week in Leichtenstein, also is on the list. Rotter fled from Germany after the collapse of his theater interests.

Otto Klepper, former Prussian minister of finance, is charged with violation of the bankruptcy laws.

The government today appointed a special expert on racial problems. One of his main duties will be to determine which officials are to be considered Aryan and allowed to remain in their posts and which are to be considered Jews and discharged.

Aim Blow at Jew Students.

An outline of new student legislation, combining all student associations and unifying their rules, was issued by the government today. The new code abolishes parliamentarism and substitutes Nazi "leadership." This eliminates popular selections of student leaders. The new code excludes Jews from membership in student associations. As a result of the new code, it is expected that the present heads of universities will resign.

The Deutsche Studentenschaft, an organization of "nationally minded" university students, today launched a nation-wide campaign against "un-German spirit." Its program is formulated in eleven "theses." The first three are concerned with the purity of the German language and German literature, which it says "must be a pure and unadulterated expression of German nationalism."

Calls Jews Foes.

The next thesis reads, in part:

"Our most dangerous antagonists are the Jews and their satellites. A Jew can speak only Jewish. When he writes in German, he lies. We want to extirpate lies. We want to brand treason. We demand of students abodes not of thoughtlessness but of discipline and political education.

"We demand censorship to see to it that Jewish writings appear in Hebrew. When they are printed in German they are to be designated as translations.

"Of the German student we demand the will and ability of overcoming Jewish intellectualism and the phenomena of liberal degeneration associated therewith."

Students are directed to purge their bookshelves of everything "un-German" and enjoined to inspect each others' literary possessions with this object in view. All such "un-German" literatures shall be turned in to central collection offices and on May 10 proscribed writings will be publicly burned.

Hindenburg Takes Part in Hohenzollern Ceremony

POTSDAM, Germany, April 12.—(AP)—President von Hindenburg as the godfather of Karl Joseph, the only son of the late Prince Joachim of Prussia, today attended confirmation services at Friedenskirche. The former crown prince, the former crown princess, and other members of the Hohenzollern family attended. The former kaiser telegraphed his congratulations from Doorn, Holland.

GERMAN MUSIC LOVERS CHEER WALTER, OUSTED BY GERMAN NAZIS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, April 12.—A great reception was given tonight to Bruno Walter, former guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra, after he had conducted Mahler's Eighth symphony. Walter left Germany recently after the Nazis had refused to let him continue to conduct.

Deutschoester-Reichische Tageszeitung, a Nazi organ, published an offensive article concerning the concert today.

"The Jewish conductor Walter, with his carefully hidden name of Schlesinger, was recently obliged to abandon concerts in Berlin and Dresden, as Germany has awakened at last and declined the pleasure of listening to him," it said. "After retiring to Semmering to soothe his ruffled nerves, he has decided to conduct the Eighth symphony of his racial brother, Mahler, before the completely Jewified Vienna academy of singing. We would not concern ourselves with this Jewish affair had not the Austrian railway officials' choir promised to assist. We demand that this Aryan Musical association should not provide a gentile camouflage for a Jewish performance."

HITLER'S ENVOY ARRANGES PACT WITH POPE PIUS

Concordat Will Govern Church-State Affairs.

VATICAN CITY, April 12.—(AP)—A concordat between the Vatican and Germany will result from conversations which are being held by Pope Pius XI., Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, and Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, prelates said today.

This concordat would embody the three existing concordats between the Vatican and Prussia, Bavaria and Baden.

Prelates said the agreement would be similar to those concluded with many other countries—it would regulate the affairs of church and state—and in no way would it mention the Hitlerites or the Catholic Center party in Germany, or enter into the political situation in the reich.

Pope Receives Von Papen.

The German vice chancellor was received today by the pope in private audience. He and Frau von Papen were accorded formal honors.

Capt. Hermann Goering, minister without portfolio in the Hitler cabinet, had an audience with the pope shortly after the Von Papens left. He arrived in an Italian government automobile bearing the Hitler swastika flag. It was the first time the German Fascist banner officially entered Vatican City.

Another concordat, according to Vatican prelates, probably will follow a visit to the pope tomorrow by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria.

Dollfuss Sees Il Duce.

The Austrian chancellor had a long conversation with Premier Mussolini today. Italian officials emphasized that Italy's attitude toward an "anschluss"—proposed union of Austria and Germany—was not changed by the advent of Chancellor Hitler. Italy still opposes this movement, it was said, as it did when it voted against it at The Hague in 1931.

PUNISH POLICE WHO FIGURED IN NITTI SHOOTING

Lang and Miller Deprived of Cash Awards.

Harry Lang, suspended police sergeant, and his partners, Sergts. Harry Miller, Chris Callaghan, and Michael Shannon, hailed as police heroes last December when Gangster Frank Nitti was shot, were stripped of their rewards yesterday.

Police Commissioner Allman rescinded the $300 award given to Lang for "meritorious service" in shooting Nitti. Allman also erased creditable mentions given to Lang and to Miller, Callaghan, and Shannon for their part in the same affair. Miller also loses an award of $180. Meanwhile it was reported Nitti had suffered a relapse from his wounds.

Lang is now under indictment on charges of perjury and of assault to murder as an outgrowth of the Nitti shooting and is scheduled to appear in the Criminal court today for a preliminary hearing and to give bond. However, it was reported that because of Nitti's relapse the former will be unable to appear against Lang.

Nitti's lawyer, Ben Short, told Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty that while Nitti might be driven to the courthouse he would be unable to leave his automobile. It is planned to serve a new subpoena on the hoodlum in view of his expressed desire not to prosecute Lang.

Nitti was wounded by Lang during a police raid on his office last Dec. 19. Lang was also wounded, allegedly by Nitti, and shortly after he and his companions were rewarded for their deed. Incidentally, neither Lang nor Miller has received any part of the $300 and $180 awards.

Later there were reports that the policemen had not given a true version of the shooting. The situation came to a head dramatically a week ago when Nitti went on trial on a charge of shooting Lang and the latter refused to name the gangster as his assailant.

The next day Sergt. Callaghan testified that Nitti, unarmed, was deliberately shot by Lang and that Lang "must have shot himself." Miller then told of reports that Lang had received $15,000 from Ted Newberry, since slain, to kill Nitti. This Lang denied.

ALDRICH TAKES UP TASK AS CHIEF P. O. INSPECTOR

Kildroy P. Aldrich, for six years postal inspector in charge of the Chicago office, yesterday took over his new duties as chief postal inspector in Washington, D. C. He informed his Chicago associates of his appointment by Postmaster General James A. Farley in a telegram yesterday morning.

Mr. Aldrich, who is 56 years old, has been an employe of the postoffice department for 37 years. He went to work as a railway mail clerk in 1896 and served in that capacity for 17 years. In 1913 he became a postal inspector and was assigned to the office in Chattanooga, Tenn. Before his assignment to Chicago in 1923, Mr. Aldrich had served for four years as inspector in charge at St. Louis, Mo.

He was placed in charge of the Chicago office in 1927. Most important among the cases investigated by Mr. Adrich in Chicago were the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery in 1924 and two mail robberies in Evergreen Park.

The bandits in all three cases were brought to trial and sentenced to the penitentiary.

A successor to Mr. Aldrich in Chicago has not been appointed and Inspector A. E. Germer will act as chief inspector until a permanent appointment is made.

Break Ground at Fair for Ukrainian Building

Dr. M. Siemens, president of the Chicago Ukrainian society, yesterday broke ground for the Ukrainian building to be built at the 39th street gateway of the World's Fair grounds. Miss Stephanie Czyzowycz, representing the Ukrainian societies of Europe, and Miss Mary Beck, an attorney of Pittsburgh, who is an authority on Ukrainian lore, spoke. The Ukrainian building, typical of the architecture of southern Russia, will contain exhibits of artcraft and sculpture and a restaurant.

O'HARA SET FREE ON $20,000 BOND IN OSER SLAYING

Thomas E. Maloy Posts Bail in Cash.

Ralph O'Hara, organizer for the Motion Pictures Operators' union, who is under indictment for the murder of Fred J. Oser, rebel member of the union, was freed on $20,000 bond yesterday pending trial. O'Hara was admitted to bail by Judge James F. Hardy in the Criminal court after two union employés, friendly to the defendant, took the witness stand. They gave testimony to support O'Hara's claim that he shot Oser to death in self defense on March 24, in the union offices at 506 South Wabash avenue.

Thomas E. Maloy, business agent of the union, posted the bond in cash immediately after the court hearing. The business agent, who is paid $400 a week by the union, marched into the court clerk's office and produced two $1,000 bills, sixteen $500 bills and a hundred $100 bills. Members of the Oser rebel faction have asserted that the shooting grew out of their charge that Maloy, O'Hara, and others were reaping a huge income by selling working permits to operators who were not members of the union.

"This Is Union Money."

"Don't say this is my dough," Maloy told reporters as he thumbed through the roll of bills. "This is union money."

The murder indictment against O'Hara, who maintains that he fired the fatal shots when Oser shot at him, was returned after a coroner's jury had decided that the killing was justifiable homicide.

The inquest verdict was reached despite the testimony of state witnesses that Oser had never been known to carry a gun. The only state witness called yesterday was George B. Rea, 4005 Irving Park boulevard, long friendly with Oser. He told of going to a barber shop with Oser shortly before the shooting. Rea said that he saw no evidence of a revolver when Oser removed his coat and top coat.

Announcing that he "was glad that he was in a court of law," Defense Attorney Michael Ahern opened his statement to the court with the remark that a "lot of hearsay evidence was allowed in the record at the inquest."

Attorney Tells of Shooting.

The defense attorney said that he would show that the shots fired in the union office came in such rapid succession that it would have been impossible for O'Hara to have fired a second revolver and to have placed it beside Oser.

After Policemen William J. Barron and Harold Fogarty had told of finding the body, Attorney Ahern called Emmet Quinn, steward of the union, and Miss Gladys Bessell, telephone operator in the union office. Both witnesses, who were in the office at the time of the shooting, said that Oser entered and went into the office of Maloy, who was absent, followed by O'Hara. They heard voices raised in despute, the witnesses said, and three shots in rapid succession. O'Hara, they said, ran from the inner office and said: "He tried to kill me and I had to shoot him."

SOL FRANKEL IS SOUGHT AS 'DRAG' STAR PROMOTER

Sol Frankel, old time "I gotta drag" racketeer, was being sought last night by the state's attorney's office on suspicion that he has been promoting a new "drag" scheme in which the name of Leroy Davidson, former chief of the county highway police, is being used.

Davidson, who lives at 2337 South 53d avenue, Cicero, appeared at the state's attorney's office yesterday, following the publication of a story concerning the new racket in which his name was mentioned and protested to Prosecutor Mal Coghlan that he has no connection with the scheme. He said he had once met Frankel and that Frankel might be behind the racket.

The racket was exposed with the arrest of John Morgan, who was trying to sell a tin star to a "client" for $10. The star bore the name of the Cook county constabulary. Accompanying material indicated Davidson was the backer. Morgan declared he was working for Davidson. Yesterday Morgan looked at Davidson and said he was not the man whom he believed to be Davidson. Morgan was charged with disorderly conduct and later discharged.

HELEN KANE ORDERED TO PAY $40,000 GIVEN TO HER BY POSNER

New York, April 12.—(AP)—After several years of court battles, Federal Judge Francis Caffey today ordered Helen Kane, the singer, to return to the Irving Trust company, as trustee, $40,000 paid to her by Murray Posner, president of the bankrupt Bond Dress company.

The court also ordered the boop-boop-a-doop singer to pay $6,400 in interest.

Judge Caffey said he accepted as true Miss Kane's testimony that in 1929 she advanced $50,000 to Posner. This was returned to her in two payments; one of $10,000, the second of $40,000.

The court held that the singer was probably unaware of the dress company's insolvency when she received the first payment, but said he did not believe Miss Kane's testimony that she did not know the company was insolvent when the $40,000 was paid back.

In view of the court's opinion that Miss Kane had no knowledge of the firm's insolvency when the $10,000 was returned to her, the singer was exempted from returning that amount.

The court held "unacceptable" Miss Kane's explanation of why she transferred the money to Liberty bonds and deposited them in a safety deposit box under another name because of fear of gangsters.

CLEWS TO DAIRY BOMBING SOUGHT IN JOLIET STRIKE

Plant Found Selling to Locked-Out Drivers.

Police last night turned to the Joliet milk strike in search for a motive for the attempted bombing yesterday of the Edgewater Dairy company, 5348 Ravenswood avenue.

Orville Nelson, part owner of the dairy, told Summerdale police that he had been supplying milk for delivery by the Joliet drivers who have been locked out by their former employers. The drivers, who were locked out when they refused to take a pay cut, have been using milk from the Edgewater dairy to carry on business on their routes.

Threatened for Sales.

Nelson admitted that he had heard rumors of threats made against him because of the Joliet sales. Fred Dahms, 38 years old, 5536 North Artesian avenue, a business agent for the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, was taken into custody for questioning after police were told that he had once threatened to bomb the dairy unless it employed union drivers.

Dahms admitted warning Nelson to "get his men into the union," but denied making any threats. He was released after questioners failed to shake his story.

Tear Fuse from Bomb.

The bomb, made of two sticks of dynamite in a glass jar, was tossed through the dairy window. William Ohlenkamp, 40 years old, 6017 North Paulina street, one of four men bottling milk at the time, tore off the lighted fuse and hurled the bomb into the street.

The officials of the Joliet milk companies and the wagon drivers' union will air their differences today before the Illinois industrial commission at the Joliet courthouse. An attempt will be made to reach an agreement on wages to be paid the drivers.

UPHOLD KILLING OF ROBBER.

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned yesterday at the inquest into the death of John Finnerty, 17 years old, 4803 South Union avenue, who was shot to death by detectives on March 28 as he tried to rob the Kay store, 3479 Archer avenue.

3 PROFESSORS GIVE VIEWS ON STATE OF NATION

Regard Future of U. S. with 'Diluted Optimism.'

Three University of Chicago professors last night contributed their specialized viewpoints to a symposium on "The State of the Nation" before an audience which filled the Goodman theater. President Robert M. Hutchins of the university acted as chairman and introduced the speakers, Prof. Charles E. Merriam, political scientist: Prof. Jacob Viner, economist, and Prof. T. V. Smith of the philosophy department.

As viewed by these three the present state of the nation is such as to inspire "diluted optimism."

Hail Roosevelt Leadership.

All three commented on the vigorous leadership of the Roosevelt administration as a hopeful sign for the future, although some of the measures sponsored by the new administration, particularly the farm relief and thirty hour week bills, were severely criticized by Prof. Viner.

Prof. Merriam spoke at length on the great powers made possible to the President through the circumstance of a solid majority in both houses of congress. The President, he said, has acted entirely within the powers granted him by the constitution and could assume far more power and stay within constitutional limits.

Hopes for Economic Pacts.

Prof. Viner expressed the hope that the world economic conference might lead the way to economic recovery, but pointed out many obstacles in the path of constructive agreements, not the least of which is the doubt whether the United States senate would ratify the agreements reached.

Of the Roosevelt leadership thus far revealed, he credited the new administration with having averted a disastrous panic. "The renewed courage and hope thus engendered will not survive long, however, unless it is soon fed by concrete evidence of genuine improvement."

Prof. Smith pictured the United States as being "midway in its passage from the ethics of individual liberty to the point of anarchy to the ethics of coöperation and regimentation."

ILLINOIS SENATORS OFFER CONTROL BILLS FOR FIREWORKS

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—Bills introduced by three senators, all providing for the elimination or regulation of the manufacture, sale, and use of fireworks in Illinois, were taken from different committees and sent to the license and miscellany group headed by Senator Frank McDermott [Dem., Chicago].

Senator McDermott and Senator Edward P. O'Grady [Dem., Chicago] both have bills to eliminate the use and sale of these explosives. Senator L. C. Sieberns [Dem., Gridley] introduced a bill which would prohibit the sale and use of fireworks save between June 27 and July 4 each year. Dealers could not sell to children under 12 years of age. All the mills will be considered by the license committee.

BRITAIN TO TAKE OVER CONTROL OF RELIEF FOR IDLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 12.—A greater measure of national control over the administration of relief for the idle in Great Britain was announced in the house of commons tonight by Sir Edward Hilton Young, minister of health.

The responsibility, both administrative and financial, for assisting all able bodied unemployed is to be transferred to the national government as the central authority. A new bill will be introduced soon, the primary purpose of which will be to bring a close connection between monetary assistance and the removal of the causes and effects of idleness by providing for occupational training of the idle.

The minister of health said there are now nearly 3,000,000 persons totally without work in Britain and 6,000,000 persons dependent on some form of relief at an annual cost of $460,000,000.

Apartment of Insurance Broker Robbed of Gems

Detectives yesterday were seeking a burglar who entered the apartment of J. A. O'Connell in the Belden-Stratford hotel and fled with jewelry valued at several thousands dollars belonging to Mrs. O'Connell. Mr. O'Connell is an insurance broker. The policemen are working under the direction of Lieut. John Norton of the Summerdale district.

SHAW, A ONE ACT COMEDY ENTITLED "I," SAILS AWAY

Admits New York Speech Was a "Flop."

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—The much heralded one act comedy, entitled "I," produced and acted by George Bernard Shaw for 40 years, departed from these shores today on the Empress of Britain after playing New York for a one night stand which was, in the parlance of Broadway, a "flop."

G. B. S. said so himself, after an interview with 50 newspaper reporters on the ship. Answering the fervid congratulations of an elderly, charming lady, who thought the speech was too, too divine, the playwright shook his head sorrowfully and said in a low, serious tone, an almost sorrowful tone: "No. I bungled it badly."

Kiss Brings Laughter.

He was just about to plunge into half an hour of the most fantastic playboy business that he has yet exhibited—a turmoil with the newsreel photographers—but the mask was off for the moment. He seemed sad, chastened and not too confident.

She seemed to understand the look in his pale blue eyes. She lifted her face to his. He smiled forlornly, bent down an inch from his straight height, and she kissed him. Laughter rose. He laughed, too, and sallied forward through the lounge of the Empress, arms swinging briskly.

In the rose and golden tints of the after salon of the Empress he sat himself confidently upon a divan of green brocade and faced the interview which he stoutly and almost successfully refused to give upon his arrival.

"They Go Mad Over Me."

Mr. Shaw discussed poetry, his books and then explained why he couldn't remain any longer in America:

"This ship takes me out. I have paid my passage and cannot afford to get off. Then, too, I have a special reason for going after so short a time here. It is my first visit. It is the first visit people go mad about. I don't understand this wild enthusiasm of the American people for me. Why do they want me to stay? Why do they want to smother me with admiration? Why do they press upon me like this?"

You'll do it better on DATED coffee

Coffee is a great, natural stimulant. As food makes you strong, coffee makes you quick. It speeds brain and body, ends fatigue. But avoid stale coffee.

Copyright, 1933, by Standard Brands Inc.

IN the very first coffeehouses, gentry and commoners alike took their coffee seriously for its restorative and stimulating powers.

Why, then, do some people today hesitate to drink the second cup? Because, they say, it seems to make them nervous, causes indigestion.

"Why?" asked modern research. And, analyzing coffee, found the answer.

Of course! Back in the old days, every pound was roasted fresh as they needed it, right there in the coffeehouse. No one ever got the slightest bad effects because nobody drank stale coffee.

But in every pound of stale coffee there's nearly half a cup of rancid oil. And it's the steady use of stale coffee that often makes trouble for modern coffee-drinkers.

No wonder Chase & Sanborn were inspired to institute Dated Coffee!

Always fresh, full of flavor, delicious. If you're a healthy normal grown-up, you can drink as many as 5 cups of it a day. At parties, you need not refuse this stimulant. Outdoors, in any sport, you'll find it puts new strength, new pep into your play.

Ask for Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee. An expiration date is on each pound. Your grocer is not allowed to keep a can on his shelf after its date has expired. It never can grow stale.

CONGRESS GAME GROWS COMPLEX FOR POPULACE

Has Reached the Stage of "Inside Stuff."

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—The circus catches with which the new administration began its career have been very entertaining and the citizens have been noticeably stimulated thereby.

But now that the statesmen are beginning to deal again with such matters as Muscle Shoals, the gold standard and farm relief, including some scheme for laughing off mortgages, the game is entering the phase of inside stuff and is becoming a little too complex for popular understanding. If it is desired to hold the customers in their seats, perhaps Prof. Raymond Moley had better go into a huddle somewhere and draw up a simplified set of rules.

These would have to be very simple, not to say dumb, to meet the comprehension of the average citizen, because, for all that the campaign orators may tell him about his keen, intelligent countenance, the average citizen is not fond of thinking. If he cannot understand this game he will become bored and say to hell with it. It is a common mistake to regard mere worry or discontent over matters of government as intelligent comprehension. But, inasmuch as it is plainly impossible to broaden the public comprehension to the great width of the measures involved it might be possible to reduce the issues to a sort of Tom Thumb explanation which the citizens could understand.

Can't Laugh Off Mortgages.

I think it would be nice if some one in the government could show just how the mortgage business is going to work out, because the ordinary understanding of mortgages is quite primitive. A man hires some money, as Mr. Coolidge would have said, and when the money comes due he either pays it back or gives up his property. It is understood that he used the borrowed money in an attempt to make more money, and it is also understood that if this attempt had brought him a profit of 1,000 per cent he still would have paid back only as much as his legal owings, and not any more. Inasmuch as the lender does not stand any chance of sharing in the borrower's extraordinary good luck, if any, then, naturally, it is assumed that he will not be asked to share his hard luck, either.

The citizens have not found it hard to understand beer, and the indictment of Mr. Harriman is quite plain to them also, partly because so many of them are indicted themselves from time to time. But the government proposition of laughing off the mortgage or laughing down the interest will take some patient, careful elucidation, especially to citizens who own insurance policies in companies which invested their funds in mortgages.

Mystery of Muscle Shoals.

It may be quite a nice thing for the country to help people who overborrowed to buy solid possessions in Iowa or Nebraska, but a man who borrowed $1,000 to buy an operation in Newark, N. J., may feel the same way about his debt.

Mr. Woodin might write a little song about it.

Muscle Shoals has been a tremendous mystery for years and now it seems that in a land which the technocrats found too high powered for its own good more power is to be manufactured. Just what use it to be made of the power I have not been able to gather from my reading but they could pass a law.

The point is, however, that now with beer on sale and with the boys marching off to the camps to prepare for a summer among the woods and waters and all the little furred and feathered wild things, the administration goes into the hard part. Summer is nighing and with it baseball and golf and after that football and if Mr. Roosevelt is to hold his crowd he must dramatize his program and present some idea of how it works or why he happens to think it somehow might.

Administration Changes.

It should not be forgotten that the rotogravure features of the new deal are generally very much like, though in their details quite different from, those of the preceding administrations. The President will have his swimming pool, but Mr. Hoover had his medicine ball and Mr. Coolidge had old Dobbin the Iron Horse. The Roosevelts have a Scottie named Agnes or Angus, but Mr. Hoover had a sullen white mutt that used to tear hunks out of diplomats' legs and bury them in the yard. And Mr. Harding had an Airedale, the first of a national league of Laddie Boys.

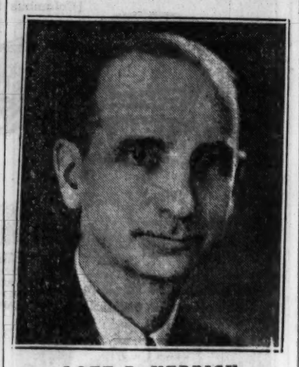
The beer scenes in which a truck dropped a case of decimal brew at the White House was original and Mr. Roosevelt deserved his publicity on that score, for he restored beer where Mr. Hoover, the world traveler, pretended not to know what beer was. I believe, though, that they used to have a maple sirup ceremony in Mr. Coolidge's time known as bringing in the sap which was not a bad picture once a year and lent itself to coarse humor.

Some Public Reactions.

Ardent Democrats in all the hollows of the mountains and in all the swamps will be sending in random picture subjects from time to time such as double yolk eggs, dogs that bark "Sweet Adeline," blue billygoats, swallow tailed badgers, house broken rattlesnakes, two headed pullets, and forty story strawberry shortcakes made by the domestic science class of the East Whiffletree Junior high. The camera detail will record these and the pictures will be amusing but no more so after the novelty is off than the invariable White House routine. For it is a national habit to send our freaks and problems to the President for his very own.

It seems almost as if the saving enabled by the dramatic economies of just the other day are now to be spent away in other directions. Something which I think the boys ought to explain in dumb, simple language just about now, or anyway pretty soon, is by what method of arithmetic you save a billion and spend a billion on new business and show a saving in the end.

Named for Bench



LOTT R. HERRICK.

Champaign, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—Lott R. Herrick of Farmer City was nominated today as the Democratic candidate for the state Supreme court from the Third judicial district. Herrick will oppose James S. Baldwin, Republican, of Decatur, in the June election. At Bloomington Steven R. Baker, Pontiac; William C. Radliff, Bloomington, and Frank P. Lindley, Paxton, were nominated candidates for Circuit court judges of the Eleventh judicial district by a Republican convention.

JUDGE DE YOUNG IS RENOMINATED BY REPUBLICANS

Conference on Coalition Set for Today.

Justice Frederic R. DeYoung of the Supreme court was unanimously renominated yesterday by the Republican convention of the 7th supreme judicial district, at the Hotel Sherman. His name was placed before the delegates by George F. Barrett and seconding speeches were made by Roy O. West, former secretary of the interior; Otis F. Glenn, former senator; William Busse, and others.

In order to proceed with judicial coalition negotiations the Cook county convention took a recess until Saturday. The slatemaking group did not meet with Patrick A. Nash and the Democrats, but a conference is set for today.

Picking Judicial Slates.

Behind closed doors a committee of Democrats began consideration of candidates to be placed on their ticket. Among others on the committee are Clayton F. Smith, Moe Rosenberg, Joseph L. Gill, R. M. Sweitzer, Thomas J. Courtney, Joseph McDonough, E. J. Kelly, Horace Lindheimer, Albert J. Horan and Ald. John Toman.

It appeared last night that the Democrats will offer to nominate the five Republican circuit judges indorsed by the bar primaries and Judge George Fred Rush, who was not indorsed, for whom the Deneen group has been active. Mr. Nash is reported to favor Judge Rush.

Abandon 50-50 Proposal.

Among the Republicans, who have abandoned their 50-50 proposal, reports were that coalition will be proposed on the basis of 7 Republicans and 13 Democrats for the Circuit court, 1 Republican and 1 Democrat for the Superior court, and indorsement by the Democrats of Justice Frederic R. DeYoung in the 7th Supreme court district.

Among Republican leaders the idea was advanced last night of naming the five Republican judges indorsed by the bar and filling the rest of their places by a selection from four candidates, Harris Gaines, John Sbarbaro, John Dempsey and Arthur A. Huebsch. At Democratic headquarters the prevailing talk was for putting up a ticket in the 7th supreme district.

TWO GANGSTERS SHOT TO DEATH IN HOTEL ROOM

Elizabeth, N. J., April 12.—(AP)—Gangsters' guns broke the teatime quiet of the Elizabeth Carteret hotel today, and a dozen detectives, scurrying past startled guests to an eighth floor suite, found two bodies described by police as those of beer syndicate leaders.

The slain men were identified by police by Max Feldman, 33, and Joseph Greenberg, 33, both of Reading, Pa. Police were checking a report that Feldman, also was known as Max Hassell, Pennsylvania beer baron. While reluctant to attach significance to the fact, police said Feldman was a pal of Al Lillien, whose enemies killed him on March 23 after chasing him up two flights of stairs in the old Hammerstein place at Atlantic Highlands.

An overturned chair in a distant part of the suite indicated to Capt. Frank Brennan, in charge of the investigation, that one of the victims, at least, had run 60 or 70 feet to escape.

Greenberg's body, with a bullet through the heart, was slumped in a chair behind a desk, his chin resting against his chest.

Feldman had fallen to the floor in front of the desk. Two bullets had gone through the back of his head.

BILL TO CONTINUE U. S. TAX ON GAS COMING UP SOON

Receipts Expected to Exceed Estimate.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration's first tax bill, a measure to continue the federal tax on gasoline for another year, will be presented to the house within a week, Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], of the ways and means committee, announced today.

Included in the bill, according to Mr. Doughton, will be a provision restoring the former two cent rate on first class local drop letters. Regarded as the most efficient money raiser of all the taxes levied in the revenue act of last year, the gasoline tax will be continued for a year from next June.

When the 1932 tax bill was being drawn, it was estimated that receipts from the one cent a gallon gasoline levy would approximate 130 millions a year, but indications now are that revenue from the tax will exceed that estimate by about 10 millions.

Restoration of the two cent rate on local drop mail, Chairman Doughton said, is expected to increase the postal revenues which slumped sharply following the increase to three cents. The reduction in the rate, he said, has been suggested by officials of the postoffice department as a move toward balancing the postal budget which faces a prospective deficit this year of 122 millions.

At its meeting today, the ways and means committee was also understood to have considered abolishing the present 2 cent tax on bank checks. It had been argued that the levy tended to retard a clearing of the bank situation, but members of the committeed disagreed, pointing out that revenue from the check tax has been large despite the banking difficulties. The tax on checks is not expected to be disturbed.

3 JUDGES ARE RENOMINATED IN G. O. P. SESSION

Three sitting judges in the Sixteenth judicial district were renominated by the Republican district convention, held in Aurora yesterday. They are John K. Newhall of Aurora, Frank Shepherd of Elgin and William J. Fulton of Sycamore. The district comprises Kane, Du Page, De Kalb, and Kendall counties.

After the nominations were made State's Attorney Chauncey Reed of Du Page county introduced a resolution calling for an agreement that, in future, no county be given more than one judge by the convention. Du Page county is without representation, while Kane county is the home of two of the present judges.

The motion was declared out of order, and a committee was appointed to draft one not so emphatic on the same subject.

Woman Found Slain; Hold Her Husband and Neighbor

Mrs. Frances Stachura, 45 years old, was found beaten to death in bed in her home at 1509 Dickson street, yesterday. The police arrested her husband, Matthew, 52 years old, and John Janowski, 56 years old, who lives above the Stachura flat. Each man accused the other of the murder. A neighbor told the police, however, that Janowski entered the Stachura flat on hearing screams.

MERCHANT DIES IN GARAGE.

Wataska, Ill., April 12.—(AP)—August Hanson, 55, a well known merchant, was found dead today, apparently of carbon monoxide gas, in his garage, the doors of which were closed and the motor running.

LUEDER AGREES RATE CUT WOULD INCREASE MAIL

Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder yesterday expressed the opinion that a decrease in the letter postage rate from 3 to 2 cents on local mail, as recommended to President Roosevelt by Postmaster General James A. Farley, would result in a greater volume of business and consequently more postal receipts.

Receipts from the sale of stamps and stamped paper have fallen almost 10 per cent in Chicago since the rate was raised from 2 to 3 cents in July of last year. Mr. Lueder said there was no way of estimating how much of this slump was due to general business conditions, but that undoubtedly the higher rate had been directly responsible for some decrease in the volume of mail.

Postmaster General Farley's recommendation was based on opinions received by him to the effect that a 2 cent rate on local mail, while retaining the 3 cent rate for interdistrict postage, would greatly increase the volume of business and the revenue.

Some advisers even suggested that a flat 2 cent rate throughout the country would be more beneficial and would go far toward balancing the postal budget, which under the present rate is running into an annual deficit of 132 million dollars.

Since the increase in the postage rate most of Chicago's large department stores, dairy companies, and other concerns doing a city wide delivery business have stopped using the mail to send out bills and circular advertising, according to reports received at the postoffice. These firms are using their truck drivers to distribute their bills, with a saving in postage running into many thousands of dollars.

"The government has taught us to economize," said the treasurer of a State street department store.

Total receipts at the Chicago postoffice from the sale of stamps and stamped paper for the eight months beginning with August, 1932, under the new rate were $28,753,092, as compared with $31,582,154 for the corresponding months beginning with August, 1931, under the old rate.

GIRL SLASHED BY NEGRO; ROBBED ON 'L' PLATFORM

Miss Olga Jones, 19 years old, of 5000 Cornell avenue, a stenographer, was slashed on the back by a knife-wielding Negro bandit and robbed of $1 while on the Illinois Central railroad platform at 71st street and Woodlawn avenue last night.

She was waiting for a train when he approached her. He held a large knife at her back, and after taking her money compelled her to walk to the end of the platform. There he jabbed her with the knife, knocking her from the platform and on to the tracks.

The Negro fled as Miss Jones screamed for help. Several men ran to her aid and police took her to the Jackson Park hospital. Physicians found the knife wound was not severe.

OAK PARK BABY IS RUN DOWN BY AUTO NEAR HOME

Two year old Thomas Roche Jr. was probably fatally injured last night when he was run down by an automobile as he ran into the street in front of his home at 113 Lemoyne parkway, Oak Park. The driver, Herbert Albrecht, 1412 North Austin avenue, Oak Park, a stationary engineer, was charged with driving a car which caused an accident and released on $1,000 bail. The child is in the Oak Park hospital suffering from a skull fracture.

Harry Levine, 63 years old, of 5025 Harper avenue, a newspaper vendor, was critically injured yesterday by an automobile which sped away after the accident. He was run down near his stand at Hyde Park boulevard and Lake Park avenue. He is in the Illinois Central hospital.

There were no fatalities yesterday and the motor toll in Cook county since Jan. 1 remained at 281.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CO-OPERATIVE ECONOMIES BY RAILROADS.

It is generally conceded in Washington that the so-called Prince plan, which followed THE TRIBUNE'S scheme for regional consolidation of railways, involves too many radical changes to be practical as an emergency measure to restore the full value of the railways to the people of the country. Either plan would probably require a period of years to complete. The cooperative plan is, therefore, receiving present consideration. This alternative has also been discussed by THE TRIBUNE in Scrutator articles emphasizing the ruinous duplication in Chicago-St. Louis service.

While political maneuvers are under way it is somewhat heartening to notice that the railways have started taking voluntary action to reduce the tremendous volume of wasted transportation that is keeping freight rates and passenger fares at boom levels. Within the past month the Pennsylvania and Wabash have announced their intention to consolidate Chicago-Detroit services. The four Chicago-St. Louis lines have already made a start on a plan that will save 600,000 passenger train miles per annum. The Canadian lines have gone a step further. Ruinous competition between the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National for Montreal-Ottawa-Toronto traffic with through connections for Chicago will be eliminated by the utilization of superior routes and station facilities by the interested lines. Both roads will continue to sell tickets, but for trains that will be jointly operated. The estimated economy is $500,000 per annum.

But little headway is being made with consolidation of freight train service except in the case of the New York Central. That line has announced, through tariffs filed with the interstate commerce commission, that it reserves the right to route traffic moving over its system lines—New York Central, Michigan Central, Big Four, Boston and Albany, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, etc.—to the best operating advantage.

There are many other situations still requiring attention. Chicago-Minneapolis and Chicago-Omaha services are fields for possible passenger train economies. In the case of freight services there are hundreds of duplications of half-filled daily merchandise cars moving to competitive destinations which could be consolidated on the principle of each line continuing the car that it is best equipped to handle.

A FRAUD EXPOSED.

Whatever opinion those who have followed reports of the Scottsboro trial may have reached as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, the conduct of the defense deserves attention for its own sake. The case has been made a world-wide sensation by the same organized propagandists as were responsible for the furor over the Sacco-Vanzetti and Mooney cases. Although citizens of conscientious motives were drawn into these activities to give them repute, the most persistent and vociferous participants in all cases were communists and radicals of other varieties. Only a very ingenuous observer of these proceedings could miss their intent. Pretending to be a defense of innocent individuals from injustice and oppression and an assertion of civil guaranties, the objective aimed at was the disparagement of American courts and the American social conscience.

This has been strikingly exposed in the Scottsboro trial just ended at Decatur, Ala. The attorney brought from New York by the International Labor Defense could not be as tactless as he has been save intentionally. The very fact that he was chosen in place of counsel known and respected in the region in which the trial was to be held was evidence of lack of good faith, of a sincere concern for the fate of the defendant. In and out of court his words and actions have appeared to an impartial observer studiously provocative of local feeling, and the inference must be that he intended not to win his case but deliberately to lose it, to make sure of a martyr for his cause and an excuse for more propaganda. Immediately after the verdict he gave vent to a tirade against the community amid which the trials are being held, and, returning to New York, he publicly described the jury as "those bigots whose mouths are slits in their faces, whose eyes pop out at you like frogs', whose chins drip tobacco juice, be-whiskered and filthy." Yet he is going south in a few days for the second series of trials. The employment of such an attorney for the defense promises if it does not in fact insure a miscarriage of justice. It shows no regard for the defendants but rather a deliberate determination to bring about their conviction.

At the beginning of the affair the radical agitators descended upon the community in which the trial was to be held, insulting, blatant, insolently prejudicing the case and the character of the agencies of the law. They have shown no consideration for the defendants. Pretending to defend them from mob sentiment and race prejudice, they have done everything possible to inflame both. No Klux fanatic could do more to create conditions in which even-handed justice is impossible than these pretended friends of the oppressed.

Meanwhile the well meaning public of the north has been exhorted to donate money for the support of this murderous proceeding misnamed defense. The Civil Liberties union published advertisements calling for funds to "help give these boys the best possible break at this second trial." Such appeals are frauds. The Civil Liberties union is a fraud. Its managers have no regard for civil liberties except when they can be pleaded for the protection of radical mischief makers and criminals. They are communists and sympathizers with bolshevism, which has destroyed civil liberties wherever it has gained power. The active head of the Civil Liberties union at a meeting of communists in New York has just declared that political democracy is moribund, and he wants a "united front," precious bolshevik phrase, of communists and liberals to fight Fascism. A union of communists and genuine liberals would be a union of the snake and the bird. The Civil Liberties union is such a union. Liberals who support it are either gullibles or they are not liberals. There are no civil liberties remaining except where political democracy exists, and so long as the Civil Liberties union is run as it has been and is, by enemies of democracy, its title is a flagrant hypocrisy which can no longer deceive any but liberal sentimentalists befogged by mere phrases. Even these ought to be shocked at its methods in the Scottsboro affair.

PARASITES ON RELIEF.

Municipal Judge Green is well advised in asking from the Emergency Relief commission a list of individuals who while receiving relief are possessed of and using motor cars. Judge Green's curiosity was awakened by a beneficiary of relief who was brought before him charged with intoxication while driving his car. We suspect there are a good many receiving emergency relief who are able not only to possess and operate an automobile but to supply themselves with those genial accompaniments which sometimes betray. President Whealan of the county board has other evidence which needs prompt attention.

In fact, emergency relief in Chicago, as in many if not most other communities, is in urgent need of thorough overhauling. There is enough evidence that it is being exploited by men and women whose needs are as small as their consciences to justify drastic elimination and deflation. For real need there is generous response and always will be, but our characteristic American liberality should not be permitted to be abused as it is being abused. Honest and self-respecting citizens, themselves under heavy pressure, are being taxed to support too many loafers and crooks. Emergency relief has been the golden pasture of opportunity for thousands and tens of thousands of parasites and frauds, and it is noticeable that the longer relief is extended the greater is the reluctance of many beneficiaries to seek work or even to accept it when offered. The President's project for employing idle men in public work is already exposing this ominous condition and it will become more apparent as time passes.

The problem of distinguishing between parasites and deserving idle is not easy to solve, but it must be tackled without delay. It is becoming a major problem of the nation and of all the larger communities.

FOR COUNCIL INQUISITIONS.

The council committee on committees, under the invigorating influence of the Arkansas hot springs, discovers an ambition to acquire inquisitorial powers. The council is not now authorized to subpœna witnesses, put them upon oath, and thrust the stern finger of inquiry into the affairs of the citizenry. With this power, Ald. Arvey says, "council investigations will mean something."

They will. They will mean first of all a most convenient ability to put citizens engaged in profitable enterprise in a proper frame of mind with respect to the needs of deserving politicians and their organization. There is often a reluctance among citizens in their individual and corporate capacities to contribute in a timely and satisfactory way to the support of the processes of politics and the government they maintain. With the prospect opened up by the possibilities of council investigation which means something this reluctance in many important instances will disappear.

Citizens will only need to recall the zeal of federal senatorial research within recent years and the methods adopted by its interrogators to grasp the possibilities of council investigations that mean something.

So the legislature is to be invited to endow our city fathers with the essentials of inquisitorial efficiency. We suggest there be no questionable haste in granting it. There is a conspicuous absence of public demand for enlarging aldermanic opportunities by this or any other means, and until it appears it would seem that legislative action might be deferred. The community at this time is not so impressed with the quality of aldermanic service as to favor its extension on the lines proposed by the committee.

A MISCHIEVOUS BILL.

[New York Sun.]

With little debate and less thought the house has passed a bill putatively designed to guard government secrets from being revealed by malevolent or greedy persons. The measure had its origin in the state department, which apparently wished to prevent a repetition of the sale of some of its records to a publication. The department declares that the bill is "in no wise intended as a muzzle or censorship of the press," but a reading of it carries no such assurance. In reaching for a sledge hammer to kill a fly the framers of the bill have provided opportunity for mischief.

In its first and second sections the bill provides punishment for anybody who without authorization conceals, destroys, or publishes records or maps "for any purpose prejudicial to the safety or interest of the United States." The third section contains a joker, for it declares that in any prosecution proof of the acts forbidden "shall be prima facie evidence of a purpose prejudicial to the safety or interest of the United States."

Such a law on the federal books would have prevented the exposure of the whisky scandals by the Sun in the Grant administration. If it had been on the books in Tweed's time it would have kept the county bookkeeper, O'Rourke, from carrying the proofs of the gang's thefts to the New York Times office. In short, with such a statutory pistol in its hand any corrupt administration could hide its infamies indefinitely. If the state department fears abuse of trust by any of its employés it ought to be able to get preventive legislation without hazarding the right of the press to expose official misdeeds whenever and however they are discovered. If the senate does not kill or amend the bill it should be vetoed by the President.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE MORE WE READ about the Akron disaster the more resolved we become to ride only in heavier than air machines. And just as we get fixed in that determination we read about two or three of them coming down in tail spins and we resolve to stick to our faithful automobile. And then we read about the latest auto fatalities and we think back regretfully to the good old days gone by when we used to drive faithful old Dobbin and ride peacefully over hill and dale in the family buggy. And then we think of the day when old Dobbin got frightened at a scrap of paper blowing along the ground and ran away and slung us in a ditch and we broke some collarbones and ribs and things. What's the use?

SPRING, THE ARTFUL.

This is a quiet spring that wanders slowly through my veins.
These gentle rains,
these fickle suns
are not the ones that come with autumn days;
these little winds are not the winds that scream and gyrate crazily
through trees and chimneys.
Ah, no.

This is an artful spring trying to soothe me into forgetting that things are born to die.
There is no guile in autumn
who flings into every breath
the knowledge of death, who flaunts the glory of standing at the abyss of oblivion——
There is no guile in autumn
when autumn waves her riotous banners, shouting,
"Here we go down!
Ah, God, we love it! We die!"

Spring smiles and whispers in a pretty voice,
"Be glad,
O friend,
for we are born again——"

SHOULD SOVIET RUSSIA be recognized by the U. S. A.? They are still wrestling with that question down in Washington. Judging from the experience of England, Russia is rather difficult as a neighbor. She would come over in daytime and borrow the washboard and the kitchen stove and at night she'd throw tin cans and brickbats over the back fence and run around and tell everybody we had the measles and the oldest boy isn't away at college as we pretend, but in jail for hog stealing. Perhaps the best thing to do with Russia would be to recognize her to a limited extent. That is, we would speak to her freely and smilingly on Mondays and Thursdays and chase her down the alley if she came near our place on the other days.

I wonder why, in all the lilting lyrics
On lovely things of life that I have read,
Of all the odes and frenzied panegyrics,
I've never heard a one extolling bed.

Oh, when I contemplate that charming whiteness
That welcomes me serenely when fatigued,
You'd think that out of veriest politeness
Some poet would have been enough intrigued

To write you up, at least with other pleasures
That he immortalizes with his pen.
For surely you're among the dearest treasures
That civilized equipment gives to men.

No matter what his rank or occupation,
Whether his bed be gold or simple wood,
Leaving your soft embrace is desolation.
We'd stay and snooze forever if we could.

TO PREVENT BLEEDING IN BABIES.

A MOTHER writes that she lost her last baby from bleeding shortly after its birth. She expects another baby within a few months, and she wants to know if there is anything she can do to prevent this child from suffering the fate of the brother who preceded. She is not of a hemophilic family. The physician said the baby was not a hemophilic, but that the hemorrhage was of the kind that causes so many deaths among newborn babies.

There seems to be something that this mother can do by way of prevention during the last two months before the baby's arrival, in addition to what can be done after that event. Dr. I. N. Kugelmass advises expectant mothers with the experience of this one to eat a diet rich in meat, eggs, milk, butter, cream, and other fats. This he terms a clotting diet. The clotting diet also contains an ample supply of vitamins D and C and of lime. Buttermilk and cheese are rich in vitamin D and lime, while orange juice and other fruit juices and tomato juice and other vegetable juices are rich in vitamin C. On the other hand, the foods the prospective mother is to go light on are vegetables, starches, and sugar and water.

A simple method of protecting a newborn baby against hemorrhage is to give him gelatin water by mouth. A three per cent solution of gelatin in water is given by mouth at two hour intervals.

There are certain procedures that the physician alone can carry out. One of these is to inject a solution of lime. For this purpose calcium gluconate is in favor now. Various preparations of lime, by mouth, including the use of milk, always rich in lime, are of service where there is sufficient time, as in chronic tendency to bleeding; but they are not quick enough to help when a newborn baby is bleeding. Physicians inject whole blood deep into the muscles. They often do transfusion.

It is said that the newborn babies of savages rarely bleed seriously. There are some who say this is because they do not suffer from too much bathing. At any rate, physicians find it useful, in stopping hemorrhage in the newborn, to soak some gauze in blood and apply it to the bleeding area. Perhaps had the baby's navel not been given so much care in the first place there would have been less tendency to bleeding.

If the baby becomes jaundiced, as newborn babies so frequently do, there is a tendency to bleed from that cause. In jaundice there is bile in the blood and tissues. Bile prevents blood from clotting.

INGROWING NAILS.

G. D. L. writes: Occasionally I see mention in your column of winter itch and ingrowing toe nail. Speaking from experience through a long life I have found this remedy effective for ingrowing toe nail: File with a medium flat file across the nail about three-eighths inch width until the nail appears pink. Do not trim the edges of the nail. Keep the nail clean. In about a month repeat the operation. The nail will grow toward the center and draw the nail out of the flesh. For winter itch: I have found this effective for myself, after having been tormented for several years, especially in the winter. Pour pure cider vinegar in the palm of the hand on retiring at night and gently rub the afflicted skin until dry. Repeat this on alternate nights for about four nights and then see if the itching is not a thing of the past. Note I have said cider vinegar.

NOT DANGEROUS.

Mrs. R. A. M. writes: 1. I have been told I have acid urine. Is that dangerous? I am 53 years old.

2. What diet should I go on?

3. Would drinking buttermilk help me?

4. Is camomile tea or flaxseed tea of benefit?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. I presume you mean it is too acid since some acidity is normal. Eating freely of vegetables and fruits and sparingly of meat, bread, and cereals will decrease this acidity. White potatoes and bananas are excellent alkalinizers.

3. It would have no effect on the symptom mentioned.

4. That is all right, but it will not change the symptom mentioned.

BOND INTEREST.

Wheaton, Ill., April 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been receiving 6 per cent interest on a $1,000 bond. The principal is now due, but the owner of the building, which is well rented, refuses to pay the 6 per cent due on the last interest payment, but offers me 4 per cent. Is there any way to make this man pay the 6 per cent as the bond calls for? C. F.

Presumably you are in a position to bring suit against him on the promise contained in your coupon. Your right to foreclose will be dependent on the wording of the trust deed. Such instruments often contain wording requiring that a specified percentage of the bondholders join in order to foreclose. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SETTLING ESTATE.

Chicago, April 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My cousin is administrator of an estate our aunt left without a will. We have even relationship and are of the same age. At the time of my aunt's death I was not in Chicago. He appointed himself administrator and hired a lawyer who is handling this case in the court. From investigation I am convinced they are not truly performing their duty. 1. Could I revoke his administratorship and hire a different lawyer? 2. Would the first lawyer be paid out of the estate, or the second, or both, or would I have to pay my own lawyer? 3. Is it possible to get a public defender in the Probate court when the first hearing comes? 4. Is he allowed to deposit the clear papers of this estate in a bonding company as his security? 5. Can I do anything if the estate is closed? E. F.

1. Depends on the facts on which your previous sentence is based.

2. If you can make sufficient proof you and your lawyer might be paid out of the estate, but it does not seem probable.

3. The public defender handles criminal cases only.

4. It is common to deposit assets in what is called a joint account to reduce the risk of the bonding company.

5. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing the facts on which your letter is based. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

OWNER UNKNOWN.

Chicago, April 4.—[Friend of the People.]—Why are the owners of a building located at 67th street and Normal boulevard allowed to let a building remain standing in such a filthy condition? They have taken ashes and garbage and filled in under the back porch from a nearby building. It is a menace to life and health. D. R.

Report is made that building referred to is unoccupied and that to date it has been impossible to locate the owner; that further efforts will be made to locate owner, but if unsuccessful men from the Illinois Emergency Relief will clean up the property, which, report states, is a detriment to the entire neighborhood in its present condition. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 13, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The first council of war between the United States and the entente allies was held here yesterday. The main result was an agreement to set the United States navy to the immediate task of patrolling the western areas of the Atlantic ocean from Halifax to Cape Horn. Immediately after the conference orders were communicated to Admiral Mayo, in command of the Atlantic fleet, to detach certain units to be initiated into the patrol work by the British and French commanders. The dispatch of American naval craft, up to and including the class of destroyers, to European waters to fight German submarines also was discussed, but chief attention was given to getting the Atlantic patrol under headway.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Austrian and Bulgarian representatives are endeavoring to approach entente diplomats in Switzerland on the subject of peace. Press dispatches today reporting Bulgarian efforts in this line developed the fact that it is known here not only that Bulgaria has taken soundings but also that there has been similar action in the name of Austria-Hungary. Whether the two countries are working separately or together is not known, nor has any reference been made to the attitude of Germany or Turkey.

RIO DE JANEIRO.—According to the newspapers, the government is preparing to equip a strong contingent which will be concentrated in the states on the Atlantic ocean. The government has decided to seize all German ships in Brazilian harbors.

BUENOS AIRES.—A dispatch from Cordoba reports a great demonstration there in favor of Argentina's joining Brazil in action against Germany. President Irigoyan has postponed the conferences requested by the German minister.

KEY WEST, Fla.—The British sailing ship Treveal, commanded by Capt. Williamson, was sunk by a German submarine off Cienfuegos, Cuba, four days ago and all hands landed at the Cuban port a few hours later, according to C. Peterson, who said he was a member of the crew. He arrived here from Havana. Peterson claims to be a naturalized American of Norwegian birth.

WAR SUMMARY.—London reports the capture of two more villages and adjoining positions by the British in France. Berlin reports the repulse of British attacks on Vimy ridge and Fampoux, but admits loss of Monchy. London reports continued British success in Palestine. The British occupied further Turkish territory to a depth of fifteen miles. The Turkish losses around Gaza are put at 8,000. Rome admits the loss of trenches east of Vertoiba, but says later attacks drove out the Austrians.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—An appeal to the government for "national prohibition as a means of eliminating material and moral waste" was made by the General Federation of Women's Clubs today. "The vast quantities of grain now used in the manufacture of liquor may be used to feed our armies," the resolution said.

A NONRESIDENT TEACHER.

Chicago, April 10.—Since my name was used by you in an article in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE without consulting me, I am giving you this opportunity to correct your error.

True, I am living outside of Chicago, a distance of about 40 miles from the school in which I teach. Up until a year and a half ago, I lived within walking distance of this same school, had established a home and was a part of the community in every way.

When the board of education stopped paying its teachers I was forced to give up my home and go to stay with my relatives. Unfortunately they lived in a village outside of Chicago, which necessitates a five hour journey for me each day. My day starts at 6 a. m. and I reach home at 6 p. m., not because the taxes are lower, the air fresher, or because of an opportunity to speed on the glorious boulevards of Chicago, but simply because I have not been paid. I will be happy to move into Chicago on an hour's notice if you will arrange for my expenses. If this is true in my case, why not investigate before you publish false statements?

The teacher from Itasca,
FRANCES WILMES.

NOT A BAD IDEA.

Chicago, April 9.—Now that THE TRIBUNE has published the list of towns in which teachers spend Chicago's public money, will THE TRIBUNE also publish the residence of the members of the so-called citizens' committee? It would interest the people to know how many of these individuals who are spending Chicago's public money are really residents of the towns listed in your article.

MAURICE A. WILLIAMS.

BARRED.

Chicago, April 10.—I am one of the hundreds of young men who are unemployed and have been downtown inquiring about this work. We are told at the relief employment agency that unless parents are on the relief list we are out of luck. Now I would like to know if the young men whose parents are barely keeping off the relief and whose sons have been living off them for a year of two will get a chance at this work.

I have met many young men downtown who don't think they are getting a fair break in this matter. I am the son of a city employé who has not been paid for several months and I feel, as do a lot of the young men who were raised in Chicago, that we deserve a fairer chance at this work.

DANIEL LAMEY JR.

RESTRICTIONS ON ENLISTMENT.

Bensenville, Ill., April 10.—I was much impressed with the heading of your front page column in THE TRIBUNE today, "Idle Are Slow to Enroll for Forest Work."

Who was the person that originated such a crazy lot of restrictions? No married men, and age limit 18 to 25 years.

I am a married man and have 3 children to support, and during the last two years have had very little work. I am a world war veteran, with one year's service in Europe, but on account of such restrictions I am forbidden a living for my family.

I will sign up to go, as will thousands of others, if permitted to go.

WILLIAM W. STANDARD.

NOT ACCEPTED.

Chicago, April 10.—THE TRIBUNE on Friday, April 7, informed the public that the unemployed could sign up for the governmental forest jobs. On the 8th I went to the nearest relief station and was told that as no word had been received from Washington no one had been selected nor any application been accepted. Also it would not be done in the near future. Today, April 10, THE TRIBUNE states that the necessary 4,000 have been chosen. I am nineteen years old and have three dependents, all of us unemployed. It would seem that the most important qualification is a "drag."

TAXING THE WAITERS.

Chicago, April 10.—I wish to present what the waiters are actually experiencing as a result of the new sales tax law.

We serve a luncheon for 85 cents, and previous to this tax we usually received a gratuity or tip of 15 cents for good service. Now since 3 cents is added to the patron's checks the waiter in many cases receives the change of 12 cents where before he received the 15 cents.

And likewise with the higher priced dinners the waiter absorbs the tax in many cases. LOUIS KING.

TAXING THE CHILDREN.

Chicago, April 10.—It being a rather pleasant Sunday I decided to take a walk through Lincoln park. Passing a refreshment stand, I stopped for a bag of peanuts. While waiting for my purchase two small children ordered two boxes of popcorn and were informed that they would have to pay a one cent sales tax. The poor little tots only had a dime, hence they could not buy their popcorn.

I wonder just how long the governor and other state officials are going to bleed pennies out of children and make them go wanting because they cannot pay the sales tax on their small purchases.

A REAL AMERICAN.

DISSATISFIED.

Chicago, April 10.—"People pay sales tax cheerfully." Bunk. The fellow who wrote that article should have been in my store then, or even now, and hear some of the things that are being said.

DOUGH MAKER.

THE SALES TAX IN OPERATION.

Chicago, April 10.—I am compelled to buy seven bottles of insulin every month in order that one of my children may continue to exist. The retail price of insulin is two dollars per bottle. Add six cents sales tax to each bottle and the total is around six dollars a year. As I am a widow having a terrific struggle to make ends meet, this six dollars is no trifling amount. To me it is not a sales tax, it is quite literally blood money.

CANCEL DEBTS, REDUCE TARIFFS, MUSSOLINI PLAN

Paris Paper Sees Calamity in Herriot Visit.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 12. — Cancellation of war debts and lowering of tariff regulations will be laid before President Roosevelt as the cardinal points on which Premier Mussolini will insist at the world economic conference. Guido Jung, finance minister, was named today as Il Duce's emissary for the preliminary series of talks at Washington. He will probably leave on the Conte di Savoia on April 25.

The Italian government stated tonight that Jung's mission will be exclusively to discuss problems relating to the economic conference. It was emphasized that Mussolini believes that wiping out of war debts is the only basis on which the economic conference can have a successful outcome.

Jung is looked upon as an able emissary. He has been finance minister since last July and was formerly head of the national export institute. He also knows his way about Washington, where he was formerly financial adviser at the Italian embassy.

Threat on Herriot's Life.

PARIS, April 12. — Attacks upon former Premier Edouard Herriot, grew in violence today with L'Action Francaise virtually asking for his assassination.

"May he drown before he ever lands in America," this royalist paper said in big type. Then in an article over the signature of Charles Maurras, philosopher and its co-director, it said: "Everything must be done to stop this pilgrim of misfortune, calamity is sure to come of his mission. "We won't go into simpler and quicker ways of stopping him, let every one's imagination work out this problem."

Danger of Incitement.

Herriot himself mentioned the threat in a speech today to the Anglo-American press, saying: "I am a Frenchman and I have no fear." Maurras' fulminations would be taken as a joke if it were not for the fact that he is a god to thousand of violent young men who belong to the Camelots du Roi. The opposition here is not sure what Herriot is in danger of giving away. Disarmament commitments and tariff reductions are feared. Herriot stated that he is going as an observer "engaging in responsibility neither the government nor parliament."

Mexico Names Money Expert.

MEXICO CITY, April 12.—(AP)—Mexico's acceptance of President Roosevelt's invitation to discuss economic problems and the appointment of Alberto J. Pani, secretary of the treasury, for the mission were announced by the foreign office tonight. Señor Pani, who now is in Miami, is considered the leading Mexican authority on silver and monetary and tariff problems, in which Mexico is vitally interested.

Japan Chooses Viscount Ishii.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 12.—Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, a former Japanese foreign minister, was selected by Count Yasuya Uchida, foreign minister, to represent Japan in the economic conversations with President Roosevelt at Washington and also at the world economic conference to be held later. His selection is expected to be ratified Friday by the cabinet. Viscount Ishii probably will sail from Yokohama on May 2. A year ago the viscount proposed an Asiatic Monroe doctrine.

Soviet Protests Exclusion.

MOSCOW, April 12.—(AP)—A protest at the omission of Soviet Russia from the international economic conversations to be held at Washington was sounded today by the newspaper for industrialization. The paper asked "How can they talk of an international agreement to control the wheat market without one of the most important exporters? How can they outline seriously ways to expand the international turnover without the participation of a country which occupies one-sixth of the globe?"

URGES AMERICA TO SEEK INDIA'S FOREIGN TRADE

The United States now has a greater opportunity to develop the rich foreign trade possibilities with India than ever before in history. This message was brought to members of the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday by Dr. Samuel Lucas Joshi, professor of Hindu philosophy at Dartmouth college, who spoke at the weekly luncheon of the association in Hotel La Salle.

At the outbreak of the world war, Dr. Joshi explained, it was found that Germany shared with Great Britain the major portion of India's foreign trade. Germany lost this commerce because of the war and Japan, a nation particularly friendly to India, quickly replaced Germany as a seller of goods to India.

Recently, however, the merchants and business leaders in India have become indignant at Japan because of that nation's policy in China. The people of India have a deep feeling of sympathy for the Chinese. Therein, Dr. Joshi believes, is the opportunity for America to become a principal trader with India.

He warned, however, that to realize this opportunity, American business men must study the market of India more thoroughly than ever before.

SOUTH AMERICA CHIDED FOR WAR BY ROOSEVELT

Pan-American Board Hears President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—The conflicts raging between South American countries were criticized today as "backward steps" by President Roosevelt in a speech before the governing board of the Pan-American union.

Urging that republics should essay to prosper by an "advancement of civilization and social well being" and not by the "acquisition of territory at the expense of any neighbor," Mr. Roosevelt's voice took on a sharper tone as he added:

Disturbed by Strife.

"In this spirit of mutual understanding and of coöperation on this continent you and I can not fail to be disturbed by any armed strife between neighbors. I do not hesitate to say to you . . . that I regard existing conflicts between four of our sister republics as a backward step."

The President did not mention the four republics by name, but it was plain he referred to the strife raging between Peru and Colombia over possession of the Amazon port of Leticia and the undeclared war between Bolivia and Paraguay in the Chaco.

Talks of Trade Revival.

Touching upon his hopes for a world trade revival, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"We all of us have peculiar problems, and, to speak frankly, the interest of our own citizens must, in each instance, come first. But it is equally true that it is of vital importance to every nation of this continent that the American governments, individually, take without further delay such action as may be possible to abolish all unnecessary and artificial barriers and restrictions which now hamper the healthy flow of trade between the peoples of the American republics."

The meeting of the union of 21 republics in North and South America was in celebration of "Pan-American day."

MRS. JUDD SANITY HEARING IS SET FOR TOMORROW

Florence, Ariz., April 12.—(AP)—Superior Judge E. L. Green today set next Friday as the date for commencement of a hearing to determine the sanity of Winnie Ruth Judd, who is condemned to hang April 21 in the "trunk murder" case in which she confessed killing two women friends.

Warden A. G. Walker of the Arizona state prison made the request for a new hearing.

A verdict of insanity would prevent her being hanged and she would be sent to the state hospital for the insane.

TELLS OF ORDER FOR REPAIRS ON ILL FATED AKRON

Navy Officer Witness at Lakehurst Inquiry.

Lakehurst, N. J., April 12.—[Special.]—Orders for strengthening the structure of the dirigible Akron, at the point where two of the three survivors of her wrecking said they saw two longitudinal girders snap before she plunged into the sea, had been issued before she set out on her fatal voyage, it was revealed today at the naval court of inquiry.

This fact was brought out in testimony of Lieutenant Commander Edwin F. Cochrane, assembly and repair officer at the Lakehurst air station.

Prior to the Akron's last takeoff, April 3, Commander Cochrane testified, he had prepared a list of repairs to be made the following week. He cited nine changes, one of which involved reinforcing longitudinal frames in "bays 5, 6 and 7."

These Frames Buckled.

It was these frames, according to the testimony of Moody Erwin and Richard Deal, enlisted men who, with Lieutenant Commander Herbert V. Wiley, were the only persons of the seventy-six aboard the Akron to survive, which buckled while the ship was battling a severe electrical and rainstorm a few miles off Barnegat light.

The reinforcement of the frames, Commander Cochrane said, had been ordered by the naval bureau of aeronautics, upon the recommendation of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, which built the Akron.

"Have you any knowledge of why the alterations were ordered?" asked Commander Ralph Pennoyer, judge advocate general of the court.

"No, sir," replied Commander Cochrane.

Lieutenant Commander Wiley, who, at his own request, was granted the status of an "interested party" before the court of inquiry, with the privilege of questioning witnesses, availed himself of this privilege for the first time since the hearings began when Cochrane told of the plan to strengthen the Akron.

"As far as you know," he asked, "was the ship considered perfectly safe to fly without these alterations?"

"Yes, sir," replied Cochrane.

Repair Pieces Small.

Commander Wiley told reporters later that the strengthening of the framework which Commander Cochrane said had been planned, involved the installation of only two or three supports in the bays and that the pieces only weighed about two pounds each.

Cochrane began his testimony by stating that "from an engineering standpoint, I considered the ship in very good condition.

Poter E. Ward, civilian chief inspector at the air station, who was questioned about repairs after these accidents, declared that in his opinion, "there was no part repaired that wasn't in better shape than before the accidents." He also said the inspection department had gone over the Akron before her last flight and had inspected the section in which Deal and Erwin said the girders buckled.

"There was not a structural defect whatsoever in those rings;" he stated emphatically.

U. S. SEEKS AID OF MANCHUKUO IN KIDNAPING CASE

Consul General Acts to Free Missionary.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 12.—Myrl S. Myers, United States consul general at Mukden, Manchukuo, has interceded to obtain the release of Dr. Niels Nielsen, Danish Lutheran medical missionary, who was kidnaped by Chinese brigands yesterday from Hsiuyen, 110 miles south of Mukden. Dr. Nielsen is a former resident of Minneapolis.

Dr. Nielsen has been in the Orient for nearly 25 years. He was graduated from the Univeristy of Minnesota in 1903. He was a native of a Danish parish which sent him to the United States to study, and it is understood he is a missionary of the Danish Lutheran mission of Copenhagen.

Seek Manchukuo's Aid.

Consul General Myers communicated with Washington and received instructions to negotiate for the doctor's release. While the United States does not recognize Manchukuo, aid is being solicited from the state, and also from Japanese civil and military authorities.

The Japanese-Manchukuo drive continued today south of the great wall, resulting in practical isolation of the Chinese defending the seaport of Chinwangtao.

Japanese Continue Advance.

In the triangle formed by the great wall, the sea and the Lwan river, the Japanese were reported advancing to or through Tsienan, Taitowying and Chiehlingkow pushing the Chinese under Gen. Shang Chen and Gen. Ho Chu-kuo back toward the river. The Japanese also were pressing Chinese below the great wall passes, Lengkow, Hsifengkow, and Kupeikow. Since Monday more than 500 Chinese have been killed around Lengkow and the Japanese casualties were 26 dead and 100 wounded.

CITY TO OBSERVE GOOD FRIDAY IN RITES TOMORROW

Schools and Many Business Places to Close.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

All Chicago public schools will be closed tomorrow in observance of Good Friday. This was announced yesterday in a bulletin sent to all principals calling attention to the custom established a few years ago by Assistant Superintendent Charles J. Lunak. Parochial schools also will be closed. Religious leaders say they have noted increased observance of Good Friday.

All downtown offices of the school board will be closed for routine work, although a few stenographers will be retained to assist at the recess meeting of the board of trustees tomorrow afternoon.

Markets to Be Closed.

The day will be observed by the suspension of all trading on the leading commodity and security markets all over the world. The New York and Chicago stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, and other grain exchanges will be closed. New York banks will close, but Chicago banks will remain open. At Aurora and in other outlying communities virtually all stores and most of the offices will close for three hours. This is the first time in Aurora that business has been curtailed on Good Friday.

Meanwhile in Chicago and throughout the world Christian churches of all faiths are going forward today with preparations for services which affirm the solemnity and significance of the day.

Today is Maundy Thursday, which means the day of the mandate: "Do this in remembrance of Me," and recalls the last supper of Christ with his disciples before his trial and death. Tonight there will be services in keeping with Maundy Thursday in the First Methodist Episcopal church in the Chicago temple and in the Fourth Presbyterian church, as well as in numerous other Protestant churches throughout the city.

Cardinal to Preside.

At Holy Name cathedral tonight Cardinal Mundelein will preside over the ancient office of Tenebrae, said to have been instituted in the catacombs of Rome and annually observed on certain days during Holy week.

Bishop George Craig Stewart will officiate tonight at St. Luke's pro-cathedral, Evanston, in Episcopal preparatory rites for Good Friday.

At noon tomorrow all Catholic as well as Episcopal and many other Protestant churches will be thronged with worshippers in remembrance of the three hours' agony of Christ on the cross. The "tre ore" or three hour service was introduced first by a Jesuit missionary in South America. From there it rapidly spread from country to country and it now appears to be one of the uniting links of all Christendom.

Noonday services which have been held throughout the Lenten season at various theaters in the loop and at the Chicago temple will be in harmony tomorrow with the solemn character of the day. Bishop Stewart will conclude his series of Holy week sermons at the Grand Opera house tomorrow noon. At noon today Dean Charles W. Gilkey of the University of Chicago chapel will speak at the Chicago temple services.

Plan Three Hour Services.

The Christian business men's committee, leaders of noonday evangelistic services at the Garrick theater during the last two years, announce a three hour service tomorrow. A three hour service beginning at noon tomorrow in the Chicago temple will conclude the Lenten services conducted jointly by the Chicago Church federation and the First Methodist Episcopal church. More than 850 churches of 19 denominations coöperate in the Lenten and Good Friday services at the loop church.

In most Catholic and all Episcopal churches the three hour service is held at the traditional midday hours. In St. James' church, 29th street and Wabash avenue, and in several of the centrally located Catholic churches the service is held from 6 to 9 at night to accommodate workers unable to attend at other times.

Possibly the most spectacular Good Friday services are held by Greeks of the Orthodox church. The rites of the Orthodox faith stimulate the burial of the Savior. The service will begin at 10 o'clock at night when 15,000 Chicago Greeks form a procession. The image of the dead Christ will be carried to the Orthodox Church of the Holy Trinity, Peoria and Taylor streets, where the image will repose until Easter.

Charles M'Afee Lewis Dies Week After Death of Wife

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—Charles McAfee Lewis, 70, Washington and Kentucky writer and thoroughbred breeder, died today after a short illness, one week after the death of his wife. A representative of the United States Brewers' association and the National Distillers' association, he had been active in the campaign for enactment of the beer law.

ELECTRIC CHAIR INVENTOR DEAD; OPPOSED ITS USE

Dr. A. D. Rockwell, 92, Succumbs in East.

New York, April 12.—[Special.]—Dr. Alphonso Rockwell, distinguished in a number of ways, but remembered primarily as the inventor of the electric chair, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Suzanne Knowles, at Flushing, Queens.

Ninety-two years of age, Dr. Rockwell was the oldest physician in New York state. He had a record of service in twenty-three battles of the civil war as an army surgeon, was the friend of Salmon P. Chase, once secretary of the treasury, and attended the late Theodore Roosevelt in the President's childhood.

Calls It "Vengeful Futility."

Despite his connection with the use of electricity as a medium of execution, Dr. Rockwell was strongly opposed to capital punishment. On the eve of his last birthday, which was May 18, he gave an interview to the press in which he said that the death penalty, even when humanely inforced, can be considered only as an admission of the law's failure and hence a vengeful futility.

It was in 1888, when a wave of reform swept over the state and the Gerry commission's influence had wiped out the infliction of the death penalty by hanging that Dr. Rockwell was called to use his scientific knowledge in devising a humane way of inflicting capital punishment. A law, fixing electricity as the agent, had been passed, but an apprehensive state discovered that no painless method of electrocution had been evolved.

Physicians His Aids.

At the time Dr. Rockwell was the ranking American authority on the then thriving science of electrotherapeutics. He refused to serve alone and two assistants—both physicians—were given him.

Thomas A. Edison was called from his first experiments in reproducing the sound of the human voice to aid the three physicians when they began their research at Orange, N. J. It was continued at the three New York state prisons, Auburn, Sing Sing, and Clinton, with animals as the subjects. Nineteen were electricuted before a satisfactory method was evolved.

R. R. Reilly, Native of Chicago, Dies in East

Rodolphe Ransom Reilly, formerly of Chicago, died yesterady afternoon in New York after an illness of several months. His residence was in Roslyn Estates, Long Island.

Mr. Reilly was 55 years old, born in Hyde Park, Chicago, a son of the late Dr. Frank W. Reilly. He was educated in Harvard school and Michigan university. In recent years he was president of the Sealed Containers corporation of New York. Early in the winter he went to Bermuda, seeking improved health, but later he went to a New York hospital where he died. Surviving him is the widow, Frances Reilly; also a brother, Leigh Reilly of Chicago, and a nephew, John R. Reilly of Newport News, Va.

Rev. Fred H. Burrell, 67, of Elmwood Park, Is Dead

The Rev. Fred H. Burrell, 67 years old, a retired clergyman of the Episcopal church, died suddenly yesterday in his home at 2905 77th avenue, Elmwood Park. Dr. James J. Leach, the attending physician, said the Rev. Mr. Burrell had swallowed some cleaning fluid containing ammonia which he had mistaken for medicine. An inquest will be held today. Surviving are his widow and three children.

The Rev. W. H. Gallagher, Michigan Mason, Is Dead

Allegan, Mich., April 12.—[Special.]—Funeral services for the Rev. William H. Gallagher, grand chaplain of the Grand Masonic lodge of Michigan, who died suddenly here last night, will be held at the Church of the Good Shepherd here on Friday. Burial will be in Saginaw Saturday.

FIRE CAUSES DAMAGE OF $3,500.

Zelia C. Nuttall, Expert on Mexican Archaeology, Dies

MEXICO CITY, April 12.—(AP)—Zelia C. Nuttall, 73, a widely known authority on Mexican archaeology and a native of San Francisco, died here today. Mrs. Nuttall lived in Mexico about forty years, but was known in many sections of the United States, partly through her affiliations with the Peabody and Metropolitan museums, the California Academy of Sciences, and several American learned societies.

Ferdinand Schwenke, 1871 Fire Victim, Is Dead at 89

Ferdinand Schwenke, 89 years old, 7808 Crescent avenue, Elmwood Park, a retired carpenter, whose home was destroyed by the Chicago fire in 1871, died last night. He had been ill for several weeks, according to his daughter, Mrs. Anna Weiskop, with whom he lived. Schwenke came to Chicago from Alsace-Lorraine in 1871, a short time before the fire, and lived at that time at Fisk and 18th streets.

Davis S. Wallace, Famous Illinois Speller, Dies at 83

Kewanee, Ill., April 12.—(AP)—Davis S. Wallace, 83, once rated as the state's best speller, who had attended the Bureau county fair for 73 years without a miss, died last night at his home here. He was a friend of the poet William Cullen Bryant.

ILLINOIS SENATORS VOTE 19 YRS. LEGAL AGE FOR EXECUTION

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—Perhaps influenced by interest now being shown in the case of Russell McWilliams, 18 year old Rockford youth under sentence of death for murder, the state senate today passed a bill to abolish the death penalty for persons under 19 years of age.

Senator Thomas P. Gunning [Rep., Princeton] introduced the measure. It drew considerable fire from Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago] and others, but was passed, 27 to 13. If the bill goes through the house before April 21, the date of the youth's execution, it is thought likely that Gov. Horner would sign it.

McWilliams' sentence probably then would be commuted to life imprisonment.

The law now says a person must have reached the "age of discretion."

German Baroness, Distant Kin of Washington, Dies

ERDING, Germany, April 12.—(AP)—Maria Baroness von Washington, whose late husband was related in a remote degree to the first President of the United States, died here today. She was 89 years old.

Rites for Miss Wesencraft, Riverside Pioneer, Today

Miss Charlotte A. Wesencraft, 90 years old, who died Tuesday, will be buried in Rosehill cemetery this afternoon, following services at 2 o'clock in her home at 80 Pine avenue, Riverside. Miss Wesencraft had lived in the Pine avenue residence for seventy-eight years. Her father was credited with founding Riverside. The family at one time owned most of the present site of the village and built the first home there. Miss Wesencraft often told friends that she was related to the family of Winston Churchill of England. Her grandfather was Capt. Jesse Churchill, who participated in the war of 1812.

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Sourness, Gas and Pain. How to Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from Walgreen's some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder form—never liquid or milk) is harmless, inexpensive, and is a fine remedy for acid stomach. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no fear of indigestion.

"I LOST 23 POUNDS Now Weigh Only 125 lbs."

Reduced Hips 8 Inches with New Quick, Easy Reducing Treatment

"I lost 23 lbs. in 6 weeks taking BonKora. Reduced my bust 5 inches, waist 6 inches, hips 8 inches.

"I used to hate to wear a bathing suit. Now I look well in one. I am sending you a photo just taken in a bathing suit and one taken in a dress when I was stout. See the difference! I now weigh 125 lbs.

"I feel fine, too. BonKora is evidently a good tonic as well as a weight reducer. Instead of the old, tired feeling I am full of energy. I feel younger and look younger.

"I didn't starve either. With BonKora I can eat plenty and still lose fat."—Mrs. H. H. Hallock, Jr., 1105 W. Lombard St., Baltimore, Md.

Now Slender Looks Years Younger

Safe, Pleasant Way. Eat Big Meals Fat Goes Quick—or No Cost

Look at Mrs. Hallock's photographs. Note that not only did she lose fat, but the heavier parts reduced most, making her shapely as well as slender. Then take BonKora, the quick, easy Reducing Treatment, which has taken off fat even when other methods failed.

It reduces fat new "3-stage" way. Triple action; triple speed. Take a little BonKora daily to help body function properly; to remove heavy wastes and moisture from fatty tissues. EAT BIG MEALS of foods you like, as explained in BonKora package.

There are no dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way. You feel and look younger.

Don't be fat any longer. Get a bottle of BonKora from Walgreen's today. If not delighted with quick loss of fat, manufacturer refunds money you paid for this bottle. You don't risk a penny.

Chicagoans, Once Fat, Praise BonKora

Lost 61 Pounds Reduced Bust, Waist, Hips

"I weighed 200 pounds before taking BonKora. Now weigh 139. Lost 61 pounds in 10 weeks. Reduced bust 6 inches, hips 9 inches, waist 12½ inches. Used to wear 44 dresses. Now wear 16. Headaches and indigestion all vanished."—Miss Lillian Kahn, 3004 Roosevelt Rd., Chicago.

Loses 33 Pounds

"I have tried many things for reducing but never found anything to equal BonKora. I didn't starve, either. BonKora took off 33 pounds in 4 weeks. Got rid of headaches and blood pressure spells. It relieved my rheumatism. Now I can do all my housework once more."—Mrs. Katherine Lukes, 7449 Parnell Ave., Chicago.

In Memoriam.

CARNEY—Grace Carney. In loving memory of our dear wife and mother who passed away 1 year ago today.
What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see,
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In heaven, that happy life.

Society Is Excited Over Two Appearances of Tibbett Here

"Emperor Jones" Will Be Presented Both Nights; Singer to Be in City for Rehearsals.

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOCIETY is agog and all in a dither over the appearance here on May 2 and 5 at the Auditorium of Lawrence Tibbett in "Emperor Jones," for not so many of those who used to run down to New York often during the season have been doing that this last winter and so not many of the socialites saw any of the eight performances of the opera at the Metropolitan.

Tibbett is coming to Chicago for over Easter to go over the preliminary rehearsals with Isaac Van Grove. The rôle is very exacting and it is for that reason that there are two days between the Chicago performances. The old favorite, "Pagliacci" also will be given on those evenings along with Eugene O'Neill's and Louis Gruenberg's more modern opus.

A percentage of the main floor seats and boxes will go to the Hungry School Children's fund of the Chicago public schools so those who plan to attend one of the performances will feel that they are contributing to a worthy cause as well as providing an evening of rare entertainment for themselves.

Boxes have been taken already by Miss Joanna Fortune, who has taken two so she can entertain for her niece, Miss Mary Fortune, who is to become the bride of William J. Lawlor Jr. at the first of the fashionable June weddings, for she has chosen the first day of the month as her wedding day; Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, Mrs. William Sherman Hay, Mrs. Alfred C. Tyler, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley, and Ira Nelson Morris.

Move Costume Shop in Winnetka.

Mrs. John Hooker of Winnetka no sooner arrived at home from Pasadena, where she visited Mrs. James Kellogg, a former Winnetkan, than she plunged into moving, not her own household but the stock of the Costume shop which is conducted in Winnetka for the benefit of Northwestern University settlement. The fancy dress costumes that are rented for the benefit of the settlement were moved from the shop in which the enterprise had been located since it was started last fall to larger quarters in the Little House of Interest, 813 Chestnut court, Winnetka.

The committee found that more room was needed, for many of the donations take up much room, hoop skirts, for instance, and fancy headdresses. Mrs. Hooker is chairman of the committee in charge and others who work with her are Mrs. Harold Wilder, Mrs. Towner Webster Jr., Mrs. Walter Strong, Mrs. Frank Payne, Mrs. Martin Lindsay, Mrs. Allen Withers, and Mrs. Edwin Price.

Mrs. Hooker also is interested in the annual spring sale of the Woman's Guild and Auxiliary of Christ church in Winnetka, which is to be held this Saturday afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock at the parish house. Mrs. Ralph Sargent is president of the guild and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard is general chairman of the sale. Mrs. Rene Travelletti is in charge of an Easter garden where tea will be served, Mrs. William B. McIlvaine and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard pouring.

National Polo Matches Open.

Society . . . at least those members who find the most fun in polo . . . was out last night for the first game of the national indoor polo championships at the 124th Field Artillery armory in Washington park. Spring ensembles, with beige and blue the predominating colors, formed a gay border around the drab gray of the big arena.

Directly in the center on the west side of the armory Gen. Frank Parker was host to a box party including Col. James M. Graham, chief of staff in the Sixth corps area, and Mrs. Graham; Capt. and Mrs. James B. Ballenger; Capt. and Mrs. G. Everett Hill, and Wayne Dinsmore.

During the game, in which the Chicago Riding club played the Sixth corps area, there wasn't a person around the ring who kept a closer eye on the ball than Mrs. C. Prentice Porter. Her husband was one of the riding club players. Wearing a smart gray suit trimmed in silver fox, she occupied a box with her mother, Mrs. Fletcher M. Durbin; her brother-in-law and his wife, the junior Henry Porters, and William M. Collins Jr.

One of the gayest and youngest parties included Mr. and Mrs. William E. Graham, Miss Marion Gordon, Miss Gene Bucklin, Frederick Herd, and Miss Caryl Bloomingston.

Longmeadow Hounds Ready to Hunt.

There will be the sound of the hunter's horn over the courses out Winnetka way one of these days soon, for the Longmeadow hounds are all ready to dash into action. Clark J. Lawrence of Hubbard Woods has just been elected their new master, to succeed Col. Albert E. Peirce, who recently resigned. The hounds, Mr. Lawrence reports, have come through the winter in splendid physical condition and are now being exercised daily.

Announcements were received yesterday for the dog fashion show Mrs. Frank Hibbard's Conveniences will stage at 700 North Michigan avenue next Tuesday at 4:30 o'clock, at which the very latest in rain coats, collars, leashes, and hair cuts for dogs will be shown. "Treers" will be supplied to exercise dogs while they wait for their mistresses, who will watch the show and eat a "hot dog."

Some of the models will be Laddie MacGregor Faurot, Danny Deever Patterson, Cocoa Swift, Coffee Needham, Spot Frey, Mitsou Bissell, Schnitzel Hill, Sam Graf, and the Johnston pair, Otto von Liechtenstein and Diesel Engine.

Thursday night of next week will be a gala one at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, for the linen committee of the Woman's Aid society of the Passavant Memorial hospital is having a benefit entertainment there that night and the hotel is serving a special dinner beforehand at which many of those interested in the benefit will entertain.

Miss Beatrice Borland is to give her clever and amusing talk on "Banging Through India and Persia," illustrated with the movies she and her sister, Harriet, took on their trip to those countries, and Miss Alice Mock will sing. Mrs. Harry H. Shearson is in charge of the sale of tickets and others on the committee are Mrs. William A. Yager, chairman; Mrs. Gardiner Van Ness, co-chairman; Mrs. Robert N. Cowham, Mrs. Loyal Davis, Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mrs. James R. Offield, and Mrs. George Rasmussen.

Lecture Today at Athletic Club.

Some of the reservations made for Jan Chiapusso's recital of Music with Annotations to be given this morning at the Woman's Athletic club are those of Mrs. Arthur W. Newton, Mrs. Arthur W. Cutten, Mrs. Frederick L. C. S. d'Aix, Mrs. Philip T. Starck, Mrs. Nelson L. Buck, Mrs. Allan M. Clement, Mrs. Sanger Brown, Miss Mildred Wetten, Mrs. Edwin M. Seipp,

Orloff Sticks to Pattern in His Paintings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two contrasting one-man exhibits have opened at either end of the loop. In the Allerton gallery may be found paintings by Gregory Orloff; in the Cordon club, Fine Arts building, sculpture by Alice Littig Siems. Probably the closest one can come to a quick description of Mr. Orloff's technique is to call him a stylized realist. Pattern is more important to him than subject and color is kept in check for fear that its vibrant qualities might interrupt the flow of design.

The result of his technique is a room filled with pleasant pictures. The level of his work remains constant. The one shimmering moment is found in "Tower Square," a charming, even exquisite, bit of paint in which the color supplants in importance the equally attractive pattern. For the rest, there are various landscapes with figures as the prime motif. A troubling pathos shadows many of them. Even when that is brushed aside, as in "Bathers" and "In the Park," there remains a subdued atmosphere. The sun does not strike through. The flood of life is on the ebb. One wants a sharp, shrill, contrasting note that fails to materialize.

The several portraits are dignified and well handled. The "Tania in Garden" is charming. The drawings are excellent. Particularly is this true of the portrait drawing of Leon Rosenblum and Leonid Kinski. The woodcuts are effective and of them perhaps "Russian Dance" is the richest and most unaffected.

The sculpture by Mrs. Siems at the Cordon club is an impressive showing. Many of the busts are of leading educationalists at the Universities of Chicago, Iowa and South Dakota. They are invariably strongly modeled and one feels a keen interpretation of character. The study of Lorado Taft is brilliant. The bust of Carl Akeley is most likable, giving us Mr. Akeley as a friendly and human person.

The group of children's portraits are attractive. The most irresistible is that of "Baby Taylor." Mr. Siems' own boy, "My Lawrence," is another engaging youngster.

The exhibits will continue through April.

'Air Hostess' Is Old Plot in New Clothes

Able Acting Helps Tell Love Story.

"AIR HOSTESS."

Produced by Columbia.
Directed by Al Rogell.
Presented at Randolph and Crawford theaters.

THE CAST.

Kitty King.....Evalyn Knapp
Ted Hunter.....James Murray
Dick Miller.....Arthur Pierson
Ma Kearns.....Jane Darwell
Pa Kearns.....J. M. Kerrigan
Sylvia Carleton.....Thelma Todd
Mike.....Mike Donlin
Spike.....Dutch Hendrian

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND—Melodrama.
ACTING—Able.
PHOTOGRAPHY—All right.
DIRECTION—Not bad, considering the story.

STORY—Though made timely by its air angle, the plot proper is whiskered. It has to do with two flyers who both love the charming hostess employed by a big air line. One of these sweet Kitty marries. The brave little woman encourages hubby to work on a new air motor he plans to use on a trans-Pacific flight, e'en though its perfection demands [apparently] that she send him week-ending with another—and naughty—blonde, who has offered to back his flight. . . .

Well, much comes out in the wash and for a while it looks as if Kitty had married the wrong man. The picture's big "punch," which rings in a railroad train headed for destruction—bearing the heroine—and a rescuing airplane piloted by you guess whom, proves much to a lady in distress.

AUDIENCE APPEAL—Mild.

"FALSE UNIFORMS."

Russian movie.
Directed by Faust Lopashinski.
Presented at the Punch and Judy theater.

THE CAST.

Count Piglovski.....L. Podorozhny
Karmeliuk.....Setepan Shagalda
Kilina.....Zinaida Pigulovitch
Rosalie.....Valentina Rovinskaya
Sutonin.....Boris Karlash-Yerbitzky
Count Piglovski Sr.....A. Nikitin
The Bandit Bear.....Maxim Astafiev

KIND—Russian what-is-it.

ACTING—The earnest, unself-conscious kind we have come to expect from the Russians.

PHOTOGRAPHY—Effective in some places, very poor in others.

DIRECTION—Purposeful, but not always clearheaded.

STORY—Rather difficult to follow. English subtitles help some. Scenes are laid in the Russia of early days. The hero is a servant who turns bandit. He is, at the start, serf to two rich and barbarous counts, father and son, who own a vast estate. The giant serving man, infuriated by their cruelty and by the horrid ways of the son of the house with women workers, goes berserker. He is aided in his revolt by a hill outlaw and his band. . . .

Well, the counts call out the soldiery and away go the downtrodders to fell the downtrodden. But they have not reckoned on the sympathy for the latter of a certain Russian officer who is, in reality, a one time servant who has killed his master and who now poses as that master. . . . The picture ends with the slave, Karmeliuk, riding away to safety. . . .

While the picture is propaganda of a sort, it is mild propaganda. For a Russian picture it has an unusual amount of plot and action, and when you behold a man whistle and a steed come galloping toward him at the call you feel sure that the producers are not unfamiliar with Tom Mix and Tony. Now and then are heard unexpected bursts of music and the sound of voices singing. There may be reason for same, but I could discover none.

On the same program is a long "short" concerning the doings of the soviet in the arctic. Things as they [presumably] are today are contrasted with conditions in the time of the czars. Tempest and sunshine—and I'm sure you know where is which.

See you tomorrow!

Pick "Mona Lisa"

These and other socialites who have literary leanings are helping to make the Midwest Review of Literature evening at the Goodman theater on April 22 a gala occasion. Dr. Maurice Gnesin's "Leonardo da Vinci" will be given its first performance that night and these four will be among those entertaining theater parties with dinners beforehand.

This morning at 11 o'clock a number of society girls, as well as co-eds from the University of Chicago and Northwestern university, will assemble at the Goodman to have David Leavitt, Mrs. Walter Papecke, Mrs. Charles H. Conrad, Walter Frazier, John Root, and George Dickson select the one whose smile and eyes most resemble in enigmatic quality Da Vinci's "Mona Lisa."

The modern "Mona Lisa" will be painted by Mr. Leavitt, a Beaux Arts man whose murals adorn the trustees' room in the administration building at A Century of Progress, and the finished painting will be on display in the Goodman on Midwest Review night. Francise Clow, Marjorie Horton, Helen Bell, Ethel Dixon, Frances Weary, Lydia and Narcissa Swift, Nancy Traylor, Edna Doering, and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings (Emily Otis) are a few of those who will enter the contest this morning.

Pope Pius to Renew Procession Rites at Ceremony Today

VATICAN CITY, April 12.—(AP)—Pope Pius tomorrow will renew a custom abandoned by the pontiffs 63 years ago, carrying the blessed sacrament from the Sistine to the Pauline chapel, where it will remain exposed until Good Friday.

Piux IX. was the last to perform the ceremony. During his reign a break with the Italian government led to discontinuation of this and numerous other rituals.

The present pope will begin observance of Holy Thursday by attending mass in the Sistine chapel.

Following upon mass a papal procession, including the Sacred College of Cardinals, the helmeted, red jacketed Princes of the Noble Guard, and a detachment of Swiss Guards in equally picturesque attire, will form.

His holiness, bearing the sacrament, will take his place in line and the column will move slowly to the Pauline chapel.

Schools of County Plan Century of Progress Day

Plans were completed yesterday to set aside one day, probably May 19, as A Century of Progress day in all Cook county schools. Practically all the county schools will be closed on that day and all children and their teachers will be admitted free of charge to the fair grounds.

Bannister Pays First Visit to Daughter Jane

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 12.—[Special.]—Harry Bannister's first visit in a year with his 4 year old daughter, Jane, took place at Palm Springs, where the baby's mother, Ann Harding, had taken her with her nurse. Miss Harding's eyes sparkle as she tells how pleased the baby was to see her papa. Bannister's visit was both a greeting and a farewell, for he sails for China shortly, where he intends to do a lot of flying in his own plane.

Miss Harding is not only an intent but an understanding mother. She had little Jane on her set, "When Ladies Meet," at MGM a day or two ago, and the youngster, worthy grand daughter of a general of the American regulars, somehow managed to make her way up to one of the overhead wooden set supports on the sound stage.

Every one but Ann was petrified with fear that Jane would fall, and wanted to call to her, and yell worried advice. Miss Harding wouldn't let them. "It would frighten the child," she said, "it is better even that she might have a fall, than have a scare that would last through her life." The baby never even came near falling. But she did get a swell bird's-eye view of her mother, and that's what she went up for.

Charles Wesley Ruggles, nine weeks old son of Arline Judge and Wesley Ruggles, paid a short visit to the Radi-RKO studio with his nurse yesterday, to watch his mother emote in "Flying Circus."

Katharine Frances Brown, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Brown, behaved ecstatically when christened at St. Thomas Episcopal church. Bebe Daniels and her two year old daughter Barbara Bebe Lyon were there. Bebe is the baby's godmother.

Mickey Mouse graduates from two reelers to full length talking pictures in June, being signed, via the signature of his creator, Walt Disney, to co-star with Jack Pearl, "Baron Munchausen" of the radio, and Jimmy Durante, in an untitled comedy to be written about the fantastic adventures of a great liar. Sam Wood will direct.

Wallace Beery will take the oath and receive a commission as lieutenant commander in the naval reserve Saturday noon at Signal Hill airport of the U. S. Naval reserves. He will be sworn in by Rear Admiral Thomas J. Senn, who will fly here from San Diego.

There was a decided Chicago flavor to the dinner party which Henry Wales and his mother gave at their suite at Highborne Gardens. Guests included Peggy Joyce, whose legal residence used to be Chicago; Mary McCormic, the Chicago opera singer; Jed Kiley, who from an enlisted man in a Chicago outfit became one of the best known post-war masters of ceremony in Paris; Winfield R. Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Presnell [Bob is a Chicago newspaperman who is going strong as a movie writer]; Gene Belden, Charles Belden, and Mrs. Ethel Taylor. Wales is one of the Fox studio scenarist staff now.

Sari Maritza and Vivian Gaye testified that they didn't commit the $1,990 asserted damages to drapes and furniture for which they are being sued in a civil trial by their ex-landlady. Vivian said a kitten got her claws caught in the drapes and may have ripped them. The judge took the case under advisement.

New Hair Cut Is Successful Spring Tonic

Gets You All Set for Smart Styles.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Want a new personality? Do you crave a vastly different as well as a becoming new hairdress?

Get your locks clipped to a sleek rather scanty effect and the world is yours, at least fashionably. Climb aboard the high chair, wrap the folds of an enveloping sheet around your form, shut your eyes, and wait for the miracle.

Master snippers shear madly, removing hunks in certain spots, and mere fringes in others . . . but clip steadily until you wi' scarcely recognize the faithful physiognomy that peers out at you from the early morning truth teller, the mirror.

Don't get excited, or object to much shearing, the shingle is not back, nor are the masculine haircuts being revived, but flattering coiffures for spring are cut to fit the head.

Fashionable heads under the newest spring hats must be small, rounded and very sleek. No matter how determined you have been about keeping long locks, eventually you slide under the busy shears of the hair cutter. The new headgear makes this trip and cutting most necessary.

And now is the time to take the three hours off for a good permanent . . . and, of course, the best you can buy is the cheapest in the result of well burnished curls, slick, sleek flattened coiffures that best flatter your hair line and headline.

One shop is greatly excited over the clever fingers of a wizard with new hairdressing tricks, evolved while you wait . . . this chap, with lots of heady experience in Europe and America, practically remakes any tired out coiffure, he cuts and thins where your hair has never been cut and thinned before, he parts the hair at unusual and practically unheard of angles, he softens a determined jawbone by swirling the hair over a flattering section of the skull, he makes fifty-seven varieties of tiny curls, as a fringe, to cover certain sections that should be covered and presto, you are a raving beauty almost before you realize the time is gone.

This master hairdresser trains your hair, designs a hair dressing just for your particular type of beauty and does these things so simply that with a little bit of practice you can skillfully keep your own new hairdress between the weekly waves at the beauty shop.

If you want the thrill of a lifetime, hurry to a beauty shop and have a personality haircut and hairdress. It is quite the most exciting indoor spring recreation you can spend your money for . . . and all the gay youthful hats, the snappy new spring clothes, will look twice as smart with your head clipped and waved with a carved or sculptured outline.

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters: Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior after losing their fortune in Chicago. Great-Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girls' school in Ohio, is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. When Blake returns to Agate Bay he takes Meryl with him to be his bride. Meryl learns after the wedding ceremony, through Lucia, a snobbish cousin of the Lawrences, that Blake married her as an escape from Christine, the wife of Julius Greer, with whom he had been in love. Meryl prepares to return home. Theresa, Blake's sister, persuades her to stay for six months for Blake's sake, whom she still loves, and not to hurt her people. Theresa promises to teach her social service work. The Greers give a dinner dance for Blake and his bride.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

HONOR BOUND.

At half past one in the morning Meryl and Blake were alone before the glowing fireplace in the drawing room. Theresa and old Uncle Tom had retired to their rooms. A dim light shone from the floor lamp that stood back of the couch where Meryl sat. Blake stood smoking, his elbow resting against the white Adam mantel.

Meryl leaned tensely forward. "Is there nothing any one can do to stop Julius Greer's scheme?"

Blake winced. "There's a good deal being done now," he said, almost sharply. "The Nokomis society is agitating in Washington for litigation that will quash it—and all others like it."

"I remember father speaking of that," she said. "Are you giving your support to the Nokomis society?"

He frowned darkly down upon her, his attitude obstinately immobile. "I am not," he replied.

"Would it be unfriendly of me to ask you why?" she questioned him.

Blake's shoulders shifted in a harassed way. "You know what my position is," he said gloomily. "I'm in honor bound not to oppose Julius Greer in any business scheme he undertakes."

"I've had enough of your taunting, I had an idea you were different."

"I see. Mr. Greer saved your father's fortune twenty years ago—and now your hands are tied."

"Well, I just make it none of my business," he said brusquely.

"But Theresa told me that Mr. Greer profited himself by what he did for your father," Meryl persisted.

"That's quite beside the question," Blake countered, and flicked his cigaret ash into the fireplace. "The fact remains that we owe him all we have."

Meryl kept her eyes upon him. "Let us be honest with each other, Blake," she said softly. "Is that the only reason you don't dare come out and fight him in the open?"

She got up and stood before him. He looked at her thoughtfully for a moment. She was thinking of Christine, he knew. Sudden anger seized him as her shining head lifted in defiance.

He reached out suddenly and seized her wrist. The violent impulse came over him then to take her in his arms and crush out of her that delicate superiority, that fine control. But he checked his impulse.

"I want to have nothing to do with Julius Greer—either for him or against him—if I can help it!" he said roughly. "You know the reason as well as I do. Is that honest enough?"

Meryl smiled maddeningly up at him, although his grip on her wrist was painful. "You are too proud—because of Christine," she said. "I thought all was fair in love and war, Blake."

Blake laughed harshly. "I've had enough of your taunting!" he rasped. "I had an idea you were different from the rest of them. You're not! You're—a woman!"

And before she could resist, he had caught her ruthlessly into his arms and had kissed her, with no tenderness, on the mouth.

She flung herself away from him. With tears of rage trembling on her lids, she ran from the room.

When Meryl entered the breakfast room the next morning, Theresa and Uncle Tom had not yet come down. Blake was alone at the table.

He looked up from his paper as she came into the room. The casualness of his regard set up within her a sharp ripple of renewed anger which made her suddenly furious at herself.

"Good morning!" he greeted her.

"Good morning." Meryl took her place at the table.

Blake folded his paper slowly. "You're around early—after last night's orgy."

"Have you forgotten that I'm starting work with Theresa this morning at the community house?" Meryl asked lightly.

Blake ran his eyes leisurely over the blue wool suit and crisp white blouse which Theresa had suggested for her first day's work at the settlement. Meryl saw the flush of color spread over his cheeks, but saw, too, that it was followed at once by his hard, impenetrable grin, which made gray slits of his eyes.

"Before the others come down," he said brusquely, "I want to apologize for what I did last night. It was brutal—and foolish. If I promise not to forget myself again—can you forgive me?"

Meryl looked steadily down at the sheen of the yellow linen Theresa preferred for her breakfast table. The sun of early winter made a bright, falsely warm pool upon it.

She raised her eyes and leveled them at Blake. "I have very little choice in the matter," she said coolly.

"On the contrary, my dear," Blake retorted with sardonic amiability, "the whole matter rests entirely with you. If you don't feel quite equal to forgiving me—let it go at that. I don't want you to do anything that goes against the grain. You're probably fed up with putting on an act. I know I'm damn sick of it!"

He flung his paper from him, turned half way round in his chair and looked out of the window, one long leg thrown in sudden exasperation over the other.

"I am not putting on an act," Meryl said tonelessly. "I'm simply trying to live up to an agreement. If you are sick of it, we can manage not to see each other except when—when it's absolutely necessary."

"For the family's sake, eh?" he inquired with an impatient shrug.

"For my family's sake, too," Meryl added, flushing. All at once, as her eyes wandered out over the wintry brilliance of the Lawrence terrace, she seemed to see, as though superimposed on that formally landscaped area, the wild and rugged shore at home.

She might have surrendered then and there to the terrifying onslaught of loneliness that vision brought had not Theresa and Uncle Tom come in.

The conversation swung immediately to the events of the evening before. Blake seemed more withdrawn than usual, but made no effort to change the subject, Meryl observed.

"And Julius says the big deal is as good as closed," Uncle Tom observed finally.

"All he has left to do is keep Joliffe in the senate," Theresa remarked, jabbing angrily with her spoon at a last remnant of grapefruit as though it embodied, somehow, the scurrilous Joliffe.

"He'll probably do that easily enough," Uncle Tom said. "I don't suppose Cy Granville and his bunch can prevent him."

"Who is Cy Granville?" Meryl asked.

Blake looked at her through half closed eyes. "He's an old friend of mine—we went to college together. He's secretary of the Nokomis society—the outfit that's bucking Greer. He's just the sort you'd be crazy about, Meryl."

"Indeed?" Meryl murmured.

"But I doubt that Cy can do anything," Uncle Tom put in lugubriously. Theresa bristled. "Somebody ought to shoot Julius Greer!"

Three Troubles of 'In-Betweens' Are Discussed

Mrs. Bevans Offers Her Suggestions.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

This is the fourth installment of suggestions on managing the in-betweens. Without fancy preamble let us take up another difficulty that often besets parents and children at some time during the interval from, approximately, 5 to 11.

As our first point today let's take this:

Trouble: A general dislike of school as school. Cause: Too great physical confinement (felt by children of some temperaments more than others) and too close concern with books and the printed page (a fault of most of our schooling). Advice: Choose, if possible, a school that provides some physical freedom and also manual work; if this can't be done, provide in after school hours and week-ends lots of vigorous activity outdoors and opportunity for the crafts and arts, and even actual physical work.

Next on the list is:

Difficulty: Troubles at school. Cause: Failing in school work due to poor teaching or being graded too high; disagreements with teacher over conduct or lessons with possible fault on either side; inability to get on with children. Advice: Go to visit classes; talk with teacher in friendly desire for help as to child's work, or personality, or conduct; encourage association with children in the class out of school and invite them to the house.

Difficulty: Use of "bad words" and "swear words" not heard at home. Reason: Novelty, which is always intriguing to a child; a sense of vigor that accompanies certain expressions; a feeling of being grownup; a desire to shock some one, which is exciting; and in most cases a very real ignorance of why certain expressions are objectionable.

Advice: A general policy of ignoring and of never being shocked—children soon outgrow this; if some words are too objectionable to ignore, explain that you have a better word for the same thing—or that people who know how to talk use the correct name—or that that is not "our kind" of language. A certain amount of this is to be expected and must not be combated on moral grounds.

Interesting New Color Contrasts Suggested for Smart Jumper Dress

JUMPER DRESS.

This chic jumper dress is carried out in a carrot red crinkled crêpe, with a straw colored crêpe guimpe. The paneled front adds height to the figure and the dress is easily made. Angora gray woolen with a yellow silk crêpe blouse is another pretty idea.

The pattern, No. 3461, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, with 2¼ yards of 35 inch material for the blouse.

THE STAGE

"The Piccoli," a marionette company from Rome which has aroused lively interest among the playgoers of New York, will begin a Chicago engagement of indefinite length at the Erlanger theater May 15. This organization was founded in Rome by Vittorio Podrecca 18 years ago and has made many European tours. It consists of some 1,800 large sized puppets, operated by 28 marionette specialists, and its repertory includes dozens of bills representing all forms of theatrical entertainment. It is generally regarded as the most elaborate and famous marionette troupe in the world.

Walter Hampden's spring engagement in Chicago, announced months ago, will take place at the Grand Opera house beginning May 8 and will be of one week's duration. The eminent actor-manager will present revivals of "Caponsacchi" and "Hamlet." The former is a romantic drama based on Robert Browning's poem "The Ring and the Book."

The Passion Play that Jay Wellington, Hollywood pageant master, is rehearsing in Chicago will be given in the Rainbo Fronton, 4300 North Clark street, beginning Monday, April 24, according to the latest announcement from its management. Various charitable organizations will coöperate in its promotion. The company consists largely of amateurs. The rôle of Jesus Christ has been assigned to Robert Kortum.

"On the Make," a comedy by Roger Gray, with Edna Hibbard in the leading rôle, will begin an engagement at the Garrick theater Sunday, April 23. Others in the cast will be Enid Markey, Guilynn Hickman, Loretta Poynton, Roger Gray [the author], Edgar Mason, and Victor Sutherland. C. C.

Society Ready for Two Nights of Opera Again

"Emperor Jones" Will Be Sung by Tibbett.

Mrs. John R. Mauff, and Mrs. George L. Cragg.

"Have you heard of the Infant Welfare drive
Being made to keep the babies alive?
We're giving a Radio Star revue
At the Evanston High school. Haven't you
April twenty-second to spare
To come and see the stars of the air
Perform in person, and then a chance
For those who pay early to stay for the dance?"

So writes Mrs. Everett Cook in the invitations the Evanston Infant Welfare society is sending out for its grand benefit night of next week. Mrs. Edwin E. Sheridan is general chairman of the revue, with Mrs. George A. Paddock, Mrs. Ray P. Hoover, and Mrs. Otto Y. Schnering as her assistants.

Mrs. J. Allen Haines of New York has been having a perfect holiday the last week with her sister, Mrs. William P. Martin, in Lake Forest. Mrs. Martin brought her back with her from the east last Friday, and ever since then Mrs. Haines has been renewing acquaintance with Mrs. Ralph H. Poole, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. E. Harris Brewer, Mrs. Robert C. Orr, and a dozen more friends at small luncheons and dinners. Edith Key before her marriage, it was her ancestor, Francis Scott Key, who wrote the words for our national anthem. Mrs. Haines plans to remain another ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy arrived at home yesterday morning via New York from Florida, where they have been spending a good part of the winter in their villa in Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley and their children have gone west. Catalina Island is their goal, although they are not going directly there. The length of time they will be gone is undecided.

Mrs. Charles F. Glore left yesterday for California and her plans are also indefinite.

Several out-of-towners are arriving home Sunday to be here for Easter. Among them are Mrs. J. Russell Forgan and her children, who have been visiting Mrs. Forgan's mother, Mrs. Jackson Johnson, in Daytona Beach during the children's vacations. Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour and their four children are arriving from Miami Beach, and Mrs. William D. Truesdale and her daughter, Miss Lois Truesdale, will be at home from a short motor trip through North Carolina.

Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley and her daughter, Mrs. Victor Elting Jr. [Helen Stanley], whom she had been visiting in Cedar Rapids, Ia., where the Eltings live, arrived home Tuesday night by motor. Mr. Elting will join his wife in a day or so and they will spend Easter with her parents.

Frances McFadden Motoring to City.

Miss Frances McFadden is motoring to Chicago to spend Easter with her mother, Mrs. Parmalee J. McFadden. She will arrive tomorrow or Saturday and will stay only a few days. When the James P. Humes [Marion McFadden] return from their European wedding trip they will be at home in Mrs. McFadden's apartment at 219 Lake Shore drive, and Mrs. McFadden will go to Lake Forest. She will not go east until later this summer.

Travel news: Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat is at home again in Winnetka after a three months' absence. She has visited Miami Beach, Princeton, N. J., where she was the guest of the junior Kohlsaats and their baby, Virginia Starr, and New York, where she visited the former Suzanne Kohlsaat and her husband, Franklin Agnew.

Miss Margaret Quan is embarking tomorrow on the Saturnia for the Italian Riviera. She is going with her aunt, Mrs. John E. Holland of New York, who hasn't missed going to Europe every year for the last ten years. They will be away until mid-November and will visit Switzerland and Germany as well as Italy. Miss Quan will have her crayons with her to do a bit of sketching as she travels.

Back at home are the De Forest Hulburds, who spent the winter in Florida; the James M. Hopkinses and Kay Goodman, who were in Phoenix for ten days; Mrs. Wirth S. Dunham, who has opened her great castle-like house at Wayne after being in Warm Springs, Ga., since before Christmas; Mrs. Joseph B. Long, who has been in the east for five months; the Alanson Follansbees, who spent the winter at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Frank McNair and his daughter, Caroline, who took a trip to Egypt and the Holy Land.

The Paul Magnusons did not wait for warm weather to move to the country and they already have closed their Lake Shore drive apartment and are at their farm in Dundee for the summer.

Suits, Sleeves Enter Realm of Formal Fashions

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The process of covering-up after dark shows no signs of letting go in Paris fashions. There are so many sleeved evening gowns that bare arms are becoming a treat when they are shown by lamplight. Necklines keep on rising at the rate of several inches a season.

Inspired by this under-cover movement, the suit to be worn in daylight and electric light has appeared. Jeanne Lanvin, who is one of the Big Six of Paris style makers, is the creator of this kind of suit, and one of her models is shown today. Such an ensemble fits in so neatly with activities of fashionable women in the late afternoon and evening that it made an instantaneous hit.

There is a plain tailored skirt that is just instep length, made of a heavy black crêpe. It is cut with a circular flare that begins about halfway down. A hip-length jacket of the same material completes the suit. This jacket is semi-fitted and has a big collar of silver fox fur, and double bands of the same fur at the elbows of the sleeves.

The peasant blouse of this ensemble is particularly Lanvin. It is made of white and silver lamé, in a supple weave, and has big sleeves that are three-quarter length, but tucked up to the elbows underneath. Wide bias bands are crossed in front, making a dropped shoulder yoke. The blouse is worn over the top of the skirt.

Prince Serge Mdivani to Drop Title, Become Citizen

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—[Special.]—Prince Serge Mdivani, native of Tiflis in the Georgian Caucaus, today officially voiced intention of becoming an American citizen and of foreswearing allegiance to his native land in 1936. The husband of Mary McCormic, opera singer and divorced husband of Pola Negri, film star, also announced intention to drop the title of prince when granted his final papers. He gave his occupation as an oil operator.

Movie Closeup

Well! Well! On Saturday the Majestic theater reopens its doors! It will feature a first run movie, "Racing Strain," with Wally Reid Jr., and five acts of vaudeville.

When Mary Pickford was in town recently she arranged personally for her picture, "Secrets," which opens Saturday at the United Artists, to be screened for 4,280 aged and destitute adult inmates of the Cook county institution of Oak Forest. The showing occurs tonight. Similar screenings are being planned by Balaban & Katz for the Edward Hines Jr. hospital and several homes for the aged.

Want to know how the wheels go round? List! "How Movies Are Made," a novelty one reel "short," directed by Ralph Staub for Columbia pictures, will be shown during the World's Fair. It depicts the daily routine of studio life from the time a story is purchased until the finished product is shown on the screen.

Trim Personal Appearance Rated as Asset to Workers

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

An extract from Gen. Pershing's book "My Experiences in the World War" is read to the West Point cadet because it indicates clearly and concisely what happens to an officer without pride in his personal appearance. Carelessness in appearance and laxity in the enforcement of duty were found to go together.

"Not only as a matter of pride but because of the general effect upon morale and efficiency" does the army demand first rate personal setup. "An officer or soldier who takes no pride in his personal appearance is usually found careless in other respects and to that extent less reliable in times of stress," was Gen. Pershing's comment in reference to a certain inspection trip made in France and noted in his diary. Officers who came under Gen. Pershing's observation and who did not immediately respond to correction were very soon replaced.

The strong, erect, efficient looking figure is desired not only for military fitness, but is being demanded more and more in industry. It is recognized as the basic element of health—more reliable in times of business stress, and more suggestive of temperamental compatibility at all times.

Men and women in business should begin early to provide against that day of reckoning for those who let themselves get in a rut and are pushed off the boards to make room for young, strong ambitious successors.

A morning set up period of exercise should be adhered to just as religiously as breakfast eating. Let it be only five minutes, but let it be regular. Let is be six, eight, or ten minutes, but don't slip up on a single day. It's the regularity that counts. And men and women in business must have exercise—or they can't escape the downdrift physically.

Hands on hips. First, make a one-quarter bend and recover. Then a one-half bend and recover. Then, the full bend, as illustrated, extending the arms to the front on this full bend.

Boy Friend Is Fond of Dance; Girl Stays Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I go to see my girl friend three evenings a week. On Thursdays I go to dances—alone. I ask my girl to go along, but she says she does not like dancing. I love to dance. Honest, I'm crazy about it.

"I don't take home the girls I dance with—just dance with them. Now, my girl says that if I go to another dance she'll accept the motoring invitation of a fellow who is always coaxing her to go out with him. However, she says she'll agree to let you settle this question between us, Miss Blake. JACK and JILL."

Well, "Jill," if you'll really let us settle the question for you, our advice unqualifiedly would be to put on your dancing pumps and trot right along with "Jack" to the dancing place. Even if you don't like having your feet stepped on, if your toes hurt furiously from dancing, trot right along with the boy friend! Or, he'll find in the dance place a girl seemingly more compatible with his diversional tastes.

Dancing, with some people, is an incurable passion. They'd rather dance than eat, as you've heard said, no doubt. And why try to cure them? It isn't a vice! A man giving over three evenings a week to your pleasure, "Jill," earns one for himself, don't you think? But that isn't the point! It's the compromising that two people must indulge in if they want to make a go of their romance, single or married. The man stays away from the dance three evenings a week—then, let him have one evening to enjoy it.

A nondancing woman married to a dance loving man has to do one of two things. Either step out and right along with him, the wisest course, or resolve that there'll be no haranguing over his stepping out alone. If you attempt to keep the gentleman tied down, he'll break out in brasher amusements.

We think it a dog in the manger attitude to deny a partner his or her most beloved pastime because one happens not to like it. And it's not at all conducive to married happiness to refuse to adjust oneself to the other's pleasures.

Cathedral Window.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Kentucky's first cathedral provided the inspiration for the design of the quilt pattern illustrated today, as well as the name—"Cathedral Window." The quiet, softened pastel shades of pink or blue on a background of milky white are a wise choice of materials from which to cut the pieces. The intricate design reminds me of the snowflakes we were taught to make in childhood by slashing cut-outs in a piece of paper that had been folded twice or four times.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn street.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?
BY H. A. RIDLEY

THE MORRISEY CASE.

"I don't know anything about his murder," nervously retorted Nell Gibson in reply to Prof. Fordney's remark, "You're the first arrest in the Morrisey case," as he stepped up and drew her back from the railroad station gates. Just then a passerby brushed against Nell, knocking her purse to the ground. Fordney, hastily retrieving it, felt a gun as he handed it to her. No question now about Nell being involved!

"You've befriended me more 'an once, professor," hiccoughed Old Annie as she admitted Fordney to her one room in the tenement house, "and that's why I sent for you. I just came from Tony's," whispered the old crone with an air of secrecy. "I overheard Nell Gibson and that bum Richards she's been hanging around with havin' an argument. He told her to beat it out of town on the 5:20 from Central station—that he'd meet her there——"

"Get to the point, Annie," interrupted Fordney rather impatiently. "You didn't call me——"

"The point! Wait! They had just murdered Pat Morrisey at his flat!"

"Why in thunder didn't you say so before," exclaimed the professor as he hurried to Morrisey's hideout where he found the man's bullet riddled body! Glancing at his watch he discovered he could just make the station in time and if Annie was right——

"So you don't know anything about the murder, eh? Then why signal a tipoff to your pal Richards, who just came out of the waiting room? A confession, Nell, might save you the chair!"

HOW DID FORDNEY KNOW NELL WAS INVOLVED IN THE MURDER?

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so send it to him in care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Two Delicious Stuffings Given for Easter Bird

Roast Chicken Approved for Dinner.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented Saturday morning by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

There's a spring lilt to the air these mornings. Did you feel it? It must be the little breezes practicing up for Easter Sunday. Or maybe the first breaths that crocuses take poking out through the ground. But certainly spring is here and it's high time for food artists to take the tip and plan their Easter meals.

Roast chicken, to me, means Easter Sunday. But this year I'm going to give his lordship a tantalizing "new deal" in the form of a herb dressing—the very essence of springtime.

HERB DRESSING FOR EASTER CHICKEN.

- 2 medium carrots
- 1 small green pepper
- 1 small onion
- 3 large stalks of celery
- 2 cups raw spinach, well packed
- 3 sprigs parsley
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup dried bread crumbs
- ½ cup water
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Wash the vegetables and put them all through a medium food chopper. Heat the butter in a frying pan and add the vegetables, moving them about till browned. Add the remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly. Stuff this savory dressing into a four to five pound bird and roast to puffy tenderness and golden brownness.

But if you've never offered to an enthusiastic family a roast chicken complete with all the trimmings—and filled with an inner goodness of chestnut dressing—here is that stuffing at its best. It's rich and companified—but this is Easter!

CHESTNUT STUFFING.

- 1 quart French chestnuts
- 2 cups dried bread crumbs
- 1 cup rich milk or cream
- 1-3 cup butter
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Grated rind of ½ lemon

Blanch and shell the chestnuts and cook till tender in boiling salted water. Put through a food chopper and combine with the other ingredients. Blend well and stuff into the fortunate bird destined to offer the proper background for one of the most delicious of stuffings.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt was guest of honor at the celebration of "Pan-American day" in the building of the Pan-American Union.

Mrs. Cordell Hull, wife of the secretary of state, was the honor guest today at a luncheon given by the wives of the officers of the American foreign service school who are stationed in Washington. The company, numbering 80, included the wives of the assistant secretaries of state. Mrs. Hull was introduced by Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr, wife of the assistant secretary of state in charge of the consular service, who was before her marriage Miss Edith Koon of Hillsdale, Mich.

Mrs. Roosevelt Takes Five Gifts to Shop to Assist Hospital

Washington, D. C., April 12.—(AP)—To a thrift shop tea where five articles salable for children's charities served as admission, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt came today with five separate packages neatly wrapped in white paper.

Immediately a thrifty shopkeeper marked her name on each of the five, for the gifts of President's wives sell profitably for children's hospitals.

Articles small and practical, handkerchiefs and pillow slips, were what Mrs. Roosevelt brought, topping a mountain of assorted donations of fashionably clad women who had come to have tea with her.

KOTEX ANNOUNCES
Patented* Equalizer
in great offer
3 BOXES for 59c

A RADICAL innovation!...Not a mere improvement in sanitary protection . . . but something new, different. Kotex, with the New Patented Equalizer! And—look!—offered at a sensationally low introductory price.

Step into any drug, dry goods, or department store. Get three boxes of Kotex with Patented Equalizer, all for 59c! Try the new idea in sanitary protection at a lower price than you pay for ordinary pads!

Insured safety

Kotex, with the New Patented Equalizer, gives 20 to 30% greater protection. The center equalizer not only thickens protection but makes it more adequate, more comfortable—because edges stay dry, removing possibilities of irritation through chafing. An intimate explanation of the new equalizer is given you on the direction sheet inside the package.

Ends must be "phantomized"

Mere rounded ends are not enough. They must be flattened, embossed. Kotex—and Kotex only—offers this special shaping, making it possible to wear the closest-fitting gown without the slightest revealing line. Absorbency, softness, disposability—those qualities for which Kotex is famous—remain unchanged. Remember, too, that it can be worn on either side with equal protection.

Now you can buy Kotex with Patented Equalizer at less than you pay for the usual sanitary pad, at any drug, dry goods or department store.

Why no sanitary pad can be "just like the new Equalizer Kotex"

Yes, it looks simple, but this device took 2½ years to perfect. Imitations can be made, they will be made, but it cannot truthfully be said of any other pad that it is like the New Kotex with Patented Equalizer...and this is why:

1—it took two and one-half years to perfect.
2—a board of three hundred women tested it.
3—medical authority of high repute checked their findings.
4—★AND, the United States Government granted Patent No. 1,868,333 to protect it for use of Kotex, exclusively.

RED CROSS WORK IN GIVING WHEAT TO NEEDY TOLD

Chicago the Distribution Center for Grain.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Activities in Chicago in the last year, during which period this city became the wheat distribution center of the American Red Cross in its nation-wide program of providing wheat to the needy, were explained yesterday at the annual meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross in the Congress hotel. Reports given in a three hour program disclosed that at no time in its history has the Red Cross program been more flexible in meeting emergency conditions.

"No enterprise since the world war has produced a greater coöperative spirit than the distribution of federal commodities—flour and raw cotton—for the relief of suffering throughout the country," said Miss Margot Atkin, vice chairman of the volunteer service committee, who presented the annual report of the chapter. "Chicago has been the wheat distribution center the last year for the American Red Cross, the latter having expended more than $250,000 here in the task of converting government owned wheat into flour, cereal, and live stock feed.

Flour Milled in Chicago.

"Practically all cereal and flour distributed by the Chicago chapter through all family relief agencies accredited to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has been milled in Chicago with excellent coöperation given by local mills. Approximately 200,000 local families have been the beneficiaries of the distribution.

"The production and distribution of clothing secured from the chapter's share of government owned cotton has been a complex industry in itself. At present we are distributing 16,000 garments daily to 1,200 families in the care of the unemployed and field service divisions of the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare. Of 3,750,000 yards of cloth received, about 2,000,000 yards of material has been made into garments in the Chicago chapter by work relief measures, by the idle in their homes, settlement and neighborhood centers, and by nearly 10,000 volunteers in 800 organized groups.

"At present we are engaged in negotiations for trading an additional 1,250,000 yards of cloth for manufactured garments. Despite the generous assistance given us by the work relief committee and by the National Red Cross, we are meeting only about 35 per cent of the actual need for clothing relief."

William H. Matthews, director of the emergency work and relief bureau of the Gibson committee in New York City, who was the principal speaker, emphasized the necessity for relief in work with pay as well as in commodities.

Urges Jobs for Idle.

"We ought to change our relief program to fit the present situation rather than make 75 per cent of the people fit into a program for people who always have been coming to relief organizations.

"Distribution of the Red Cross wheat and cotton in New York was done by workers supplied largely by the Gibson committee. Many have been occupied in various kinds of rehabilitation, enabling them to earn enough to keep out of relief and manage their own lives."

James B. Forgan Jr., was reëlected chairman of the Chicago Red Cross board, Augustus A. Carpenter, vice chairman; Col. A. A. Sprague, treasurer, and Normal G. Stockdale, secretary and assistant treasurer. Mrs. Charles S. Dewey was elected to fill the vacancy on the board left by the death of Anton J. Cermak.

JEWISH DRIVE PAY'S TRIBUTE TO ROSENWALD

As a tribute to the man who was for many years the largest donor to the Jewish Charities of Chicago, today has been set aside as Julius Rosenwald day in the present campaign to raise $1,605,000 for the charities. The 2,000 volunteers workers will make a special effort today to attain their quotas. Alfred K. Stern, chairman of the drive who is carrying on the traditions of his father-in-law, the late Mr. Rosenwald, pointed out that of the $1,605,000, a total of $405,000 must be in new or additional subscriptions, apart from those of regular contributors. This extra amount is needed in order that 21 institutions supported by the charities may continue to serve 75,000 persons, he said.

HOLD UP LAUNDRY DRIVER.

Two bandits leaped on the running board of a truck operated by the Leader Laundry company, 3820 West Van Buren street, yesterday, forced the driver, Aaron Weiss, to the curb in front of 876 Townsend street, and robbed him of $25.

CHILDREN'S PLAY NETS $8.16 FOR HUNGRY PUPILS

When Lois Hainsfurther, 10 years old, wrote "The Twins Get Even with Ferdinand," like most first playwrights, she never thought the production would become a box office success. However, with the aid of her playmates who composed the cast, the show was a complete sellout and when the 5 and 7 cent ticket receipts were counted the youngsters had $8.16 to turn over to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday.

Those who took part in the play were Mary Frances Bradly, who played the part of Ferdinand; Jane Altman, Dolores; Lois Hainsfurther, Becky; Myra Davidson, who doubled as Teacher and Mrs. West; and Minna Sachs, Mrs. Moore. Flora Louise Altman, 15 years old, was stage manager. Popcorn and fudge were served. The play was presented in the recreation room of the apartment house at 5056 Woodlawn avenue, and the company reported that its only expense was a 15 cent tip to the janitor.

Only two other gifts were recived for the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday. A. Malkov and V. H. each sent $1. These brought the grand total to $23,358.60. Contributions should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

ORDER SLAYER HELD TO JURY.

Edwin Johnson, 38 years old, 1760 Larrabee street, was recommended held to the grand jury on a charge of murder yesterday at the inquest into the death of Anthony Jetsek, 37 years old, 1808 Larrabee street, who was slain April during an argument over a card game.

BEG YOUR PARDON

THE TRIBUNE yesterday stated that Rudolph Lapp and Yetta Barshefsky, who were suspended for their part in instigating student strikes and later reinstated, were students at Crane Technical High school. They are students at Crane Junior college.

YOUTHFUL AUTO THIEF SENTENCED ONE YEAR IN JAIL

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 88; recovered, 84; stripped, 11 [from police records for the twenty-four hours ending at midnight Tuesday].

Court cases: Anthony Petkur, Joe Huss, Emil Krcivoy and Robert Cohn, each sentenced to one year in the House of Correction by Judge John Gutknecht for auto larceny.

Paul W. Zulinas, 18 years old, of 6709 Archer avenue, was sentenced to serve one year in the House of Correction yesterday by Judge John Gutknecht in the Boys' court on a charge of stealing an automobile. The youth was arrested after a stolen car which he was driving collided with another automobile. Seized with him was Edward Yonaites, who was held to the grand jury for robbery. Two guns were found outside the car. Zulinas denied he was an auto thief.

SEIZE EX-SLEUTH FOR BOND THEFT FROM HIS SISTER

Raymond Goggin, 48 years old, a former hotel detective in Chicago, was arrested yesterday on charges of stealing $2,000 in negotiable bonds from the home of his sister, Mabel, in Milwaukee. He was seized in a near north side speakeasy. Goggin led Detectives Frank Freemuth and James Garvey to his room in the Clark hotel, 509 North Clark street, where the bonds were recovered. He will be returned to Milwaukee to await the action of his sister as to prosecution.

CHILD DYING OF BURNS.

Petersburg, Ind., April 12.—[Special.]—The 3 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, living on Vincennes avenue, was seriously burned last night when her clothing caught fire from paper which she and her 5 year old brother were lighting from a stove. WARNEKE STOPS CARDS; CUBS WIN OPENER, 3-0

SOX DEFEAT BROWNS, 4-2; SIMMONS KNOCKS HOMER

DURHAM AND HEVING ALLOW ONLY FOUR HITS

Hose Sparkle on Defense.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 12.—The White Sox of 1933 made an appropriate ceremony of opening the American league season today. They spanked the Browns, 4 to 2, before a customary St. Louis crowd of 4,500 and they did it in a way that augurs well for the future.

They did not waste many hits. They fielded sensationally, except in one spot, and enjoyed pitching that had the Brownies on the verge of helplessness.

First of all, Al Simmons lost no time in getting started on a fat batting average. The former Athletic slugger hit a home run that opened the day's scoring and later assisted in more scoring by singling. Ed Durham, acquired from Boston, stopped the Browns on four hits until a sore arm necessitated his withdrawal at the start of the eighth inning. Joe Heving acted nobly as a rescuer. And Red Kress, even though his error on a fly almost threw victory aside, redeemed himself by pounding in three runs.

Sox Really Go to Town.

Durham, in his quiet, leisurely way, was such a success as an opening day pitcher that the Browns did not get a man on base during the first three innings. Then they got themselves into scoring position twice, only to be halted by the slim southerner. And although they scored twice against him in the seventh innings, he might have finished if his arm had not gone lame just about the time of Kress' error. Heving didn't allow a hit in two innings.

Without taking anything away from Durham, it can be mentioned that the Sox infield functioned in nothing less than sensational style. Fonseca knocked down hard grounders so often it appeared as if he was deliberately trying to show up the critical experts. Appling at short, acted as if he didn't know one could err. And Simmons cut in for a bit of the glory by galloping back to the fence to pull down Rick Ferrell's hard drive.

Tomorrow's pitching schedule calls for Ted Lyons, the Sox ace, and Jack Knott, a Brownie who bounced back from the Milwaukee club.

Sox Are Full of Threats.

The Sox began as if they intended to cut short Hadley's working hours. Hayes opened by singling over short on the first ball pitched and Haas walked. This rally, however, subsided quickly. Fonseca tried to sacrifice, but forced Hayes at third. Mr. Simmons was greeted cordially by the few spectators and his response was a pop foul to Burns. Then Appling flied to Melillo. Hayes' single was one of two hits produced against Hadley in the first three innings. The other was a fluke double dropped into short left by Haas with two out in the third.

The third hit off Hadley, however, was different. This was the one Simmons boosted into the right center field pavilion, just beyond the end of the protecting screen, at the start of the fourth inning. Hadley disposed of the next three men without trouble. Durham endeavored to promote his own cause in the fifth inning by bunting safely with one out, but Hayes banged into a double play.

Walk Starts Production.

Haas coaxed a walk from Hadley at the start of the sixth inning and this little incident proved the first step in the production of two runs. Fonseca followed with a high powered line drive but West grabbed it. Simmons also was set down on a fly. Appling then singled to right and Levey, in trying to reach the throw-in, deflected the ball toward the Browns' dugout. This permitted Haas to go to third

PRESIDENT SEES SENATORS BEAT ATHLETICS, 4 TO 1

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
(Picture on back page.)
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—President Roosevelt dealt the baseball industry a hand of cards in the new deal today when he tooled out to Clark Griffith's Washington ballyard to attend the opening ceremonies, dragging quite a large passel of trade with him. A fête which ordinarily might not have played to more than 15,000 head was run off in the presence of about 24,000, the margin being due apparently to Mr. Roosevelt's personal draw.

He saw the home boys of his new home town win their contest with the Athletics 4 to 1 and received a shrill parting cheer as he seated himself in his car and saluted the people with a prize fighter's duke, both hands clasped above the hat and waggled vigorously, just after the final putout. The weather was windy and cool and the new head man sat through his duty wrapped up in a big coat.

Joe Cronin, playing his first game as manager of the Senators, led his team's attack with three singles in four times at bat. Al Crowder held the Athletics to six hits during the first seven innings and Alphonse Thomas allowed none at all after he took over the pitching assignment at the beginning of the eighth.

Weather Is Cool.

Connie Mack made a last minute shift in his lineup, sending Tony Freitas to the mound instead of Lefty Grove, putting Dib Williams on first base and Edward Cihocki, a rookie at shortstop.

The President and his party drove up outside the right field wall of the ballyard in an open car and paused while the chauffeur blew a mighty peal with his horn. The walls didn't exactly fall down in response to this blast, but suddenly a section opened away and the presidential automobile rolled through the gap and onto the greensward amid cheers from the 24,000 citizens assembled around and about.

The President's is a convenient way to go to the ball game, for the official barouche slid across the grass and delivered him square in front of his reserved box from which a little inclined platform, carpeted in green, ran a few feet down to the field. He waited in the car quite a long time while the U. S. Marine band played the national anthem, including several encores, then dismounted, following Mrs. Roosevelt up the aisle to the box.

What, No Score Card?

They say that Warren Harding, when he was President, used to keep a complete box score, including fouls over the roof, but when some one behind him handed a score card over Mr. Roosevelt's shoulder he first tried to ignore it, but presently accepted, as if to quiet a pest, and a few minutes later shoved it over to Mrs. Roosevelt. She, in turn, managed to ease it along to some one else, and

CARNEGIE TECH NAMES STEWART GRID CAPTAIN

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 12.—(AP)—Appointment of Colin M. [Red] Stewart of Lorain, O., as captain of the Carnegie Tech football squad for next fall, was announced tonight by the Carnegie athletic council.

Stewart, left end on the varsity for the last two seasons, succeeds George Kavel and Bill Semple, co-captains last year. The new leader, a junior, prepared for college at Lorain High school and at Kiski. He was captain of the freshman team his first year at Carnegie.

Schmeling Will Train for Baer at Patterson

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, will train for his bout with Max Baer at the Lake Swannanoa Country club, in Northern New Jersey, about 15 miles from Patterson, N. J., his manager, Joe Jacobs, said today.

Schmeling sailed from Germany today and will start training May 1. The club is part of the estate of the late John Ringling, circus magnate.

6TH CORPS AREA DEFEATS RIDING CLUB TRIO, 8½-4½

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The United States Army Sixth Corps Area team rode to victory over the Chicago Riding club, 8½ to 4½, in the first game of the national indoor polo tournament last night in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

It was a class A contest, each trio carrying a 15 goal handicap. In an exhibition game which opened the program, the 122d Field Artillery's class D team defeated Milwaukee, 9½ to 7.

The Army trio forced the Riding Club to the defensive from the outset, with Capt. Stub Davis doing the heavy work in the early stages. He scored twice in the first period, once in the second and again in the early part of the third. Then Capt. Wilkinson, who had been held in check for half of the game, began popping them in from all angles, making four consecutive goals, after which Maj. C. C. Smith rolled in the final tally for the visitors.

Capt. Corpening Leads Losers.

Meanwhile Capt. Max Corpening had been doing some agile riding and cool shooting for the Riding Club. He scored once in each of the first three periods, Prentice, Porter and Lieut. Larry Smith making one apiece in the final chukker.

The next tournament games will be played Saturday night, but the participants have not been named pending the outcome of contests in the east.

Soon after the opening whistle of last night's feature game Stub Davis took the Army into a one point lead with a spectacular near side backstroke scored as his mount was cantering away from the goal. Capt. Corpening then tallied for the Riding club from a melée in front of the posts, but only one-half point was realized inasmuch as he had committed a foul just before scoring.

Davis Puts Army Ahead.

Then Davis made another of his remarkable strokes—a near side, under-the-neck shot—to make the score 2½

Bush Opposes Hallahan Today; Park Bar Is Popular

BY ARCH WARD.

Wild Bill Hallahan of the Cardinals, who won 12 and lost 7 in 1932, will oppose the Cubs in the second game of the series at Wrigley field today. Guy Bush will work for the north siders. His last year's record was 19 victories and 11 defeats.

Two bars under the stands supplied fans with 3.2 per cent beer yesterday and the volume of business in beer alone far surpassed the soft drink sales under the stands on opening day last year, according to attendants. The bar on the third base side was crowded even while the game was in progress. No beer was sold in the grandstand.

Rogers Hornsby, who was in charge of the Cubs at the 1932 opening, was among the absentees yesterday. Hornsby, who is now a member of the Cardinals, incurred an injury to his heel in spring practice and will be out of the game for several days. He did not make the trip to Chicago.

Some one in the press stand remarked that the Cubs looked like a million dollars in their new uniforms. This, of course, was an exaggeration. A fellow can look like 30 cents these days and still be in the big dough.

The Cubs' toggery is much the same as last season except for new navy blue collars on their white shirts. The numbers on the backs have been changed from blue to red and are larger than the 1932 numerals.

There is a suspicion that Riggs Stephenson and Gabby Hartnett are on their last legs, but if this is true they must be centipedes. They were the liveliest batters of the day.

Lon Warneke, the league's leading pitcher last year, was as nervous in the first inning as a rookie stepping into a world series. He walked the first Cardinal batter on four straight balls, advanced him to second on a wild pitch and hit Watkins, the second Cardinal, on the leg.

Manager Charlie Grimm has retained No. 7 on his uniform. Charlie is superstitious that way. He always rides in lower 7 when the team is on the road. Woody English still wears No. 1.

Every time we looked up from the typewriter it seemed that Hartnett was on base. The groundskeeper started to take him to the club house with the bags and foul lines after the game.

Babe Herman was given a big hand the first time he stepped to the plate as a Cub regular. The cheering subsided when he grounded feebly to second base. He didn't knock the ball out of the infield all afternoon.

Jack Bramhall and his bandsmen were on the job for the 40th consecutive year. They still are playing some of the pieces that were popular in 1895.

Yesterday was the first opening day in 23 years that Lieut. John Benson was not in charge of the police detail. Until two years ago he made periodical trips with the team, including spring training. He is now acting captain at Town Hall station. Lieut. Joe McGuire was in charge yesterday.

Frank Demaree, who hit .250 last season, got the Cubs' first safe drive of the season at Wrigley field. It was a sharp single to right field. He scored the first run on Hartnett's single later in the inning.

Manager Grimm contributed the most brilliant play of the game. Collins, in the fourth inning, slammed a sizzler down the first base line that looked good for two bases. Grimm knocked it down with his bare hand, turned a somersault and tossed the ball to Warneke in time for the out.

A comely young woman attired in white dress and bonnet dispensed cigarettes to the box seat patrons. This is the first time the Cubs have had a girl vendor. Her high French heels gave her the appearance of walking on stilts.

Warneke was so effective in the early part of the game that no Cub outfielder made a putout until Herman caught Medwick's fly in the sixth inning.

ST. LOUIS HELD TO 4 SINGLES; 25,000 CHEER

Hartnett Helps Out with 3 Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A four hit shutout for a season opener. That was what Lon Warneke served up for some 25,000 Cub fans at Wrigley field yesterday afternoon. Cubs, 3; Cardinals, 0. That tells the story of as handsome an opening game as any fan ever saw in this baseball town.

All those four hits off Lon were singles and all came in the early stages of the game. The Cards didn't get anything that looked as if it might be a hit after the fourth inning.

Medwick got the Cards' first hit to start the second inning and forthwith was sunk in a double play launched by Warneke. Dean made the second hit with one out in the third inning, but was out trying to stretch it into a double. Adams made a single in the same inning, but he never got past second. And Orsatti wound up the St. Louis smacking with two out in the fourth.

Warneke Shows Best Form.

Aside from a bit of nervousness at the outset, Warneke never was in better form. There wasn't even an outfield putout until two were out in the sixth. On that occasion Medwick lifted a high one to Babe Herman, who gave one of his famed dancing numbers before seizing the ball.

Warneke not only pitched; he did some fielding and he did some hitting. He had two putouts and five assists and it was his single which drove in the Cubs' third run.

The day was a battery triumph, for foremost among the hitters was Gabby Hartnett, who launched his twelfth season as a Cub by knocking three singles in four times at bat. The first of these came with the bases full, drove in two runs, and put a runner on third, whence he was driven home by Warneke's aforementioned single.

Demaree Gets First Cub Hit.

It perhaps would be well to set down the detail of the Cubs' productive second inning right now.

Riggs Stephenson, who later contributed two of the Cubs' eleven hits, started off the second mildly with a grounder to Slade. Frank Demaree then drove the ball to right for a single—the first hit off Dean. Manager Charley Grimm slammed a single over second which put Demaree on third, and the bases were loaded when Jurges walked. At this point Hartnett registered the first of his trio of safeties, a hot shot to left center which sent home Demaree and Grimm, the latter after a brilliant uphill run. Jurges pulled up at third and came home on Warneke's line single to left. Bill Herman flied to Orsatti and English fanned.

Jurges, English Hit Doubles.

The first extra base hit of the Chicago season was rung up by Jurges to start the sixth, a line double to left. English led off the seventh with a double off the left field wall, but like Jurges, Woody never advanced beyond second.

The Cubs seemed in a fair way to top off the day with a run or more in the eighth, but their chance of so doing was thwarted when they were outguessed by the Cardinals. Grimm led off the inning with his second hit. Jurges was called out on strikes, but Hartnett, on the hit and run, placed a single in right which sent his boss to third. With Warneke at bat the sign was given for the squeeze play. The Cards, however, solved the strategy and Carleton pitched out to Warneke, giving him no chance to bunt. Under the requirements of the squeeze Grimm was running with the windup, of course, and when the high pitchout came, all Jimmy Wilson had to do was trot a few steps toward third and tag Grimm.

It wasn't such a gratifying day for the Hermans, for Bill and Babe were the only Chicago gents who could not hit. Bill got the ball out of the infield three times, but Babe had even less luck. In the first inning Babe was thrown out by Frisch; in the third he popped to Collins, in the fifth he again was thrown out by Frisch, and

NEW YORK RACING SEASON OPENS AT JAMAICA MAY 6

All Meetings Curtailed; No Saratoga Date Set.

New York, April 12.—(AP)—New York state's abbreviated racing season will open May 6 at Jamaica, according to the schedule of dates drawn up by representatives of the five racing associations today to be presented to the Jockey club for approval tomorrow.

The meeting at Jamaica, which has opened the metropolitan season the middle of April in past years, will run for twelve days, following which there will be short sessions at Belmont Park, Aqueduct, Empire City, Saratoga, and a fall meeting at Belmont. No action was taken on fall meetings at the other courses.

Ask for Extra Days.

In their application to the jockey club for sanction of the dates the associations are expected to ask for extra days as a matter of record. Whether they operate for the entire period will be optional, depending on the public's support, except at Belmont Park, where Joseph E. Widener announced there would be twelve days of racing to run off the scheduled stakes.

The heads of the associations also agreed to reduce the general admission to $2.50, plus the usual tax, and the clubhouse fee for men to $5 and for women $3.50.

Under the proposed schedule there will be a lapse of several days between meetings. If the public support warrants, however, the associations will be permitted to fill in the open dates.

Saratoga Not Included.

In the list of tentative dates Saratoga was not included, although George Bull, president of the Saratoga Racing association, was present at the meeting. The upstate track, however, is expected to run as usual in August, curtailing its meeting from thirty days to about twenty days.

The tentative schedule:

Jamaica—May 6-20 [12 days].
Belmont Park—May 27-June 10 [12 days, second Monday excluded].
Aqueduct—June 17-July 4 [15 days].
Empire City—July 8-July 29 [19 days].
Belmont Park—Sept. 4-16 [12 days].

Bright Bubble Wins Easily in LexingtonMud

Lexington, Ky., April 12.—[Special.]—Samuel Furst's Bright Bubble, making the second start of her career, captured the featured Ashland purse at the Association track today. Next Call, a Greentree stable racer, trailed by five lengths to finish in second place, while S. S. Combs' Nituma was third, three lengths back.

The Ashland was limited to 3 year old fillies and was over a distance of a mile and 20 yards. The winner, a daughter of Bubbling Over and Killanna, plowed through the mud in 1:48 2-5, carrying 107 pounds, three less than the other entrants because of her maiden allowance.

Little Connelly is Pulled Up.

Only six went to the post and after the first three Bettina H. and Flying Dere finished in that order. Little Connelly, the other starter, was pulled up on the backstretch after getting away slowly.

Jockey D. O. Hardy got Bright Bubble away well and drew out into an early lead. Flying Dere, a winner here on Monday, stayed well up in the first few furlongs but was unable to endure the pace in the going.

Victor At Home in Mud.

The winner appeared completely at home in the mud and drew out in the closing stages of the race, although running under restraint throughout. The field was widely separated at the finish, Next Call closing rapidly to hold the place safe.

Flying Dere had been made favorite. The winner paid $9.90 for $2 to win. Next Call was almost an 18 to 1 shot and returned $9.96 to place, while Nituma, the secondary favorite, paid $3.06 to show.

U. S. to Admit Chocolate for Battle with Watson

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, April 12.—Kid Chocolate, who was barred from the United States by immigration officials last January, today was granted permission to enter the United States, where he will resume boxing. Chocolate is recognized as featherweight champion in the state of New York. He will go to New York via Key West. One of the bouts on his schedule calls for the defense of his title against Seaman Tom Watson of England.

Macionis Wins Junior 220 Yard Swim Title

Newark, N. J., April 12.—(AP)—John Macionis, Philadelphia schoolboy, won the 220 yard junior National A. A. U. swimming championship tonight. Holder of the world interscholastic record for the event, Macionis swam the distance in 2 minutes 21 seconds, 2 4-5 seconds slower than his record.

Triumph Puts New Life in Toronto Six

TORONTO, Ont., April 12.—[Special.]—Inspired by their showing last night when they beat the New York Rangers in the third game of the Stanley cup play off, the Toronto Maple Leafs are a new team today.

Although they lost the services of Ace Bailey, forward, who was injured in a collision with Ching Johnson, the Leafs consider themselves definitely in the running for the trophy. Bailey sustained a torn ligament in his left knee when he crashed against Johnson and is definitely out of the series.

Three Rangers also show effects of last night's game. Bill Cook sustained an injury to his right instep, Johnson has a bruised shin and an injured rib, and Ott Heller has a wrenched arm. All are expected to play tomorrow night, however, when the series will be resumed.

Both teams went through light practice today. The Leafs are expected to start tomorrow's game with the same lineup which opened against the Rangers last night. Bill Thoms will play center with Harvey Jackson and Charley Conacher, wings, and King Clancy and Happy Day at defense. Lorne Chabot will be in the nets.

Frank Boucher will play center for New York, with Bill Cook and Bun Cook flanking him. The defense will be Johnson and Earl Seibert, and Andy Aitkenhead will guard the goal.

HERTZ PREDICTS BEST ARLINGTON RACE MEETING

The best racing season in the history of the Arlington Park track was predicted yesterday by John Hertz, chairman of the executive committee of the Arlington Park Jockey club, in discussing plans for the 1933 activities at the course. Mr. Hertz has just returned from his winter home in Florida and today will go to his Leona stock farm at Cary to inspect his breeding stock, yearlings, and the foals which have arrived this spring.

Arlington's purse distribution this year will continue to be the largest in the country, he said, although details for the fixed racing events have not yet been completed.

Mr. Hertz, though regretting the defeat of the New York race betting bill, which would have provided financial relief for the New York tracks, said he expected Arlington to benefit by the increased number of good horses which would be available for racing in the middle west.

"I look for it to send the good eastern stables to Arlington for our meeting and to make our racing the greatest ever seen in the west from a horseman's viewpoint," he said.

The Arlington meeting will open June 26.

SAVOLDI SIGNS WITH CANADIAN MAT PROMOTER

Joe Savoldi, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship since his disputed victory over Jim Londos at the Chicago Stadium last Friday night, has signed a three year contract with Joe Corcoran, promoter for the Queensbury Sports club of Toronto, Canada, it was announced yesterday.

Referee Bob Manogoff, who gave the decision to Savoldi in the Londos match, which resulted in the indefinite suspension of wrestling in the state of Illinois, indicated he would officiate in many of Savoldi's Canadian matches.

MOLINE OUT OF VALLEY LEAGUE; SHORT OF FUNDS

Moline, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—For the first time in 18 years, Moline will be without organized baseball this spring, having decided to drop out of the Mississippi Valley league because of financial uncertainty. The club was not represented at the recent reorganization meeting in Keokuk, Ia.

Moline took over the Danville franchise in the Three Eye league in 1915 and stayed in that circuit until 1924, when it was admitted to the Valley. The Plows won pennants in 1915, under George Hughes, and in 1921, under Connie Mack's son, Earl.

WINS TITLE

CLAUDIA ECKERT.

Horn Breaks A. A. U. Mark in Backstroke

Don Horn, representing Northwestern university, broke the senior men's 220 yard backstroke record by four-fifths of a second in the annual Central A. A. U. swimming and diving championships at the Medinah Michigan avenue club, last night. Horn covered the distance in 2:54 to beat Max Briedenthal of the Lake Shore Athletic club. Gordon Cornelius was third.

Miss Claudia Eckert, 16 year old swimming and diving star from the Shawnee Country club, won the senior women's 100 yard free style event over Marlys Lapin, I. W. A. C., when she swam the distance in 1:06.4. Miss Eckert recently won the Central A. A. U. high board diving title in a meet at the Illinois Women's Athletic club. Miss Eckert also has won the 100 yard free style event in her class in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE swimming meets for the last three years. Summaries:

220 YARD FREE STYLE, MEN'S JUNIOR—Won by Jack Kasley [unattached]; Joe Lima [J. P. I.], second; Carl Nelson [Lawson Y.], third. Time—2:30.6.

100 YARD FREE STYLE, WOMEN'S SENIOR—Won by Claudia Eckert [Shawnee Country club]; Marlys Lapin [I. W. A. C.], second; Emma Shemaitis [I. W. A. C.], third. Time—1:06.4.

to ½. That was the way things stood at the end of the first chukker.

Soon after the start of the second period Corpening dribbled the ball from the sideline to a position directly in front of the goal, struggling with Wilkinson for possesion. The Riding club player finally caught it squarely on his mallet and pushed it over to make the score 2 to 1½. A foul on Davis then cost the Army team one-half a point, making things even. Just before the end of the period Davis counted again.

As the third chukker began Davis continued the attack, scoring on a near side backstroke at a sharp angle. Then Capt. Wilkinson went on the rampage, opening up with a crisp under-the-neck shot for his first goal. He scored twice again in quick succession to give his team a 6½ to 2½ lead at the end of the chukker, Corpening having tallied in the meantime for the Riding club.

Wilkinson Scores Again.

Then came some hard riding and accurate hitting by both sides. Wilkinson followed up a long backstroke by Maj. Smith and came even with the ball as it was about 20 yards from the goal. He swung his mallet crisply and slammed the sphere home.

Porter scored again for the Riding club, but Maj. Smith made up for it by counting for the Army. Lieut. Larry Smith slapped one in to conclude the action shortly before the final bell.

LADYSMAN MAY RACE SATURDAY AT BALTIMORE

Baltimore, Md., April 12.—(AP)—Ladysman, a winter book favorite to capture the Kentucky Derby, probably will be raced Saturday at the opening of the Havre de Grace track.

The William R. Coe entry, which last year was juvenile champion with earnings of $111,435, has recovered completely from the knee ailment that caused its retirement in the fall.

Trainer John H. [Buddy] Stotler, who has had charge of the stalwart son of Pompey and Lady Belle while wintering at Sagamore farm near Baltimore, said today the colt is now in shape to do its best.

PURVIS BATTLES PHAGAN IN CICERO RING TOMORROW

Indianapolis Welter Will Make Chicago Debut.

Jackie Purvis, Indianapolis welterweight, will make his Chicago debut in an eight round bout against Johnny Phagan of the west side tomorrow at the Cicero stadium. Purvis has a better record than Phagan, who has won eight of his ten professional contests. On Jan. 28, 1930, the Indianapolis fighter was awarded a ten round decision over Billy Petrolle at Indianapolis. He has held Jackie Brady to a draw. He has fought Sammy [Kid] Slaughter, Gorilla Jones and Joe Glick, all middleweights.

Six bouts will be presented at the Johnny Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street, tonight. Mennen Kumis is to face Roosevelt Haines in a five round match. Other bouts are Jack Robinson vs. James Jenkins, Jack O'Brien vs. Wilfred Hoenselaar, Johnny Reba vs. Joe Gora, Ted Carney vs. Clarence Ballard and Tom Moon vs. John Spar.

Nick Scalba, Chicago featherweight, will seek his ninth straight victory in a six rounder against Joey Palazzola of Detroit at the Chicago Stadium on April 21. Scalba defeated Tommy Barredo of Cuba in six rounds at New York recently for his eighth victory in as many starts.

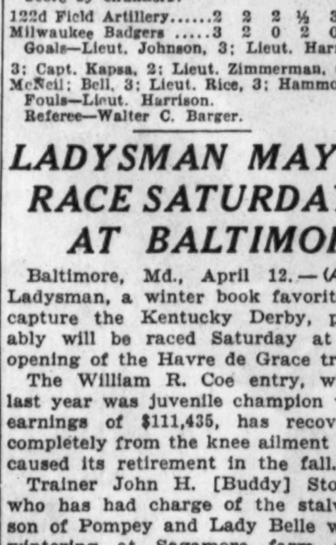
Two matches last night were added to the card scheduled at White City Monday. Roy Moore signed to meet Laddie Tonelli in a six round contest and Izzy Lubansky and Whitey Ross will clash in a four rounder. Other encounters will bring together Vincent Sereci and Mickey O'Shea, Jack Moran and Eddie Gill, and Sammy Levine and Jackie Schweitzer.

Ray Tramblie, Rockford, Ill., middleweight, will be idle for two weeks due to a cut over his right eye sustained while knocking out Bill Thomas at Louisville, Ky., last Monday . . . Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, is matched with Abe Israel at Seattle, Wash, in a six round non title bout next Tuesday . . . Larry Johnson, south side heavyweight, has started drills for a contest against Charles Belanger at Flint, Mich., Monday.

Eddie Shea, south side featherweight, yesterday challenged Kid Irish's Illinois title claim . . . Tommy Grogan and Battling Shaw are slated to meet at New Orleans, La., Monday . . . Jackie Sherman, Detroit welterweight, is in the city . . . The Jackie Sharkey-Wayne Short match booked for St. Paul Monday has been postponed to April 21 . . . King Levinsky weighed 207 pounds after a workout yesterday for a 10 round contest with Charlie Retzlaff at the Stadium on May 4.

CLIFF HEATHCOTE GIVEN RELEASE BY PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., April 12.—(AP)—The Phillies of the National Baseball league tonight announced the unconditional release of Cliff Heathcote, veteran outfielder.



CLIFF HEATHCOTE.

Heathcote came to the Phillies last season and for a time acted as understudy to First Baseman Don Hurst, in addition to being on call for duty in the outfield.

In 1919 he was with the St. Louis Cardinals and played as a regular for that club until 1922, when he was traded to the Chicago Cubs. He remained with the Cubs until 1930, when he was sold to the Reds.

Fields and Jackson Sign for 10 Round Bout May 2

Los Angeles, Cal., April 12.—(AP)—Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, and Peter Jackson, Wilmington, Cal., Negro, signed articles today for a 10 round bout to be held here May 2. They will weigh in at 147 pounds.

Bloodroot Has Own Bodyguard in Early Spring

BY BOB BECKER.

Nature this month gives Chicagoland outdoor fans an opportunity to see a beautiful wild flower which has a bodyguard. This flower is the bloodroot, one of the most delicate early spring wild flowers to be seen in the central states. The charm of this exquisite blossom is found not only in the spotless white of its petals but also in the fact that it is such a fragile symbol of a new season.

The outdoor fan who can get into the woods early enough to see the bloodroot pushing its way upward through the leaves will notice the flower has a sturdy protector. The plant first sends up a curled leaf. This leaf carries inside of its folds the young, erect flower bud. This bud grows slowly, carefully shielded by the firm leaf just as if the latter were standing guard, watching to see that the bud will reach maturity in safety.

Once the flower bud reaches what the plant considers a safe height and all dangers [except that of flower pickers] have been passed, the lobed leaf unfolds and above it we find the fragile blossom of the bloodroot.

This careful guarding of a blossom which is with us just a short time is one of the most interesting features on the April calendar while spring days are getting warmer. There is only one fault to find with the beautiful bloodroot blossoms. They last only a short time in the outdoors. If you do not watch carefully the bloodroots will send out their white blossoms, exist for a day or two only to be destroyed by a severe spring storm, so delicate and fragile are the petals of the corolla. The bloodroot is well named. A red liquid oozes from its stem.

The bloodroot is a spring flower which should be enjoyed as it is found rather than plucked to take home. It is far from a hardy blossom and will not bear ruthless or rough handling in a long trip to a vase of water.

CHICAGOANS TO MEET EASTERN PING-PONG TEAM

An intercity ping-pong match has been scheduled between the ping-pong sextet of the Interfraternity club of Chicago and the Westchester Ping-Pong club of New York. A series of singles and doubles matches will be played in New York on April 22.

Both clubs are represented by experts of national prominence. The eastern team will include James M. Jacobson, the present national champion, W. C. Wells Jr., captain, Herbert Allen, George Bacon, Donald Conner, and the veteran, C. G. Schaad.

The Interfraternity club will be represented by Coleman Clark, captain, who captured the national title last year, D. W. McEwan, J. R. Leininger, Robert E. Clark, D. A. Kittermaster, and George Littell.

Coleman and Robert Clark will leave for Boston today for the annual meeting of the rules and ranking committees of the American Ping-Pong association.

PLAY FOR TITLE.

Sherwin-Williams and Acme Steel will play at the 111th Street Y. M. C. A. next Monday for the championship of the Open Industrial Basketball league.

HOUSE DEFEATS STATE AMATEUR BOXING CONTROL

Bill Gets So Few Votes It Is Withdrawn.

Stop Show

THE first act of coöperation between the new Illinois athletic commission and the Central A. A. U. was accomplished yesterday. The A. A. U. informed Chairman Joe Triner of the commission that a boxing show was scheduled to be held at Galesburg, Ill., last night without a sanction, and Mr. Triner ordered the sheriff there to stop it.

Springfield, Ill., April 12.—[Special.]—An effort to place amateur boxers under the jurisdiction of the state athletic commission was swamped today in the Illinois house of representatives.

A bill containing this provision was so badly beaten that it was withdrawn from consideration when the roll call was nearly concluded and it had received only about 50 votes, or less than two-thirds of the 77 required for passage.

Senate Also Opposed.

In view of the heated protests against the bill there is considerable doubt that it will be heard of again in the house, but if it should slip through the lower chamber there is strong opposition to it in the senate, through which it must also be passed.

The bill, which was introduced by Representative John M. Bolton of the west side Chicago district, was strongly pressed by Packey McFarland of Joliet, a recently appointed member of the athletic commission. McFarland was lobbying actively for the bill today, even invading the floor in violation of the rules. McFarland denied that the commission was supporting the bill, explaining that he personally was putting on the pressure.

Among those who spoke emphatically against the measure were Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford] and Majority Leader Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island.

15 Round Bill to Horner.

The bill to legalize 15 round nonchampionship bouts in the state was presented to Gov. Horner for his approval. If Gov. Horner signs the bill it will become a law at once. The measure was sponsored by Senator Richey V. Graham of Cicero.

MOON MULLINS—A SOCK ON THE FOOT'S WORTH TWO IN THE EYE

Roosevelt Starts Senators' New Deal; They Beat A's, 4-1

they settled down to observe the contest entirely by ear, as it were.

Observes Old Ceremony.

The official first ball throwing out was clowned up somewhat when Alexander Throttlebottom Garner, the Vice President, who hasn't seen his picture in print since coronation day, moved into the scene and stood a few steps in front of Mr. Roosevelt, waving his hands as though to intercept the toss.

"What's goin' on here? What's goin' on?" Mr. Garner demanded jovially, and the President, with a remark to the photographers that their lives were in danger standing in the line of his high swift to photograph the same head on, fetched it a flip to Nick Altrock. And just then Johnny Kerr, a forgotten man who escaped from the White Sox by the underground railway, fleeing the frying pan for the fire, hopped in front of old Nick and stole the honor of fielding the presidential throw.

There was a chunky party in a dark overcoat and iron hat sitting on the President's right and in the next seat away there loomed the tall, wide physique of Mr. Jim Farley, the postmaster general, who used to play a pretty fair armful of first base for the Haverstraw, N. Y., Excelsiors, a uniformed club which didn't play many games because the boys refused to play teams which didn't have regular baseball suits. They found few social equals in the neighboring towns of Nyack, Sparkhill and West Point and won the uniformed championship of three townships almost by default on this account.

Farley Wears Iron Hat.

Mr. Farley wore an iron hat, too, concealing the familiar gleam of his nude scalp which had become part of the scene at the ringside in Madison Square Garden over the course of a thousand and one nights among the cauliflowers. His iron hat bobbed and hopped upon his noble brow in unison with the beat of his jaws as he sat there crunching his wad of chewing gum, the postmaster general's only vice.

Mr. Farley was four rows to the rear of Mr. Roosevelt in the original seating arrangement, but a couple of innings' time found him right up there with his man. He didn't spend all those years among the fight managers for nothing, and history has shown repeatedly that if a manager brings a man along to the championship it is just as well to hang pretty close to him, just in case. Jack Kearns neglected this in the case of Jack Dempsey and lost him. Uncle Will Gibson had a similar misfortune with Gene Tunney.

Moe Berg Is Present.

There was a vaguely familiar figure in a Washington uniform serving as warmup catcher between innings who turned out to be himself Moe Berg, the noted philologist and linguist, who has studied in so many universities in so many lands that he has wound up speaking pidgin English. Mr. Berg is another who escaped from the White Sox. And who showed up in back of first base for the Athletics, yowling and mooing at the base runners, but old Lena Blackburne, who signed to serve as manager for the White Sox that year but found himself working as sparring partner for Art Shires instead.

The patrons hopped up full of commotion when Fred Schulte hit a long triple down the left foul line in the fourth inning, if not the longest hit ever seen on these grounds then, any way, the longest seen here this year up to that time. He scored on an unexpected single by Oswald Bluege. There was a sort of lake in center field, reminiscent of the days when Tris Speaker, afflicted with ailing dogs, used to swamp the ground with a garden hose in the mornings so that fly balls would plop dead for him and he could stand there cooling his feet in the ooze.

They were selling none of that wicked decimal brew in the Washington ballyard because, for one thing, old Clark Griffith, the local proprietor, looked upon his last beer many years ago and decided that there was nothing but grief and repining in the ale-crock, and, for another, the ballyard lies just within a surveyor's mile of an old refuge for veterans of the civil war.

Indians Get 3 in 13th; Beat Tigers, 4 to 1

Detroit, Mich., April 12.—[Special.] The Cleveland Indians put together three singles, a walk and an outfield error to score three runs in the 13th inning and whip the Tigers, 4 to 1, in the opening game of the season at Navin field today.

Only 19,000, the smallest opening day crowd in years, saw the battle, which was decided in perfect weather. Tommy Bridges had yielded the Indians only four hits until the rally in the 13th.

Manager Stanley Harris announced that Gerald Walker, left fielder who led the Tigers in hitting last season, will be benched and tomorrow Jo-Jo White will take his place.

Although it was Walker who dropped a fly in the 13th inning of the game with Cleveland and let in the winning runs, Manager Harris insisted that Walker's hitting slump caused his decision.

Ailing Hornsby Sees White Sox Conquer Browns

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 12.—Rogers Hornsby, now a member of the St. Louis Cardinals, but out of action because of a strained Achilles tendon, watched the White Sox and Browns open the season today. Hornsby is working out daily at the Sportsmen's park and expects to be in the lineup when the Cards make their 1933 home debut next week. He is confident he'll be able to play a good portion of games at second base.

Bill Killefer, the Browns' manager, who suffered a broken leg in an auto smashup, still is nursing his injury. Part of his baseball attire is an old pair of brown golf shoes. He wears these while coaching at third base.

The president of the St. Louis aldermen's board threw the first ball and it was another political wild pitch. The act was part of the opening ceremony. A brass band and quantities of bunting also prevailed.

The box score offers proof of Fonseca's industry around first base. He had 15 putouts and one assist. On three occasions he smothered whistling grounders close to the bag.

The arm ailment that forced Durham out of the game after he had passed West to start the eighth is not thought to be serious. The arm was a bit lame after his work against the Cubs last Sunday and the pain today probably was caused by bearing down too hard.

Durham and Sox Defeat Browns, 4-2 and Appling to second. Kress promptly stepped into the party with a single over third, Haas and Appling scoring.

The first man to puncture Durham's defense was Scharein, who singled to open the fourth inning. West flied out and Durham multiplied his troubles by plunking Reynolds on the arm with a pitched ball. A pair of fly balls eliminated this menace.

The difficulties into which Durham was tossed through no fault of his own and out of which the Browns extracted two runs in the seventh, began with Kress' two base error on Melillo's easy fly. Evidence that something had gone wrong with Durham's arm appeared immediately. He threw three straight balls to Levey. Then he managed to lob over two strikes, but when he threw another one into the groove, Levey cracked it to left center for a triple, Melillo scoring. Levey scored on Ferrell's grounder to Hayes. Carms, a pinch hitter, then walked, but Dykes picked up Scharein's bounder and started a double play. After walking the first batter in the eighth inning, Durham was withdrawn.

The Sox undoubtedly were a bit uncomfortable with nothing more than a one run lead, so they added one in the ninth. Simmons led off with a slow bounding dribbler that Gray couldn't pick up in time. Appling was thrown out on a drive that bounced off Gray's leg, but it served to advance Simmons to second whence he scored when Kress singled through short.

Lon Warneke Stops Cards; Cubs Win, 3-0

in the seventh he was called out on strikes.

The pitching was so good on both sides there was little necessity for exciting fielding plays. But Manager Grimm saw to it that the fans who go for defensive brilliance got one wallop out of the afternoon. To start the fourth Jimmy Collins shot a blistering liner which seemed labelled for at least two bases. Charley knocked it down with his bare hand, lost sight of the ball for an instant, but finally located it in foul territory. He tossed from an acrobatic position and Warneke was there to get the ball for an eyelash putout.

Other fielding plays that were pleasing, though scarcely spectacular, resulted in Cub double plays in the first and second innings. And the throw which Demaree made in the fourth to squelch Dean's two base hit aspirations was worthy of note.

Only Three Cubs Fan.

Dean, who led both leagues in strikeouts last year with 191, didn't do much toward getting his 1933 tabulation under way. He accomplished only three. He got Capt. English twice and Babe Herman once.

Guy Bush, scheduled to pitch today's game, was one of the first to congratulate Warneke. He said he was glad Lon had made it a shutout "to give me something to shoot at." Bush, because of a personal feud or two, likes to beat the Cards as well as any team in the league. In Bill Hallahan the Cards have a fellow who may make Bush's chore a tough one, however.

300 ENTERED IN PING-PONG MEET; OPENS SATURDAY

Preliminary matches in the first annual American ping-pong gymkhana will be held Saturday at the Medinah-Michigan Avenue club. No play will be held on Sunday. The tournament, however, continues until Wednesday night. More than 300 have entered.

The gymkhana will include five handicap tournaments, men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles. A system of handicapping has been arranged by the Stay and Play club, sponsors of the tournament.

There also will be competition in the mixed triples, which will be played on two tables. Tournaments for men more than 40 years of age and play in a junior division also will be held.

100,000 Watch Opening Games in Big Leagues

Nearly 100,000 fans in five cities yesterday welcomed the opening of the major league baseball season. Three games in the east were rained out.

Club owners hailed the aggregate attendance, 97,805, as a sign that business at the box office would be as good or better than that of last year, when 117,000 came out to six opening day games.

The showing was especially encouraging in view of the fact that the New York Yankees, who were expected to draw at least 40,000 to their game with the Boston Red Sox, were kept idle by rain and snow.

First day attendance honors went to Cincinnati, where 25,305 marched through the turnstiles. The Chicago Cubs were only a shade behind, for 25,000 checked in at Wrigley field.

President Roosevelt was among the 24,000 who saw the Athletics and Senators clash at Washington. The Indians and Tigers attracted 19,000 at Detroit. The Chicago White Sox and Browns played before only 4,500 at St. Louis.

Favorable weather was predicted today for the belated openings in New York, in Philadelphia, where the Phillies and Dodgers will play, and in Boston, where the Braves and Giants are scheduled.

The attendance at opening day games this year and last year:

SCHAAP, COLLINS REMAIN IN TIE FOR CUE TITLE

Percy Collins of Oak Park, national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard champion, and Arie Schaap of Chicago, remained tied for first place in the western amateur 18.2 balkline tournament after last night's games at the Lake-Marion recreation in Oak Park.

Collins defeated Noble Larson of Villa Park, 250 to 188, in 24 innings, and Schaap beat Gordon Green of Beloit, Wis., 250 to 115, in 23 innings.

Title Bout Set 3 Weeks After Dempsey Show

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Several months of jockeying for position in the early summer heavyweight Derby came to an end today as Madison Square Garden selected June 29 for Jack Sharkey's championship bout against Primo Carnera. This created one of the most unusual situations in modern ring history.

That date is exactly 21 days after Jack Dempsey proposes to pit Max Baer against Max Schmeling, former champion, in the Yankee stadium, and marks the first time in years two rival promoters have warred to the extent of scheduling two major heavyweight shows within so short a space of time.

PIRATES HAMMER SI JOHNSON AND BEAT REDS, 4 TO 1

Pittsburgh Makes 9 Hits in Opening Game.

Cincinnati, O., April 12.—[Special.]—The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 1, in the opening game of the season here today. The Pirates hammered Si Johnson in the early innings, making a total of eight hits off him and one off Benton, who went to the mound in the ninth. Suhr made two doubles and Paul Waner a triple. A crowd of 25,305 saw the game.

LOTT GOES TO QUARTER-FINALS AT PINEHURST

Pinehurst, N. C., April 12.—[Special.]—George M. Lott Jr. of Chicago scored three victories today to reach the quarter-final round of play for the North and South men's singles tennis championship. Lott, who drew a bye in the first round, won from Alvin Mann, New Orleans, 6-1, 6-1; Barney Welsh, Drake university, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4, and Walter Levitan, North Carolina, 6-4, 9-7.

Other players who won their fourth round matches were Clifford Sutter, New Orleans; Gregory Mangin, and Marcel Rainville, former member of Canada's Davis cup team. Sutter defeated Elmer Griffin, 6-0, 9-7; Mangin triumphed over G. C. Shafer, 6-3, 8-10, 6-0, and Rainville scored a 6-3, 6-4 victory over Charles Harris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 12.—Lower prices ruled in the market for United States government securities today and the domestic corporation list pursued an erratic, narrow course.

A drop of about ¼ point occurred in the Liberty fourth 4¼ issue and corresponding losses were recorded by other members of the government section, including both long and short term issues.

Easiness in the federal bond market was occasioned by the approach of April 15, first call date for the high coupon Liberty fourth 4¼s.

Refunding Plans Awaited.

Traders were aware of the possibility that the treasury will take some step toward refunding the issue, perhaps by calling only one or two of the lettered series. This, it is recognized, would increase the supply of long term bonds in the market.

While the treasury's fiscal policies also have a bearing on the corporation bond market, easiness in this part of the list was more justly attributed to continued uncertainty over the business situation and market restrictions.

Prime utility bonds were lower in some instances, losses including New York Steam 5s, Philadelphia company 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, American Telephone debenture 5s, and others.

Speculative Bonds in Check.

Held back by the lower trend of stock prices, speculative bonds could not extend yesterday's gains, save in a few instances, including Atlantic Coast line first 4s, Baltimore and Ohio first 4s, Chicago and North Western 5s, and others.

Continued political and economic tension worked against German bonds, now the center of attention in the foreign market. Losses of about 2 points each occurred in the government 5½s and 7s, and there were similar recessions in German General Electric 6s, Berlin municipal issues.

Baldwin Locomotive Works.

I am interested in stock of Baldwin Locomotive. Any information you might furnish me will be greatly appreciated.—Mrs. H. I. K.

Baldwin Locomotive Works is one of the two principal manufacturers of locomotives. Locomotive products accounted for about 28 per cent of total business in 1932, against 62 per cent in 1930. The decline was due partly to diversification of output begun in 1928, but primarily to virtual standstill in the locomotive business. This was largely the result of decreased purchasing power of railroads and sharp reduction of their traffic.

In the first two months of 1933 bookings totaled $995,000, against $1,543,000 for the corresponding 1932 period. Unfilled orders on Feb. 28, 1933, totaled $2,405,000, against $2,665,000 on Dec. 31, 1932, $8,390,000 on Dec. 31, 1931, $8,831,000 at the close of 1930, and $31,340,000 on Dec. 31, 1929.

Bookings in 1932 were $7,033,000 and sales were $10,597,000. Loss was $4,078,000. Bookings in 1931 totaled $22,610,000 and sales were $20,436,000. Net loss was $4,123,000. Net income for 1930 was $3,037,000, against $2,300,000 for 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1932, current assets were $16,631,000 and current liabilities were $1,237,000. Cash assets were about $9,500,000. Working capital was $15,394,000, against $18,113,000 the year before.

On March 1, 1933, $12,000,000 of notes matured. The company was unable to refinance them and offered holders new five year 6 per cent mortgage bonds in exchange.

Other funded debt totals $10,000,000. There are outstanding 200,000 shares of $100 par 7 per cent preferred and 843,000 shares of no par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since July 1, 1931.

The immediate future of the company depends on the ability to refinance the matured notes.

Railroads have many problems to solve before they can make a strong entrance into the locomotive buying field. One reassuring factor is that about half the locomotives in the United States are close to 20 years old. Results in other lines are closely dependent on general business activity.

St. George Hotel.

Will the $85,000 serial maturity of St. George Hotel of Brooklyn, N. Y., be paid off on May 1, 1933?—C. R.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. informed us that definite information concerning May 1, 1933, payment will not be available until May 1. We were informed that the property was covering interest charges, but was not earning sufficient to pay both principal and interest. Payment of May 1, 1933, maturities appears to depend on obtaining financial assistance from affiliated interests.

WILKERSON SAYS RECEIVERS MUST BE INDEPENDENT

U. S. Judge Tells Policy in Studebaker Case.

A. G. Bean, president of the White company of Cleveland, and Harold S. Vance and Paul G. Hoffman, vice presidents of the Studebaker corporation, yesterday were appointed as permanent ancillary receivers in equity for the Studebaker corporation and its subsidiary, the Rockne Motors corporation, by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

These men were appointed to take care of approximately $300,000 of funds of the corporation which are on deposit in Chicago banks. They were appointed primary receivers for the two corporations by Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick at South Bend, Ind., where the original proceedings were instituted several weeks ago.

Lays Down Principles.

In appointing the trio Judge Wilkerson issued an accompanying memorandum in which he laid down principles for guidance in connection with the appointment of equity receivers who are also company officials or are interested parties.

"The court will enter an order in this case appointing as ancillary receivers those who were named in the primary jurisdiction," the memorandum stated. "This is done in order that there may be no confusion in the administration of this estate.

"In making this order as to ancillary receivers the court is not to be understood as modifying the rules which the court thinks should be applied in cases in which this court has the primary jurisdiction.

Wants Independent Receivers.

"In all cases the following rules should be observed: If one receiver is appointed such receiver shall be a person who has no interest, direct or indirect, either as owner, officer, director, stockholder, trustee, officer, or agent of trustee, creditor, or otherwise in the property in receivership. Such a person should be some one who has not been nominated or suggested by any one who has such an interest. If two receivers are appointed at least one of them must have the qualifications above specified. If more than two receivers are named the majority must have the above mentioned qualifications."

GREYHOUND CORP. SHOWS LOSS OF $140,080 IN 1932

The Greyhound corporation yesterday reported a net loss of $140,080 for 1932, including the undistributed losses and profits of affiliated companies accruing to the parent firm. This compares with net income of $575,796 in 1931 on the same basis.

C. E. Wickman, president, in his letter pointed out that the consolidated net loss of the company and subsidiaries was only $10,720, against $355,524 in the preceding year. A more complete picture of the earnings, however, is given by including the affiliates, he pointed out. The company consolidates and describes as subsidiaries only those operating companies in which it owns 75 per cent or more of the voting stock.

Mr. Wickman said that the company plans to write down its capital. The capital surplus arising will be used to write down the investments, which are now carried at cost.

NEW DIRECTORS NAMED TO BOARD OF N. Y. CENTRAL

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Several changes in the directorates of the New York Central railroad and subsidiary lines were announced today.

Edward B. Greene, chairman of the executive committee of the Cleveland Trust company, was named a director of the Central board to succeed W. N. King, resigned. Robert F. Loree, a vice president of the Guaranty Trust company, was elected to the boards of the West Shore and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis roads to succeed the late W. S. Hayden. Loree, a son of L. F. Loree, whose Delaware and Hudson system is now a 10 per cent owner of New York Central capital stock, was elected to the Central board some time ago.

John R. Kinghan was elected a director of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, succeeding Col. W. Cooper Procter, resigned.

E. C. Craig Elected Counsel of Illinois Central Road

Edward C. Craig has been elected general counsel of the Illinois Central system, succeeding R. V. Fletcher, who recently resigned to become general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, according to an announcement made yesterday by L. A. Downs, president of the road. Mr. Craig appointed Vernon C. Foster as his successor to the post of general solicitor. Mr. Craig became associated with the Illinois Central as local attorney at Mattoon, Ill., in 1931. Mr. Foster has been with the road 35 years.

Edwin L. Brashears Made Manager of Drake Hotel

Arrangements were made yesterday for the management of the Drake hotel when Charles K. Williamson, receiver, and Nathaniel Rubinkam, representing the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, entered into a contract for operation of the hotel with Edwin L. Brashears.

Bendix Aviation Reduces Directorate from 16 to 11

Stockholders of the Bendix Aviation corporation at their annual meeting yesterday cut the board from 16 to 11 members. W. V. Kliesrath, president of the Bragg-Kliesrath corporation, a subsidiary, is the only new member added to the list of directors.

Weekly Food Price Index Highest Since Mid-January

The Dun and Bradstreet weekly food index this week reached the highest level since mid-January. The figure for April 11 was $1.62, against $1.58 in the previous week. A year ago the index was $1.72.

LACKAWANNA REPORT SHOWS LOSS EXPECTED ON RAIL CREDIT LOANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 12. — Substantial losses on funds advanced to the Railroad Credit corporation for loans to needy carriers are anticipated by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, the pamphlet report of the Lackawanna indicated today.

The railroad deducted from corporate surplus in its December balance sheet $417,048 for "appropriated surplus not specifically invested."

In a footnote this is explained as a "reserve for possible losses, Railway Credit corporation."

Substantially all this write-off, it was indicated, was for possible losses on the funds turned over to the Railroad Credit corporation, although the exact appropriation from surplus for other purposes was not disclosed.

The Lackawanna's contribution to the loan fund, consisting of receipts from the freight surcharges placed in effect Jan. 4, 1932, was $985,768 last year. A possible write-off of about 40 per cent could be provided by the charge to surplus.

The railroad borrowed $1,000,000 from the Railroad Credit corporation last year, slightly more than offsetting its contribution for that period, but in the dissolution of the R. C. C. it will not be entitled to charge off its loans against the advances it made.

ROADS RE-ELECT CHICAGOANS TO DIRECTORSHIPS

Hudson, Wis., April 12.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway elected directors at the annual meeting here today.

Elected for three year terms were Harold S. Vanderbilt, New York; Edson Woodworth, Minneapolis; Fred W. Sargent, Chicago; Henry C. McEldowney, Pittsburgh, and Marshall Field, Chicago. Samuel H. Cady of Chicago was named for a one year term.

The Omaha charter provides that the annual meeting be held in Hudson, which was prominent in the railroad's early development.

The selections were reëlections except for Mr. Cady, who fills the vacancy caused by the death of R. N. Van Doren of Chicago.

Directors of the St. Paul and Sioux City railroad company, a subsidiary of the Omaha, were reëlection in St. Paul today. They are Arthur S. Pierce and Harry W. Rush of New York, and Mr. Sargent, Mr. Cady, Charles Jensch, Barret Conway, George W. Hand, William F. White and Bradford W. Carlton, all of Chicago.

GERMANY SENDS $20,000,000 IN GOLD TO FRANCE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 12.—Eighty-five million marks in gold (about $20,000,000) arrived today from the Reichsbank in Berlin. This was the first shipment to be made in a long time. It was stated at the Bank of France that it concerned ordinary commercial transactions such as are made between central banks.

The shipment aroused unusual interest in financial circles, being linked to the new orientation of the Reichsbank since the return of Hjalmar Schacht to the presidency. It is assumed, however, that the payment had nothing to do with the reimubrsemetn of the French share of the $70,000,000 loan, which the Reischsbank is repaying.

FORD OF CANADA WRITES SURPLUS DOWN $6,206,736

WINDSOR, Ont., April 12.—(AP)—The report for the fiscal year ended Dec. 31, 1932, of the Ford Motor company of Canada, Ltd., shows a reduction of $6,206,736 in the surplus account, made up of an operating loss of $5,206,736 and transfer of $1,000,000 to the reserve for investment in affiliated companies and contingencies.

A footnote explains the reserve account is "sufficient to provide for full depreciation in market value of bonds, impairment of capital of affiliated companies, and depreciation in foreign exchange as at Dec. 31, 1932."

The final balance in surplus account is shown as $18,557,525 and sales and other income are reported as $17,168,759. No change appears in the amount of capital stock outstanding, 1,588,940 shares of class A non-voting stock and 70,000 shares of class B voting stock.

SEARS-ROEBUCK MAKES CHANGES IN EXECUTIVES

Sears, Roebuck & Co. yesterday announced several changes in the executive personnel of its national organization. Frank M. Judson was named retail merchandise manager in charge of all retail stores. He was formerly district manager at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Joseph Givner, for three years retail sales manager, has been assigned to the New York office, where he will assist in supervising buying for the retail and mail order organizations.

M. E. Carlson was made manager of the Wisconsin retail division, with headquarters in Chicago. He succeeds E. P. Brooks, who resigned to accept a position in New York as assistant to the commercial vice president of the United States Steel corporation.

General Foods Sales Off in Dollars, Up in Volume

Dollar sales of the General Foods corporation were lower in the first quarter, but volume increased 6.6 per cent over the same period of last year, Clarence Francis, executive vice president, said at the annual stockholders meeting yesterday. The corporation, he asserted, has no plans for entering the beer business.

One of Capital 'Brain Trust' Gets R. F. C. Railroad Post

Washington, D. C., April 12.—Appointment of Prof. A. A. Berle of Columbia university, one of President Roosevelt's "brain trust" as special assistant to the directors of the Reconstruction Finance corporation was announced today. Berle, who was a member of the Coolidge-Smith railroad study commission, will devote most of his time to the railroad problems of the corporation.

NORTH WESTERN SHOWS DEFICIT OF $11,216,820

Sargent Reports Better Trend Recently.

Operations of the Chicago and North Western railway during 1932 resulted in a net deficit of $11,216,820, compared with a net deficit of $6,034,124 in 1931, according to the annual pamphlet report of the board of directors to the stockholders, made public yesterday.

Operating revenues for 1932 totaled $72,491,521, compared with $102,270,338 in 1931. Net railway operating revenue for 1932 was $1,422,835, compared with $6,272,136 in 1931. Gross income for 1932 was $5,766,222, compared with $10,630,482 in 1931. Fixed charges for 1932 were $16,903,173.

Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1932, were $26,368,908, compared with $26,482,594 at the end of 1931. Cash on hand at the end of 1932 totaled $3,781,474, compared with $3,447,725 at the end of 1931.

Sargent Explains Lower Income.

Total current liabilities at the end of 1932 were $34,854,336, compared with $20,687,698 at the end of the preceding year. Total assets were reported at $757,830,486 as of Dec. 31, 1932.

President Fred W. Sargent in his remarks said that the results of the 1932 operations reflect the general business conditions, and, in addition, losses due to diversion of traffic to trucks, buses, private automobiles, waterways, pipe lines and automobiles.

"One encouraging factor to be noted in the result for the year is that while each month of 1930 and 1931 showed an accelerated decline in revenues, which continued until July of 1932, the last five months of the year showed a definite uptrend," Mr. Sargent said. "Even the decline in passenger revenues was less pronounced, although such decline was not checked until September."

Curtail Passenger Service.

Mr. Sargent said that every effort has been made to reduce passenger service as far as is consistent with holding the present business. He said that during 1932 there was a further reduction of 2,000,000 passenger train miles, but the decrease in passenger train miles between 1920 and 1932 has been only 34 per cent as compared with a loss of 73 per cent in revenue. The decrease in passenger train miles during the year has been 16 per cent compared with the passenger train miles in 1931. All the company's high grade overnight trains are paying.

The report states that the North Western owns about 94 per cent of the stock of the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway, and in January, 1933, took $45,186,000 of that road's first mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds in exchange for its notes of the same amount, given in 1930, so that now the North Western owns 95 per cent of the company's outstanding debt.

Operating Expenses Cut.

Saying that operating expenses in 1933 will be less than they were in 1932 to handle the same amount of traffic, Mr. Sargent told of the progress made in the way of economies. He said the property was operated in 1932 with 62,000,000 man hours, against 136,000,000 in 1913. However, the 62,000,000 man hours cost the company $22,000,000 more than they would have cost had the same rates of pay been in effect as prevailed in 1913.

The report of the Omaha line showed that 1932 operations were carried on with a net deficit of $2,864,233.

Consolidated results of the North Western and the Omaha line disclosed a net deficit of $14,081,054 for 1932, compared with $8,775,565 for 1931. Total operating revenues were $87,323,282, compared with $120,857,244. Net operating income was $1,411,944, compared with $6,396,108. Gross income totaled $3,043,231, compared with $8,054,961.

91% OF DEPOSITS IN STATE BANKS OF ILLINOIS FREE

440 Units Open on Unrestricted Basis.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The opening today of five more state banks brings the deposits of state banks released since the expiration of the holiday to 91 per cent, State Auditor Edward J. Barrett said last night. Of the total of 702 state banking institutions there are now more than 440 operating on unrestricted basis, the auditor added.

The banks reopened in a stronger position than they were when the moratorium began because of the 16½ millions of new capital which they were required to raise before obtaining licenses from Auditor Barrett. This new money, Mr. Barrett said, was raised by subscription of stockholders.

Won't Ease Regulations.

Mr. Barrett said that he had no intention of easing the conditions under which banks may resume business.

"I shall adhere to my policy of rehabilitation," he said. "It would be improper for me by stringent regulation to destroy banks, and of course that is unthinkable. It is equally wrong to allow banks to reopen that are not in sound condition, and thereby endanger the savings of depositors. I propose to allow no bank to reopen unless its condition is such that it can meet all demands that can be made upon it."

Mr. Barrett pointed out that his department has arranged for temporary banking facilities in those counties where the banks have not been allowed to open. As a result, he said, citizens have given banking accomodations and the banks are given more time to make the adjustments necessary to the resumption of normal operations.

Must Earn Charges.

Auditor Barrett was emphatic in stating that no bank will be allowed to open when its operating expenses and interest charges on borrowed money exceed its possible earning power. Such banks cannot continue to operate even if the depositors do not withdraw their funds, he asserted.

Barrett added a word of praise for the patience shown by the bank depositors during the crisis and the cooperation shown by the bankers with his office.

The banks which are now open are safe and sound institutions, he declared.

KAMPSVILLE—Bank of Kampsville.
KINSMAN—State Bank of Kinsman.
EAST DUBUQUE—East Dubuque Savings and State Bank of East Dubuque.
CAMDEN—Camden State

The opening of another Chicago state bank, the Howard Avenue Trust and Savings, is expected shortly, it was reliably reported yesterday.

Joliet Bank to Reorganize.

A plan of reorginization for the First National Bank of Joliet, calling for the immediate release of 50 per cent of deposits, has been submitted to national banking authorities, according to an announcement made yesterday. The plan provides for raising $400,000 new money through the sale of preferred stock to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

John Morrison, receiver for the Joliet Trust and Savings banks, announced that an initial dividend of 10 per cent would be paid depositors as soon as orders are entered and checks prepared.

NEW YORK RATES ON ACCEPTANCES LOWERED AGAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 12.—Bankers' acceptance yield rates were reduced another ⅛ of 1 per cent today following a sharper reduction of ⅝ of 1 per cent yesterday. Today's cut was the eighth reduction since March 16, in which period a total reduction of 3⅛ per cent has been effected.

The reduction was an action by the open market to increase its supply of bills, but there were differences of opinion as to the effectiveness of such low rates, in view of the policy of the banks in holding on to their acceptances.

SECURITY BANK HEAD PLANNING NEW INSTITUTION

Plans for the organization of a new bank to be capitalized at $250,000 are being made by Norman B. Collins, president of the Security bank of Chicago, which is now paying off its depositors in full.

The plan will depend entirely on whether banking quarters can be obtained at a rental which will allow the bank to remain in a liquid condition and operate at a profit. The capital has been raised but will be returned to subscribers, if the plans fall through, Collins said.

World Markets Close Tomorrow for Good Friday

Good Friday will be observed tomorrow by suspension of trading on the leading commodity and security markets throughout the Christian world. The New York and Chicago stock exchanges, the Chicago Board of Trade, and other North American grain exchanges will be closed. The Liverpool grain exchange will close early today and will not resume business until Monday morning. The American markets, however, will operate as usual Saturday. The Chicago live stock market will not close tomorrow. The New York banks will be closed tomorrow, but Chicago banks will do business as usual.

Detroit Bank Deal Signed; New U.S. Loan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 12.—Directors of the National Bank of Detroit late today signed with the conservators of the First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National bank the contract by which the new bank takes over the more liquid assets of the two old banks. It was announced that the terms agreed upon would enable an additional 30 per cent payment to depositors of the old banks beginning next Monday.

Walter S. McLucas, president of the new bank, announced the contract will be submitted to the United States District court for its approval, having already been approved by the comptroller of the currency.

In substance, the contracts provide for the acquisition by the National Bank of Detroit of assets aggregating $131,201,000.

May Ask Other Securities.

The real estate mortgages are picked from the entire mortgage portfolio of the First National bank, embracing $153,000,000 of mortgages. In respect to mortgages, notes, and part of the bonds taken over, the National Bank of Detroit will have the right, up to Nov. 30, 1933, to call upon the conservators to substitute assets equivalent in value from those remaining in the trust estates. This is a protective measure in the event that some of the assets acquired may prove undesirable.

According to the plans of the conservators, the proceeds of the sale, which will be credited to their account on the books of the National Bank of Detroit, will be distributed as a further dividend to the depositors and creditors of the old institution as soon as possible.

Get New $10,000,000 Loan.

In Washington today, the transfer of some of the assets of the two old banks to the New National Bank of Detroit was formally approved by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The R. F. C. also voted a loan of $10,000,000 to the conservators of the two closed banks. In addition to the $40,000,000 loan which has figured as the basis of negtiations between the two old banks and the new bank.

In making the announcement, Jesse H. Jones, director of the R. F. C., issued the following statement:

"To enable the conservators of the First National and Guardian National banks of Detroit to conclude their sales of assets to the National Bank of Detroit without further delay, the corporation today voted an additional loan commitment of $10,000,000 to the two old banks to be apportioned between them and drawn upon when as and if needed by the conservators."

Cleveland Bank Data Sought.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 12.—A new move to obtain information on loans by closed Cleveland banks to officers and directors, and deposits withdrawals by insiders was forecast today when Arthur A. Miller, attorney, made a formal demand upon Ira J. Fulton, state superintendent of banking, and Sidney B. Congdon, conservator, for permission to inspect books and records of the Guardian Trust company. Mr. Miller said he represented a stockholder of the bank. Congdon refused the information.

Fulton today appointed conservators for seventeen more Ohio banks.

WESTERN UNION CHIEF REPORTS RECENT PICKUP

New York, April 12.—(AP)—Newcomb Carlton, president of Western Union Telegraph company, said at the stockholders' annual meeting today that officials of the company believed they had discerned a general improvement in business in the last week or ten days, and he was "considerably encouraged."

The company handled large amounts of money transfers during the bank holiday. Traffic also increased after the California earthquake, reaching a level, Carlton said, which the company had not expected to attain for some time. Bank loans are now $1,900,000, an increase of $400,000 from Dec. 31, 1932.

F. W. Charske, chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific railroad, and R. B. White, president of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, were elected to the board, filling places vacated by the death of Sir Henry W. Thornton and the resignation of Charles B. Seger.

F. W. WOOLWORTH VOTES REGULAR 60 CENT DIVIDEND

Directors of F. W. Woolworth company yesterday declared a regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents a share, payable June 1 to stockholders of record April 24. They thus maintained the annual rate of $2.40.

Net income last year amounted to $2.32 a share, exclusive of foreign exchange loss and reduction in market value of investments.

Continental Can company also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable May 15 to stock of record May 1.

Power Output Shows Steady Trend Upward

Electricity output for both the Chicago district and the nation for the week ended April 8 showed an accelerating improvement over that for recent weeks in comparison with the production in the corresponding periods of last year.

The national output for last week was 4.5 per cent below that for the like week of 1932, or the smallest percentage decline recorded this year. The preceding week's decline under 1932 was 5.3 per cent. The output amounted to 1,399,367,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,465,076,000 kilowatt hours in the like period of 1932 and with 1,402,142,000 kilowatt hours in the preceding week.

Fourth Week of Gains.

Similarly the week ended April 8 was the fourth successive week of improvement for the Chicago district in the output comparisons with last year. Part of this improvement is the result of darker and colder weather this year.

Last week's electricity output for the Chicago district was 89,066,000 kilowatt hours, as against 90,850,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding period last year, a decrease of only 2.0 per cent. For the week ended April 1 the output was 88,502,000 kilowatt hours, against 91,681,000 kilowatt hours in the comparable week of 1932, or a decrease of 3.5 per cent.

Chicago Area Comparison.

Following are output and percentage comparisons with last year for the Chicago district:

KILOWATT HOURS OUTPUT.

Week ended—	1933.	1932.	Pct. dec.
April 8	89,066,000	90,850,000	2.0
April 1	88,502,000	91,681,000	3.5
March 25	90,526,000	96,400,000	6.1
March 18	87,533,000	97,516,000	10.2

Territorial comparisons were likewise improved. The Atlantic seaboard was off 2.7 per cent from the like week of 1932, against 4.6 per cent for the previous week; central industrial region 5.7 per cent against 8.1 per cent; New England 3.8 per cent against 7.2 per cent, and the Pacific coast 6.8 per cent again 5.7 per cent.

AM. RADIATOR FINDS BUSINESS BETTER IN APRIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 12.—Clarence M. Wooley, chairman of the American Radiator Standard Sanitary company, told stockholders at the annual meeting today that for the first time in forty years the company showed a net loss for a full year's operations. "We have passed through this ordeal with rather good results," he added, "notwithstanding that we have suffered a loss."

The company is erecting a plant in Switzerland, he said, to protect a business built up but threatened by a heavy import duty.

Some reports have been reached, Mr. Wooley concluded, indicating that the first week in April has shown some improvement in business. "We may be right now at the cross roads," he added.

Charles K. Foster of Chicago was elected a director to fill the unexpired term ending in 1934 of Charles M. Parker, who resigned.

Report Pan-American Co. Plans New Texas Refinery

Houston, Tex., April 12.—(AP)—The Houston Post says a $10,000,000 oil refinery will be constructed on the Houston ship chanel soon by the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport company, subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. Pan-American operates refineries at New Orleans, Savannah, New York, and other eastern seaboard points.

Al Humfrey Elected Head of Chicago Coffee Club

Al Humfrey, Chicago manager of Hills Brothers Coffee Inc., was elected president of the Chicago Coffee club at the annual meeting held for election of officers last night in the Adventurers club, 40 South Clark street. William Call of Ruffner, McDowell & Burch, coffee brokers, was elected vice president.

Gulf Refining Company to Recall 200 More to Work

Port Arthur, Tex., April 12.—(AP)—Officials of the Gulf Refining company here announced today between 200 and 300 men would be taken back to work in the next few days, bringing the total of newly employed in recent weeks to 900.

SUGAR PRICES SOAR; "SWEET TOOTH" OF WORLD IS INSATIABLE

New York, April 12.—(AP)—The long depressed shares of the sugar companies have leaped forward in the stock exchange lately, some even doubling in value.

Raw sugar futures in the New York coffee and sugar exchange currently show an appreciation over the low levels of January and early February of nearly 70 per cent. Prices have risen from around 65-100th's of one cent a pound, before payment of the 2 cent duty, to above 1.10 cents.

Unique among the world's basic commodities, sugar stands out in bold relief by the fact that world consumption during the last crop year exceeded production by 280,000 tons. Many factors have contributed to this phenomenon, authorities contend, among which are tariff regulations, the Chadbourne plan for restricted output, and a normal increase in world demand.

Wall street quarters in touch with Cuban conditions have recently learned that the "segregation plan" which that country—world's leading sugar producer—inaugurated last year, will be extended in the current year. Under this program, which is a device to obtain a higher price, the Cuban government will segregate or hold off the market 600,000 tons of sugar which were originally part of the American quota.

Another important influence which is considered fundamental is the possibility, under discussion in Washington, of a tariff change favorable to Cuba. The present duty on Cuban sugar entering the United States is 2 cents a pound. An allotment schedule for Cuban shipments, combined with tariff concessions would maintain and enhance domestic values, it is believed.

REPUBLIC STEEL LIMITS LOSSES AS OUTPUT SAGS

Jersey City, N. J., April 12.—(AP)—Although operating at 18 per cent of capacity, against 25 per cent in the first quarter last year, the Republic Steel company showed no greater loss for the 1933 period, Tom N. Girdler, chairman and president, told stockholders at the annual meeting today. February was described as a fairly good month, and the company came out about even on a cash basis.

"We operated at about 23½ per cent of capacity in February," he said. "In March the bank trouble came along and we dropped to 12 per cent. We have had a considerable rebound recently and are now operating close to the February rate.

"I think this is the start of a gradual increase in business. The price situation is not satisfactory, but is somewhat better than it has been. I think 1933 will be a much better year than 1932. I think there will be losses in the industry, but not as great as in 1932. I am hopeful Republic Steel will show no cash loss for 1933."

Girdler said that due to drastic economies the company could now make money at about 35 per cent of capacity under present prices for all types of steel products. With operations at 25 per cent or slightly less he said the company could meet ordinary expenses and show a gain in cash.

NATIONAL CASH REGISTER HEADS SEE BETTERMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Baltimore, Md., April 12.—Stockholders of the National Cash Register company at their annual meeting today were told by Col. E. A. Deeds, chairman of the board, that the management has witnessed some indication of improvement in business during the last month.

More than 915,000 shares were represented either in person or by proxy. The stockholders ratified all actions taken by the directors, executive committee and officers since the preceding annual meeting. All retiring directors were reelected.

Illinois Seventh in Value of Exports During Last Year

With total exports of $66,958,484, Illinois ranks seventh in value of domestic exports shipped during the calendar year 1932, according to the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Illinois ranked fifth in 1931 with $141,008,291. Texas ranks first for 1932 with total value of $299,650,783, displacing New York, which ranks second with $248,111,439.

Construction Totals Quarter Billion in First Quarter

New construction in the United States during the first quarter of 1933 amounted to about $250,000,000, as against a little more than $300,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1932, according to a survey by the Indiana Limestone company.

MONEY PLAN TO AWAIT CHOOSING RESERVE HEAD

Name W. W. Stewart as Probable Choice.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—Appointment of a successor to Eugene Meyer Jr. as governor of the federal reserve board will be the signal for final drafting and promulgation of the administration's new money policy, it was learned tonight.

Meanwhile Walter W. Stewart, chairman of Case-Pomeroy company, investment bankers, was most prominently mentioned here as Meyer's successor after President Roosevelt had announced this morning that Meyer had asked to be relieved of his duties about three weeks ago.

Formulation of the reflation program which the administration is understood to have under consideration will await the coming of the new reserve head, it is said. Meanwhile two methods, devaluation of the dollar and large public works expenditures, are receiving serious consideration.

Board Favors Public Works.

Public works outlays are favored by reserve board experts who admit that the present administration is not yet calling on them for suggestions. They declare that the results which might come from devaluation are unpredictable. Public works expenditures, however, can be in advance translated into terms of salaries, purchasing power, and production.

Removal of Meyer will leave the board without an avowed Republican member, with only three members and with four vacancies. One of the new positions is almost certain to go to a Chicagoan because that reserve district is now without representation on the board. Another will be filled by the selection of the controller of the currency who serves as an ex-officio member of the board.

Szymczak May Get Post.

Although there has been no definite information as yet that he will be named, Chicago City Controller M. S. Szymczak has been prominently mentioned as a possible choice to fill the Chicago vacancy on the reserve board. Mr. Szymczak was close to Mayor Cermak in the Democratic councils in Chicago and the administration is understood to be anxious to reward him with a federal position. He has been mentioned for the post of controller of the currency.

Stewart, now believed to be the leading candidate for Meyer's post, is understood to have a personal financial barrier to clear before he would be free to accept the position. The son of a Populist printer in Kansas, he is understood not to have amassed a private fortune. The $10,000 a year paid to the governor might not be sufficient to meet his large family demands and the requirements of official life in Washington.

Probed Germany's Status.

He sprang into prominence largely through his selection as the American member of a special advisory committee to the Bank of International Settlement which probed Germany's ability to resume reparations payments under the Young plan. From 1928 to 1930 he was economic adviser to the Bank of England. Since 1930 he has been chairman of the board of Case-Pomeroy company.

Stewart became familiar with reserve system operations when he served from 1922 to 1925 as head of the research and statistics division of the federal reserve board staff. He studied at the University of Michigan and taught economics there for a while.

Four Railroad Relief Plans Fused Into One

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—[Special.]—Four legislative programs for railroad relief are being fused into one at the request of President Roosevelt, Secretary of Commerce Roper revealed at his first press conference today.

Meanwhile, work is being pushed on the second securities bill to regulate stock exchange practices and on the reorganization of the department of commerce. The securities bill still is in tentative drafts, but the reorganization plan is on President Roosevelt's desk awaiting approval, Roper said.

Study of tariff problems also is going forward in the department and the material is being turned over to the state department preparatory to the coming world economic conference, Roper said.

A coördinator with broad powers over the railroads is almost certain to emerge from the work on the composite railroad bill, Roper indicated. He said that the powers of the coördinator are the center of discussion but that the new "generalissimo" would be useless without ample power.

Decision on the actual scope of the coördinator's powers may be reached tomorrow evening, when the committee which is working on the fusion plan meets again. Meanwhile, the committee members are working independently. The committee consists of Secretary of the Treasury Woodin, Interstate Commerce Commissioner Eastman, Dr. W. W. Splawn, Senator Dill, and Representative Rayburn, in addition to Roper.

Treasury to Sell $75,000,000 91 Day Notes on Monday

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 12.—To retire an issue of $75,032,000 in treasury bills April 19 Secretary Woodin today invited tenders next Friday for a new block of 91 day bills in the amount of $75,000,000, to be dated April 19 and mature July 19.

Evanston Loan Bank Helping Owners Little

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Dissension has arisen among the directors of the Federal Home Loan bank of Evanston over the loaning policies of the bank, according to information received yesterday from an authoritative source.

From the same source it was learned that the Evanston bank, set up with federal government cash to relieve the financial woes of mortgaged homeowners in Illinois and Wisconsin, has to date lent only about $3,000,000 of the $15,000,000 it has to dispose of and that not one cent has been lent directly to individual home owners.

The thing that has particularly irked a minority of the directors, it was reported, has been the bank's policy of devoting the resources of the institution solely to the bailing out of building and loan associations.

Homeowners Out in Cold.

The thousands of hard pressed home owners who have taken seriously the salvation speeches of home loan bank officials, it develops, have been given a runaround.

The federal home loan bank system was created last summer. In November Franklin W. Fort, who until a few weeks ago was chairman of the home loan board at Washington, announced that as soon as the banks began to function foreclosures would end.

By the middle of December the Evanston bank had 3,850 applications from individuals asking for direct loans. The total amount asked for by those 3,850 petitioners was about $17,000,000. But none of these people, nor any of the thousands who since have requested loans have received a dime in direct loans, according to reports from Evanston.

Not only have the applicants been refused, but they have been sent on a wild goose chase.

Under the rules of the home loan system the bank can lend directly to the individual only when the latter has tried and failed to get a loan through his nearest building and loan association.

Firms Aided Make no Loans.

The policy, therefore, has been to send the applicant for a loan to some building and loan association. Almost invariably the latter reports that it is making no new loans. But even the refusal of the building and loan association has been of no help to the home owner in getting his loan direct.

One of the most active individuals in the organization of the home loan bank system was H. Morton Bodfish, executive manager of the United States Building and Loan league, and one of the original directors of the home loan bank board. On Nov 7, in an address before the trustees of Northwestern university at the Palmer house, Mr. Bodfish predicted that the home loan bank would be ten times bigger than the public anticipated.

"It's to be a great reservoir of credit to be passed on into communities through the building and loan associations, banks, and life insurance companies," he said.

No Insurance Loans Made.

Yesterday it was reliably reported that not only had no loans been made to insurance companies, but not even had blanks been provided for applications for loans by insurance companies. Banks, under Illinois law, are not privileged to borrow from the home loan banks.

Minority directors of the Evanston bank who have objected to the loan policies have admitted that the bailing out of needy building and loan associations has been helpful to thousands of stockholders of such associations and that much good has been done. They have, however, criticized the refusal of aid to others.

Also they have been irked by insistence of certain Washington officials that loans be made in such a manner as to encourage new construction.

CHICAGO MILLS LEAD UPTURN IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Auto, Rail, and Beer Orders Expand.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Marked improvement has been noted in the steel industry within the last two weeks, with the greatest gains taking place in the Chicago district. It is estimated that the companies are now handling 20 per cent more work than they were two or three weeks ago.

Steel company officials here attributed the gains in the Chicago district to four factors:

1. The release of automobile orders, which were held up during the period of the banking holiday.

2. The railroads are beginning to release orders for rails and other items of steel, with the end of the winter season.

3. The continuation of the orders from small companies, which began to set in several months ago.

4. The demands for steel from the newly awakened brewing industry.

During the banking holiday, the automobile companies cancelled their orders. Now they are reinstating these orders and, in addition, are giving new ones, steel company officials find.

Expect Larger Auto Sales.

Automobile production at present is based on estimate that sales in May and June will be proportionately better than they were last year—that is, the rate of sales during these months will be higher than is the case in normal years.

The automobile dealers pay cash for the automobiles they order from the factories. This business was dried up during the holiday, but with banks opened generally throughout the nation they renewed their orders. The result was a flurry which has given a marked impetus to the steel industry.

As regards the railroads, a report from Cleveland stated that the Erie road has placed an order for 24,549 tons of steel rails. Of this it was stated that the Illinois Steel company is to make 4,500 tons and the Inland Steel company, 2,000 tons. The Chicago and North Western railway has placed an order for 5,000 tons of rails, together with the necessary fittings. It is understood that the Chicago district will take care of this.

Maintenance Work Necessary.

Steel company executives say that with the frost coming out of the ground, the railroads must now start manitenance work which cannot be neglected.

The continuance of small orders is described as a favorable point by steel company officials, for the reason that it indicates a widespread movement in business. They could not classify the orders in this division, with several hundred items being involved.

Finally the beer business has helped steel. The Chicago district recently received an order for 1,000 tons of steel for a brew house. Then there is a large demand for steel tanks in which beer is aged. Steel hoops are being used for beer barrels, and a new development is all steel beer barrels. There are two types of steel barrels—in one the barrel is made entirely of ordinary steel and in the second it is lined with the so-called stainless steel.

Work Hours Are Extended.

While the steel industry has moved up, there has been no considerable increase in employment yet, officials stated. Where there is an increase in work, it is in the form of a greater

Buenos Aires, May	.35⅛	.35½
Rotterdam, May	.41⅜	.42⅜

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders who recently were heavy buyers of futures in anticipation of a bullish government crop report, were disposed to accept the profits yesterday. The selling was based, according to pit views, on the belief that a natural reaction was in order, and not on any change in the outlook for the new crop.

Buying was somewhat less aggressive with stop loss orders uncovered, prices dropped as much as 1¾ cents from the close of the previous day. Buying against bids and on resting orders checked the decline in wheat, but the finish was 1 to 1¼ cents lower. May closed at 58¾ to 58⅞ cents, July, 59¾ to 59⅞ cents, and September, 61 to 61⅛ cents.

The character of crop comments on winter wheat was even more bullish than recently. The detailed government report suggested about 30 per cent of the 40,000,000 acres seeded last fall would be abandoned, leaving around 28,000,000 acres for harvest, the smallest since 1917.

Drought Still Not Relieved.

In commenting on the crop the department said: "Drought conditions prevailed throughout the winter and are still unrelieved in much of this territory, with the result that abandonment will be exceptionally high and low yields will be secured on the remaining acreage."

According to a government estimate, upwards of 25,000,000 bushels of the 178,000,000 bushels of wheat estimated to be in farmers' hands on April 1, will be used for seeding the spring crop. A reduction of 3 per cent in the spring wheat acreage in the American northwest was estimated by the Monarch Elevator company of Minneapolis.

Of the total indicated winter wheat crop of 334,000,000 bushels for the country, around 159,037,000 bushels will be hard winter wheat, or 106,000,000 bushels less than last year.

General Selling in Corn.

General selling developed in corn futures. With a lack of aggressive buying, prices dropped nearly 2 cents from Tuesday's finish to a low of 30⅞ cents for the May. Some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down. Little rallying power was disclosed and the finish was about the bottom, with net losses of 1½ to 1¾ cents. May was 30⅞ to 31 cents, with July at 33¼ to 33⅜ cents, and September at 35⅛ to 35¼ cents at the last.

Continued delay in the seeding of the new oats crop is causing considerable apprehension in some quarters in the trade, but this was not reflected in any increase in the buying of futures. The latter closed ⅜ to ⅞ cent lower, with May at 20 cents and July 1⅝ to 2 cents with wheat, May being 44 cents and July 44⅜ cents at the last. Barley lost ½ to ¾ cent for the day, with May at 32¼ cents and July at 33⅜ cents at the close.

SUBSIDIARIES OF A. T. & T. REPORT DECLINE IN NET

Two units in the American Telephone and Telegraph system yesterday reported lowered net operating income for February and the two months of 1933.

New England Telephone and Telegraph company had an operating income of $938,169 in February, compared with $1,282,981 in February, 1932. Two months' income was $1,922,947, against $2,469,891 last year.

February net operating income of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, excluding subsidiaries, was $793,613, against $924,216, while for the two months net was $1,563,972, against $1,697,669 in 1932.

†Officially listed.

Other stocks and bonds are traded on the Curb exchange as "unlisted." They include those of corporations from which the exchange has deemed it unnecessary to require financial statements such as must be filed periodically if listed. The exchange states it investigates at regular intervals the financial status of "unlisted" securities.

HOGS ADVANCE IN EARLY TRADE; REACT AT CLOSE

Low Receipts Fail to Keep Prices on Upgrade.

Tuesday's activity in hogs was not in evidence yesterday. The market started a creeping advance against buying opposition, but soon turned reactionary and commenced to ebb. Prices fell back to the preceding day's average levels, closing transactions indicating that the early 5 to 10 cent gains had been completely wiped out.

Opening sales were highest since last Thursday and 15 to 20 cents higher than early in the week. Top grades reached $3.95, a 5 cent higher basis. The general average for the day, however, remained unchanged at $3.70.

The wholesale market for fresh pork continued to drag and there was some indication of an accumulation, notwithstanding the fact that hog receipts at all leading centers have been running unusually low. The three day total at 20 markets at 273,000 is 36,000 smaller than a week ago and compares with an average of 332,000 for the corresponding periods in four previous years.

Cattle Trend Mixed.

Price trends in cattle were slightly mixed yesterday as buyers called a halt to the advance in some grades. Competition again centered in the better classes of steers and yearlings which in some instances scored additional slight gains. Top prices equaled the highest marks in three weeks. Common and medium grades were inclined to drag, in places closing slightly lower than on Tuesday, but the rank and file of the supply averaged about steady for the whole day.

The supply of extremely heavy cattle was much smaller than a week ago and some believe the bulk of the extra heavy steers have been marketed for this season. Top grades of weighty beeves are selling closer to the light steers and yearlings. Prime 1,290 pound steers reached $6.50 yesterday, with 1,073 to 1,128 pound long yearlings to Swift at $7.00.

Lamb Trade Erratic.

Spring lambs again attracted most of the buying orders and prices maintained a good strong basis. The "old" crop, however, slumped 15 to 35 cents, medium and heavy wooled stock dropping most in value during the afternoon rounds. City butchers paid the $5.65 top for "fed" lambs, while packers absorbed the bulk of 85 to 99 pound averages at $5.00 to $5.40 and took 102 to 105 pound shorn stock at $4.75.

Fancy 70 pound native springers to Swift brought $8.50, the practical top for the new crop of lambs. Other sales were made at $6.50 to $7.60.

Prospects Bright for New Bank Law in Present Session

Washington, April 12.—(AP)—Contrary to firm opinions held only yesterday, congressional leaders passed the word today that the chances were very good for enactment of a banking bill this session with a provision in it for some form of insurance of bank deposits.

Much of the confusion on the administration's attitude still prevailed, however, although the latest reports at the capital had it that the President favored a clause "for the protection of depositors." This was directly opposed to the impressions that prevailed yesterday after Senator Glass [Dem. Va.] visited the White House.

At the White House itself it was said that President Roosevelt had an open mind on the subject but the belief was strong in both houses that the President would agree eventually to some modified form of insurance of deposits.

President Calls Leaders.

President Roosevelt called the chairman of the house and senate banking committees, Representative Stagall [Dem. Ala.] and Senator Fletcher [Dem., Fla.], into conference during the day but apparently no definite decision was reached.

After the conference, however, Fletcher predicted a bank reform bill would be passed this session with some form of deposit insurance, but he said the President had not committed himself.

Mr. Roosevelt, Fletcher said, is "not unfriendly" to the insurance proposal and "favors some provision for the protection of depositors."

Fletcher said he recommended enactment of one bill on banking rather than a series of measures as suggested by the President yesterday, and reported the chief executive was "entirely agreeable" to that.

Favors Nation-Wide Branches.

Although the President did not commit himself on branch banking, Fletcher said his mind seemed to run toward county-wide rather than state-wide branch systems for national banks.

Fletcher said the President was in favor of the proposal to require banks to divorce security affiliates within two years, but Steagall said the chief executive hadn't made up his mind on that proposition, though he asserted reports the President opposed this were "unjustified."

No attempt was made by the Glass subcommittee to act on the pending legislation today. It awaited the return to Washington of Secretary Woodin, who was called to New York by the illness of his mother.

number of hours for those now employed.

According to the Iron Age, steel ingot production for the country as a whole has made the sharpest gain of any week this year. The rate of production has increased to 19½ per cent for this week from 16½ per cent last week. This brings the rate close to the February average of 20.41 per cent.

"The Chicago district has shown the greatest advance, from 13 per cent in the early part of last week to 19 per cent this week, aided by fairly large orders for sheets and bars and a recent release of a small tonnage of rails," the paper says.

Scrap Prices Higher.

The factors which helped the Chicago district likewise were responsible for the advance in the other districts, according to Iron Age.

"Accompanying the expansion of production is a further strengthening of steel scrap prices in Pittsburgh," Iron Age states. "Heavy melting scrap is quoted at an average of $10 a ton, the best price in that district in a year. A syndicate of scrap dealers has disposed of the larger part of 200,000 tons of material it will derive from the scrapping of about 16,000 freight cars and 100 locomotives of the Southern railway."

JAMISON WARNS CREDIT METHODS REQUIRE REFORM

A radical revision of business methods and particularly the use of commercial credit must be anticipated by American business, according to Dr. C. L. Jamison, professor of business policy at the University of Michigan, who addressed the Chicago Credit Men's Forum at the La Salle hotel last night.

"In the field of credit administration there are four symptoms that indicate a more or less radical revision of business methods," he said. "Superficial credit investigations may be supplanted by more thorough credit appraisals. Open accounts may be replaced by the more flexible trade acceptance. Working capital may be turned more rapidly by the shortening of credit terms. Both debtors and creditors may have grown so suspicious of each other that future business will be transacted less on borrowed money."

In the early stages of recovery, Dr. Jamison declared, the shortage of working capital will probably be met by more careful management of the existing working capital fund, rather than an attempt to add to the fund.

New St. Louis Bank to Take Over 2 Closed Institutions

St. Louis, Mo., April 12.—(AP)—Formation of a new institution with free capital of $3,000,000 designed to consolidate operation of two closed St. Louis banks was announced tonight. A committee announcement said that the South Side Bank and Trust company had been organized to take over the Lafayette South Side Bank and Trust company and to control the South Side National bank. Combined deposits of the two banks total twenty-three million dollars.

ANNOUNCE PLAN OF REFINANCING MICHIGAN-GRAND

Hope to Avoid a Lengthy Foreclosure.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans for a friendly reorganization of the Michigan - Grand Building corporation, whereby a costly and lengthy contested foreclosure and receivership may be avoided, have been announced by the Bondholders' Protective committee. Newton P. Frye, senior vice president of the Central Republic company, is chairman of the committee. It is pointed out that it probably would take two years for the bondholders to get title, if foreclosure were resorted to, and that the resulting receivership might lead to the cancellation or voiding of important leases.

It is stated that the corporation has been depositing part of its accumulated cash funds and its current earnings with the trustee to meet tax obligations. The total on deposit is now $33,264. It is pointed out that fees of a receiver and his counsel would come in ahead of taxes in case of a receivership and during a contested foreclosure suit it probably would be impossible to secure a loan to take care of the taxes.

Cite Foreclosure Hazard.

"It was, therefore, the final determination of the committee that a contested foreclosure would involve greater hazards to the bondholders' investment that a friendly reorganization of the corporation which would recognize all existing securities, but clearly maintain the senior position of the bonds" the committe states in its letter to the bondholders.

The property in question is the seventeen story McGraw-Hill building, at the southwest corner of Michigan and Grand. It was financed by a $1,500,000 forst mortgage leasehold bond issue underwritten by the Federal Securities corporation and Hill, Joiner & Co.

Under the reorganization plan just made public the bondholders will receive new 5 per cent income bonds for their present holdings. Three quarters of the surplus earnings of the corporation will be used for current interest, back interest and then if there's any remainder, it will be paid over into a sinking fund for the retirement of bonds. The remaining one fourth of the surplus earnings also will be applied to this same sinking fund.

Stock to Be Deposited.

The plan provides that a sufficient amount of stock in the proposed new corporation to enable the bondholders to retain control shall be deposited under a stock trust agreement, with four trustees, two of whom will represent the bondholders and two the stockholders. This means that the property will have the benefit of owner management as long as it is satisfactory.

The other members of the committee are: Cuthbert C. Adams and James B. Van Vleck. Curtis B. Woolfolk is secretary. Pam & Hurd are attorneys.

STOCKS IGNORE CHEERFUL NEWS; DECLINE A BIT

U. S. Steel and Am. Tel. Show Weakness.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 12.—Sentiment in stock market circles was a trifle less enthusiastic again today. The inflation theory appeared to have lost some of its force for the time being, the midweek trade reviews telling of further business gains were ignored and a further easement in money rates has little influence.

Traders were simply not in a mood to buy and all the bull argument that could be mustered left them cold. Some brokers thought the weather—it was a cold drizzly day—may have had some effect in dampening speculative spirits.

Whatever it was, however, selling orders dribbled in sufficiently strong to overbalance support and prices lagged from a fraction to a point or so lower all day. The close found United States Steel down half a point, American Telephone off 1½ points, Allied Chemical down 1⅛ and American Can off ⅜.

Several Issues Advance.

A scattering of trading favorites ran counter to the general trend. Woolworth rallied more than a point on the declaration of its regular dividend. Standard Oil of New Jersey finished a fractional winner and an occasional railroad or utility issue succeeded in holding a plus sign. Great Western Sugar preferred sold at 100, a gain of nearly 5 points, on the first sale since 1930, but later gave up about half its newly won ground. Vulcan Detinning took another little spurt to a new high for the year.

Moderate firmness was the rule for the tobacco and amusement groups, low priced issues of the former being quite active and strong for a while in the forenoon.

The gold mining issues, which have distinguished themselves recently by advancing when the rest of the list was in the doldrums, were unable to fulfill their new rôle today. Homestake held unchanged on a single sale and Alaska-Juneau receded fractionally with its fellows.

Rail Issues Under Pressure.

Estimates of lower car loadings to be revealed in the next weekly report on freight revenues, proved burdensome to the railroad issues, which find the going rather difficult at best. There was no particular pressure against any section of the group, but trading was sluggish and the leaders sagged a point or so.

In the motors group, Nash Motor continued under pressure as the result of yesterday's adverse news on its dividend. The stock sagged to a new low on a decline of a point, but a part of this was recovered later.

The oils were steady on reports of an impending rise in oil and gasoline prices. J. I. Case gave up more than a point in sympathy with weakness in the commodity markets.

REALIZING IN COTTON CARRIES PRICES LOWER

Scattered realizing by holders of cotton was sufficiently heavy to make an easy market and result in closings of from 2 to 10 points lower on futures in Chicago than on the previous day. Other markets were off from 4 to 8 points. Spots were 5 points lower, New York being 6.70 cents; New Orleans and Galveston, 6.55 cents, and Houston, 6.50 cents. Liverpool was from 5 to 7 points net lower.

Trade buying on the decline was said to be good and there was also buying from outside sources. Consumption of cotton in the United States in March is estimated by the New York Cotton exchange at 489,000 bales, compared with 442,000 bales in February.

It is said that leaders in the senate who are opposed to the farm bill are much in favor of inflation rather than have the farm bill pass in its present form. Prices follow:

CASH INTERESTS BUY MEATS MORE FREELY

A broader general demand for cured meats from distributors gave the provision market a better tone. Dry salted bellies were up 10 cents with $5.25 bid. Other cuts of cured meats were also picked up readily, making a more cheerful situation, and the ham trade was good.

Cash lard was off 5 cents, with only a fair call, regular being $4.32½, loose $3.77½, and leaf lard was $3.75, a drop on the latter of 7½ cents. Pork loins were picked up fairly at 6½ to 8½ cents, the market being easier.

Lard futures were easier with a little more pressure and closed 5 cents net lower while belly futures were up 17½ cents on May and July. Liverpool lard was 1d higher on spots and futures and export clearances were 643,490 pounds. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—Sellers of gray cottons were more willing to listen to offers for May shipments today, and some bids were made. A moderate amount of business was done at barely steady prices. Finished goods of a seasonal character continued to move well on past orders. Rayon yarn sales were steady in small lots. Interest broadened slowly in fall worsteds and woolens. Burlaps were firmer. Broad silks sell steadily for immediate shipment.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today with sales confirmed of 26,000 bags of Puerto Rican due later this month to a local refiner at 3 cents and 28,700 bags for April shipment to an outport refiner at 3.02c. Price changes in futures were narrow with the undertone a little easier. Final prices were at about the lowest of the session, with a good deal of the business believed to be in the way of evening-up for the Good Friday holidays. Sales 10,350 tons. Prices follow:

BUTTER FUTURES HIGHER

Butter and egg futures were firm on the Chicago mercantile exchange, butter moving up ⅛@⅝c, and eggs ⅛@¼c. Butter gained due to light buying based on a sharp advance in the cash market. Statistical news was neutral. October eggs received good support at the start but selling also was brisk and the market held within narrow limits. Buying gained at the close. Receipts were heavy and the four markets reported 9,700 cases more into storage than last year. Sales: butter, 16 cars; eggs, 32 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 2 cars. Prices follow:

HIDE FUTURES.

Trade on the New York hide exchange was inactive, with sales of 160,000 lbs. Prices were 5@10 points lower. Closing bids, June, 6.50c; September, 6.95c; December, 7.30c; March, 7.65c.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil advanced 1 to 5 points early today on increased covering and commission house buying, promoted by the bullish consumption report, firmness of crude and rumors of sales of tallow at higher prices. Offerings increased on the upturn, however, and the market closed 1 to 3 points net lower. Sales 50 contracts or 7,500 barrels. The census bureau estimated March consumption of cottonseed oil at 256,716 barrels, against 277,400 last year. Bleachable spot closed 3.95c, May 4.01c, July 4.19c, September 4.38c, October 4.12c.

RAW SILK.

NEW YORK, April 12.—(AP)—SILK—Raw futures closed easier; sales, 310 bales. May, $1.16*; July, $1.15*; October, $1.14*. MEN.

POSITIONS ARE AVAILABLE AT OUR BRANCH OFFICE FOR MEN WHO ARE QUALIFIED TO LEARN HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY REPRESENT THIS COMPANY. SUCH MEN SHOULD APPLY IN PERSON AT ONCE.

Men who can learn this business make money regularly. $3,000.00 to $10,000.00 a year, and these incomes in cash are just as regular and staple as any business or professional positions could be. Men who learn this work make money every day throughout the year. We repeat his statement because this is a fact not generally known or accepted by those who do not really know this business.

Times, seasons, conditions, etc., are not obstacles to the success of specialty salesmen, properly representing a worthy and necessary service that is changing the course of an entire industry and we know that to us the present and potential market is absolutely unlimited. If you are the kind of man who is interested in your future and is good enough to keep step in such a program come in and introduce yourself. Those who are inexperienced in specialty sales work must take the necessary time to learn and acquire skill. During this time you must be willing and satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125.00 to $200.00 per month, if necessary. We cannot tell you how long it will take you to do this, but whether one month or six months, we do know that if you have the qualifications to satisfy our requirements, to secure a position with us, you can, with reasonable study, practice, good character and diligence be genuinely assured of making a success which will afford you the higher earnings.

We are not looking for the "smart fellow," the "clever" talker, or the so-called high-pressure artist. We are interested in the earnest, sincere man, no matter what his previous experience or training, who is willing to follow instructions, has formed the habit of doing a real day's work as a matter of course and not as a matter of exception. A man who can be expected to learn how to do this work will get on the job and do it. To such men this is beyond doubt one of the really great oppportunities of all time in specialty sales work. In our local branch you will find competent management and a personnel of high grade, fine men who will welcome you and help you to become a successful part of a real money-making organization. Personal interview Thursday morning, April 13, from 9 to 1, at 430 Hyde Park Bank Bldg., 53d and Lake Park-av.

What Marinello Training Means

We regard our graduates as personal representatives of the Marinello System. Therefore every girl is trained to the highest degree of efficiency before receiving her certificate. Each girl is graduated with the equivalent of at least a year's practical experience and ready to earn big money at once.

The most money is made in shops where particular women gladly pay good prices for the kind of service that Marinello Beauticians render. Why not train for positions that pay the most? That's good economy, good sense.

Day or evening classes now forming. Easy tuition payments. Free international Employment Service—or we will help you establish your own business.

EVER SINCE

J. L. Cochran opened his office in the old Chicago Opera House Block, back in 1881, this organization has prided itself on knowing and offering the best values.

The COCHRAN & McCLUER furnished apartments described below are worthy examples of this enviable tradition.

WHAT DOES
Spring Mean to You?

More than a mere new hat, we are sure. Why not live where you can enjoy growing, budding things—glorious trees and flowers and a host of outdoor recreations? Here's the spot. Just a step to famous Lincoln Park. Charming apartments, too. Lots of ventilation. Tile bath, arch doors. Gas, light and refrigeration free. Full service.

1½-2 ROOMS FROM $45.

[2520 N.] Mohawk 1827. Mr. Keil.

Who Likes Large Closets

Look no farther. Here is closet space that will delight you. But that's not all—no indeed. One of the finest apt. buildings in the Lincoln Park district, with an entrance plaza and parkway. Airy and light on all sides. Reception halls. Baths with shower. Gas, light and refrigeration furnished. A quiet pleasant neighborhood, yet close to everything. In fact there's a school right nearby.

ONE THING THAT Doesn't "Go Out"

Fads may come and fads may go, but the vogue of period furniture is lasting. Why? Because it's fundamentally right—both comfortable and good to look at. Contrasting with the exquisite early American furnishings here is the ultra-modern built in radio found in each apt. Near lake and beach. Half block to L Solarium for use of guests. Full hotel service. BEDROOM APTS. AS LOW AS $60.

SOLUTION TO THE MORRISEY CASE

When he first addressed Nell with the remark, "You're the first arrest in the Morrisey case," she replied, "I don't know anything about his murder."

Had she not possessed at least guilty knowledge of the affair she could not have known that Morrisey had been murdered.

CROWD OF 25,000 CHEERS AS CHICAGO CUBS DEFEAT ST. LOUIS CARDINALS, 3-0, IN OPENING GAME OF NATIONAL LEAGUE SEASON; LON WARNEKE IS STAR. Scene at Wrigley field on the north side yesterday as baseball came back for another year. This picture was taken in the first inning, with the Cubs on the field and the Cards batting. The Cubs were victors largely because Lon Warneke, leading pitcher of the National league last year, held the Cardinals to four hits. The crowd of 25,000 did not fill the mammoth park but displayed the proper enthusiasm as backers of the league champions. (Story on page 21.)
